The faculty of the College of Business Administration yesterday overwhelmingly approved in principle a plan to institute an honor system in some of the college's classes.

The fundamentals of an honor system were given to the faculty for their consideration by the committee on academic

Kendall Wins Eng Council Presidency

Alton Kendall, junior in engineering science from Reading, was elected president of the Engineering and Architecture Student Council last night over Juri Niiler, junior in science from Fombell and present council recording secretary.

Robert Parsky, junior in architecture from Philipsburg, took the position of vice president over Walter Scott, junior in electrical engineering from Harrisburg.

Two offices were uncontested. The post of treasurer went to Jerome Karp, sophomore in industrial engineering from Rochester, N.Y. Monte Montgomery, junior in industrial engineering from Kane was elected recording secretary unopposed.

Corresponding secretary is Ted McLaughlin, junior in industrial engineering who won over freshman Kim Packard.

An amendment to the constitution was approved providing for eight members-at-large from the freshman class instead of one representative from each curriculum.

The change will be necessary next year when a department curriculum change which designates all freshmen as simply engineering majors, goes into effect. Freshmen in architecture and architectural engineering will still have one general representative.

The council voted to hold sophomore elections in the fall along with freshman elections so that one sophomore can be elected from each engineering curriculum.

Abba Polangin, sophomore in architectural engineering from Sharon, was appointed head of a committee to investigate the possible hazardous condition of the moveable bleachers in Recreation Hall.

U. of Wisconsin Lauds O'Brien

The Department of Speech at the University of Wisconsin has passed a resolution eulogizing Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking here at the University until his death on Feb. 14.

The resolution stated that he "long served with distinction his University and his profession. He was a prime mover in establishing the University as a center of scholarship in speech. Over a period of many years his writings have appeared in virtually every publication of the Speech Association of America and there is scarcely a library in the United States that does not include his name in its card catalogue.

"Great, also, was his impact on his students and on his many friends who remember him as an inquiring, energetic, and witty man."

Format a Flop, Froth Will Copy Men's Magazine

Froth, unable to make a success of its own format, will attempt to copy that of another magazine in its parody issue—"Mugget"—out today.

"The Foolish Gentlemen" will also have three (count 'em) Froth girls of the month.

A special travel article on Bellefonte (of special interest to coeds in the South Halls suburb) is also included.

Froth salesmen, easily recognized by their beady eyes and manicured fingernails, will be purveying their wares all over campus today to the disgust of the intellectual element.

Orchestra Named For 'P. J. Game'

The orchestra has been named for the Thespian production of "The Pajama Game" March 20, 21 and 22 in Schwab Auditorium.

Members of the orchestra are:

Violins, George Bukes, Joyce Bergdoll and Sarah Stein; cello, Henrietta Hertzog; clarinets and sax, Todd Coward, Laverne Miller and Lester Stauffer; flute, Bonnie Walters; bassoon, Joseph Devivo; bass, Fred Myers; trombones, Eugene Margerum and Samuel Parsons; trumpets, Norman Brenehen, Lynn Kiehl and Harold Stasch; piano, Judith Thomson; percussion, tympani, Ronald Kolb; drums, Kenneth Kuhn.

The entire production is under the direction of Stuart Kahan. The stage manager is Thomas Fitzpatrick and the set design and technical adviser is George Cavey.

The play was adapted from the book by George Abbott and Richard Bissell. The music and lyrics were written by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross. There are two acts and 18 scenes in the play and over 16 musical numbers and two large dances are included in those two acts. Also included is the "Steam Heat" dance.

Tickets will go on sale Monday at the Hetzel Union desk.

honesty of the Business Administration Student Council. The committee's report was based on the findings and suggestions of the Subcommittee on Academic Honesty of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs.

David H. McKinley, assistant dean of the college, said he believed the honor system will "get further if we are very specific and tackle individual courses; with the initiative force being the faculty instructors and the department heads."

McKinley also felt that the student council's present committee could act in a pro-formal committee way until a basis for an honor system has been worked out.

Rules for the system will have to be based on the Senate committee's recommendations as adopted by the Senate on Nov. 7 and Dec. 5, 1957.

The subcommittee's report provides the following before the plan may go into effect:

- The plan receive the approval of the faculty in the department in which the course is offered.

- The department head for the course approve the plan.

- Eighty-five per cent of the students in the course to be conducted under the honor code give their written approval of the system.

- The plan receive the approval of the dean of the college in which the course is offered.

- The University Senate approve the plan.

The subcommittee's report provides for the separate—proctored—testing of those students who do not wish to participate in the honor system.

The plan as McKinley sees it will have to start at the individual course level and slowly spread to cover the department. Eventual acceptance by the entire upper-class segment of the college is the ultimate aim.

Sing Clinic Planned Tonight For IFC-Panhel Songleaders

A songleaders' clinic will be held tonight for the 21 fraternities and 14 sororities entered in the IFC-Panhel Sing to be held during Greek Week.

The clinic is open to songleaders and one other representative from each group.

The fraternity clinic will be held from 8 to 8:45 p.m. in 200 Carnegie and will be lead by Frank Gullo, director of the Men's Glee Club. Dr. W. Paul Campbell, director of the Women's Chorus, will conduct the sorority clinic from 8:45 to 9:30 p.m. in the Hetzel Union assembly hall.

The sing preliminaries will be held April 14 and 15 in Schwab Auditorium.

Theta Xi is a new entry in the sing. Nancy Siftar, sing co-chairman, said that if groups still wish to enter, the committee will try to obtain more music.

Gullo said the clinics are being held to give direction techniques to the songleaders and to correct common chorus singing pitfalls.

The required songs—"When Good Men Sing" for fraternities and "Evening Reverie" for sororities—will be sung at the clinics and hints on directing will be given, Gullo said.

MS Prof Will Speak

J. J. Comer, associate professor of mineral sciences, will speak at a metallurgy seminar on "The Electron Microscope as a Tool for Studying Surfaces" at 4:10 p.m. today in 317 Willard.

O'Casey Likes Best 'Lincoln and Theatre'

"Abraham Lincoln and the theatre"—a tour of Washington, D.C. and New York City—were the high spots of a trek across the United States according to Shivaun O'Casey who made her first tour of America as a member of the Dublin Players.

Miss O'Casey, 18-year-old daughter of playwright Sean O'Casey, said she was a little nonplussed by the whole thing, the tour had gone so fast. Her father, who wrote "Juno and the Paycock"—the play presented by the Dublin Players at Schwab Auditorium Saturday—and her mother, actress Eileen Casey, thought it was a good idea for her to make the tour. They felt it was a "good chance to see a great country."

Miss O'Casey served as assistant stage manager to the Dublin Players and also played a small role in the play.

She said she does not consider herself an actress and that her mother and father wanted her to be a doctor.

While in New York City, Miss O'Casey saw several Broadway and off-Broadway productions. These included: "A Long Day's Journey into Night," "My Fair Lady" (which she termed "a great evening"), readings from "I Knock at the Door," "Purple Dust" and "Romanoff and Juliet."

Miss O'Casey said she has not attended the theatre in Ireland or England very many times, but what she had seen she believes American musicals are much more lavish in their staging than English productions.

While in America Miss O'Casey bought and sent home to her father hats from different parts of the country. The hats had one thing in common—they were all bright, as her father loves them.

In describing the average day of a member of the Dublin Players when the group is on tour, Miss O'Casey said:

"We get up at 8 or 9 o'clock and climb into our bus. We ride to our next engagement, sometimes traveling up to 19 hours a day. Sometimes the bus breaks down. As a matter of fact it finally broke down for good in Freemont and we came up here by chartered bus.

"When we get to the town we are playing in, we go to the hotel, try to avoid the bellhops and then descend on the shops like a plague of locusts."

Miss O'Casey has managed to find time to do some sight-seeing between traveling and performing. In Lexington, Ky., she visited Stonewall Jackson's tomb and other monuments dealing with the famous Civil War general.

Shivaun O'Casey Playwright's Daughter

She also toured New York City and Washington, D.C., or as she puts it, "Abraham Lincoln and the theatre."

Nittany Lion Inn Manager to Retire

John D. Lee will retire as manager of the Nittany Lion Inn, effective July 1, according to University officials.

Previously an employee with the Norwich Inn, Norwich, Conn., Lee came to the campus in April 1932. The Inn was opened to the public in September 1931.

No replacement was announced.
