Seniors and the Recession

'Quality' Stressed For Job Seekers

Third of a Series
"Quality" and "selectivity" are two terms most job recruiters are speaking of this year.

This may mean for the senior more work in seeking work. A representative of Pittsburgh Plate Glass, for example, said that while his company's needs are certainly not down, it is being "more selective this year."

He said there is always opportunity for "outstanding people."

Sam Rinn of the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. said his company has the same needs as last year—about 250 technical graduates—but that recruiting will be "a little more selective."

Other recruiters express the same sentiment.

At first, this seems to be a contradiction. That is, if needs are only slightly down, as most of the recruiters say, how then can the hiring firms be so selective?

An answer may be seen in the comments of a representative from one of the companies hiring technical graduates. He said that many companies which had been hiring engineers heavily for the past four or five years are now slowing up their recruiting programs. Other companies, he said, which have constant or increased needs, now have a larger supply to draw from and can therefore be more selective.

Many students have said they suspect that companies interviewing this year are doing so, not to offer jobs but merely to maintain "good will."

However, Donald M. Cook, assistant director of the University Placement Service, said that the companies just "couldn't afford to do that."

Moreover, Cook said, his office is "discouraging employers who do not have job openings so as not to waste students' time."

As to pay, Cook said that salaries—which have been "out of hand"—will not be nearly so great.

He did not say they would be cut back, as erroneously reported in yesterday's Daily Collegian.

TIM Prexy Now Needs 2.4 Average

Town Independent Men Council has approved an amendment to its constitution which will require the president to have a 2.4 All-University average.

The original amendment as presented at a meeting two weeks ago required the president to have a 2.4 and all other officers a 2.2. This was amended to read as a 2.0 for all other officers.

When the question of the president's average was debated, it was suggested that action on this be postponed until after the council elections scheduled for March 26. This was defeated.

The amendment to set the president's average at 2.4 was approved by a vote of 21 to 4 with 3 abstentions. It was pointed out that the 2.4 would be necessary if TIM were given a seat on Cabinet.

In other action Wednesday night Charles Bartholomew, sophomore in aeronautical engineering from Allentown, was nominated for the presidency of TIM Council; Donald Mosher, junior in recreation education from Erie, and Louis Testen, junior in business administration from Kingston, were nominated for the vice presidency.

Charles Garman, junior in business administration from Morrisville, was nominated as secretary and Richard Wilt, junior in business administration from Parkland, was nominated as treasurer.

Donald Funk was appointed to fill the vacant TIM position on the Association of Independent Men Board of Governors and Charles Garman was elected to a newly-created TIM seat on the board.

The council also voted not to approve an additional appropriation of $100 to the AIM budget for sending two students to the National Independent Student Association convention at the University of Oklahoma.

Who," the little "black book," and other odds and ends about anybody and anything.

You never have to ask a coed if she'll date you, the grapevine, five fraternity brothers, ten other coeds, and a few other nonentities have already told you she doesn't like the way you part your hair, etc.

But there's one compensation for all this aggravation. If you have dated at this institution, you'll never meet a situation in the outer world you haven't already met at Penn State.
