

21-Second Fall Marks Intramural Mat Action

Jim MacLaughlin, Sigma Nu's speedy 145-pounder, put on a quick, impressive display of grappling prowess in last night's intramural wrestling competition when he pinned Kenny Houck, Chi Phi, in 21 seconds of the first period.

Immediately after referee Sam Minor signalled the start of the match, the boys started grappling. MacLaughlin pancaked his opponent, drove for the cradle and Houck found himself looking at the lights.

John Janetka, Delta Theta Sigma, won a close decision over Lance Liebl, Pi Kappa Alpha, in the evening's 121-pound battle. Janetka shot for Liebl's legs and scored a takedown early in the first period, but from then on in it was a see-saw match. Liebl racked up a time advantage point and followed it up with an escape. But this was not enough to defeat the speedy Janetka and as the bout neared its end Janetka scored an escape and nailed down his victory.

Don Dolecki, Sigma Chi's 145-pounder, turned in an outstanding performance as he pinned Dick Lutfy, Kappa Delta Rho. Dolecki, who was 135-pound king two years ago, was taken down by Lutfy early in the first period.

But Dolecki was not to be held down and he immediately reversed his opponent. As the second period began Dolecki again scored a reverse and within 35 seconds had pinned Lutfy with a body press.

Grove Elder, Delta Upsilon, recorded a victory over Art Kinsley, Phi Gamma Delta, in what proved to be the outstanding heavyweight bout of the night. Elder, last year's runner-up, methodically worked on and continually attempted to pin his opponent but Kinsley would have none of it and the contest ended with Elder on the winning end of a 4-0 decision.

Don Deckman, Delta Theta Sigma, pinned Manny Orfanon, Phi Kappa Tau, in the evening's outstanding 135-pound duel. The powerful Deckman had almost complete control over his game opponent and scored with a pancake takedown and a sit out reversal before pinning him 3 seconds before the end of the first period.

Terry Snyder, Delta Upsilon's standout 155-pounder, turned in a fine performance as he powered his way to victory over Bill Smith, Delta Sigma Phi. Smith put up an excellent battle but the seasoned Snyder scored a takedown in the first period and a sit out escape in the second to win the match by a 3-0 decision.

Foes, Referees, Coaches Debate 295-Pound Soph

I'd make him take off a couple of pounds and drop him down a weight." Doc, that's not what I meant.

Even fleet-footed Tony Stremic didn't know how to handle him. It was a farce watching Stremic run around the mat groping for one of Traendly's long legs—but the 295-pounder just kept dancing (and quite gracefully) out of reach. Stremic did pick up the leg twice, but was more bewildered than ever.

Referee Carl Frankett had his idea on the big boy: "He ought to be in a professional troupe." The crowd at the Field House numbered the usually small 4000 for Pitt. But Pitt sports publicity director Beano Cook had his explanation for Penn State's draw: "The only reason wrestling draws at State is because of your basketball team." Guess Pitt still doesn't like the zone.

Again the press corps from State College dominated the working section at the Field House. The way we counted it (including all around analyst Toretti) the number was eight.

Most of the crowd thought Guy Guccione should have been awarded three-points (escape-takedown) on his big move against Gratto.

Referee Lynn King explained it this way: "I didn't give him the one point for an escape because I gave him two for the reverse." You see, it was one continuous move. He didn't stop for the escape point. If he would have, he wouldn't have gotten the two points because he needed all that momentum to 'pancake' Gratto.

"But your boy (Guccione) sure looked tough. I'd say it was the best I've seen him . . . That was a great match."

Incidentally, a dejected Lehigh writer, Joe Clark, figured out that Lehigh could only take second place by a maximum of three points, and would probably wind up in third for the sixth straight year. "They own that place," commented Clark. Saturday they gave up the lease.

Seckler Cops Frosh 157-Pound Crown

By BILL JAFFE

Penn State freshman wrestler Jerry Seckler won the 157-pound wrestling championship at the annual freshman wrestling tourney held at the U.S. Military Academy over the weekend.

The Lion's Bob Gilmour placed second in the heavy-weight class while Bill Hardman and Neil Turner lost in the quarter-final round.

Frosh coach Dave Adams entered four men in the tourney which saw grapplers from 15 Eastern colleges competing for honors.

Seckler scored four decisions enroute to his crown. In the finals he decided Zowhowski, Rochester Institute of Technology, 10-3. Last year, Seckler defeated Daly to win the Lehigh Prep School Tourney.

Gilmour was pinned in the finals by Penn's Bob Smith. Smith led 2-0 at the time of the fall. Gilmour downed Army's Lynch, 4-0, in the semi-final round and topped a Colgate opponent 4-3 in the quarter-finals.

At 147-pounds, Turner lost to Kennedy, Rochester, in the quarter-final round. Pitt's John Zolikoff won the championship by defeating F&M Neil DeLozier, a former Dist. 6 champion, in the final round.

Hardman won his first match at 137-pounds when he decided Tom Smith of Paul Smith College, an upper New York state school, 7-0. He was eliminated by Army's Marion, 15-7, in the Friday evening quarter-finals.

Blue
Blazers!

What is our most popular Penn State fashion tradition? Sneakers? Crew necks? Saddle shoes? Alligator raincoats? NO! A blue blazer with antique brass buttons is our most popular fashion tradition. Danks is now featuring these blue blazers fashioned from imported wool complete with brass buttons for just $24.95.

Another fine buy for spring would be one of our pin-stripe polished cotton blazers. The price—just $19.95.

We have ivy model sports jackets in checks, tweeds, herringbone, ivy stripes, plus many others for just $24.95 and $29.95.

If you're looking for a suit come into Danks. We have suits by Englishtown in all wool, stripes, herringbones, flannels, plus many others. These suits can serve a dual purpose because the coat can serve as a sport jacket due to the pattern of the coat.

We have all the accessories to complete your wardrobe, featuring such names as Hickok belts, Arrow shirts, Botany and Wembley ties, and Sportsman toiletries etc.

Now's the time to come in and choose something new to wear for IFC weekend. A blue blazer would be ideal for Saturday morning and afternoon.

Remember—A walk around the corner on to W. Beaver Ave. will always save you money.
