

Cabinet Will Air Recall, Initiative

An amendment to add referendum, recall and initiative to the Student Government Association Constitution, backed by a petition to place the amendment on next week's spring elections ballot, will be presented to All-University Cabinet tonight.

Daniel Thalimer, a member of the Campus party platform committee which drew up the amendment, said he could see "absolutely no reason" why the petition would not be approved and the amendment placed on the ballot.

The petition on the amendment, to be presented at tonight's Cabinet meeting at 7 in 203 Hetzel Union, has been signed by "well over" the two per cent necessary to petition for an amendment to the constitution, Thalimer said.

John Rhodes, All-University vice president, said the petition will not necessarily be voted on tonight. He said Cabinet is permitted by its constitution to postpone the petition for up to 30 days before considering it.

"Someone might move to postpone the petition because it could easily be construed as a political move," Rhodes said. He said that if the petition is found to be valid, however, it must be put on the Cabinet agenda within 30 days.

Thalimer said the petition "fulfills all the requirements in the present constitution," and Cabinet should place the proposals on next week's elections ballot.

The present constitution, Thalimer said, requires an amendment to be put to a student vote if it is petitioned by two per cent of the student body.

The amendment provides for: ●Referendum—a petition signed by ten per cent of the student body would require any Cabinet legislation to be put to a student vote for approval. After the vote the decision of the students could be reversed only by a unanimous vote of Cabinet.

●Recall—impeachment proceedings could be begun against any person elected in a popular student election with a petition signed by 25 per cent of those students eligible to vote for that officer. The impeachment procedure for removal from office already is provided for in the constitution.

●Initiative—legislation could be presented to Cabinet with a petition signed by two per cent of the student body. The amendment also provides that Cabinet would have to act on the legislation within 30 days.

Parking Group Rejects Plans to Save PiLam

The State College Parking Authority yesterday rejected two proposals by Perry H. Gentzel which would have allowed the use of parking on his property without dispossessing Pi Lambda Phi fraternity members.

He first offered to continue, for five years, operation of his present parking lot adjacent to the house now occupied by the fraternity as a private enterprise without any expense whatsoever to the borough or the authority.

Gentzel then offered as an alternative, a proposal that the authority should rent the parking lot for $350 a month. The authority could then install meters and run the lot, according to Gentzel.

He said he also would be willing to lease the present PiLam house to the authority if they made other suitable arrangements with the fraternity.

He said he took into consideration in asking for this arrangement the facts that University authorities "are very anxious that this house be maintained as a fraternity house and that the fraternity itself is anxious that additional changes be made so that its facilities are increased."

In a public statement, Gentzel claimed that the borough, after taking over his property, would make the lot available to only 30 cars, a decrease of half the number of present spots.

The authority said the 30 car estimate that Gentzel referred to was that of a private parking lot equipment salesman and that the authority had figured on room for about 60 cars.

Gentzel pointed to a provision of the Parking Authority Law of Pennsylvania calling for authorities to cooperate with all existing parking facilities, "so that private enterprise and government may mutually provide adequate parking services" for the public.

"My parking lot is entirely a private enterprise and does not cost the taxpayers of the borough one cent," said Gentzel. "In fact I pay taxes on this lot, which is more than the authority will do since it is tax exempt."

Gentzel said he personally paid for the construction of the parking lot as well as personnel and supervision and "was now willing to continue to cooperate with the borough and the authority in furnishing parking services."

"I do not see why this property," he continued, "now used for parking, should be condemned for parking."

In rejecting the offers, the authority left the door open for further negotiations by asking for a more concrete proposal.

However, the body felt, on the advice of their bond counsel and consulting engineers, that renting of any property for parking would be out of the question.

The solicitor said that the condemnation proceedings would still be continued but the courts have currently not yet appointed the Board of Viewers necessary to appraise the property according to the eminent domain proceedings that were started.

Rade Gets Fine Of $200, Pro For 5 Years

Stephen Rade, 20, former student in business administration from Philadelphia, was sentenced to five years probation, and was ordered to pay costs and a $200 fine and make restitution on a charge of accessory to forgery Tuesday in Centre County court.

Rade and Stephen Schulman, 19, Philadelphia, were sentenced for passing illegal checks in State College last October. Schulman was sentenced to pay costs, a $50 fine, make restitution on a worthless check and pay costs, and a $50 fine for forgery. He was also placed on probation for five years.

Both men have been receiving treatment in the Philadelphia Psychiatric Hospital. They were convicted Dec. 11 on the forgery charge and committed to a hospital.

Judge William W. Litke, presiding judge at the time, said examination showed the men suffered "anti-social behavior patterns." They pleaded guilty Oct. 28 to passing 10 forged checks of $15 each. Rade also was charged with filing identification numbers from a pistol.

'The Pajama Game' to Open Tonight

Thespians will present the opening performance of "The Pajama Game" at 7:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

Ticket sales for opening night and the performances at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at 2 p.m. Saturday have been rapid.

Jay Werner, eastern gymnastics champion, and Steve Fishbein, local disc jockey, will be "featured personalities." Fishbein will play the part of the First Helper who gets "socked" by the superintendent Sid Sorokin. Werner will dance and do gymnastic stunts in the "Once-a-Year Day" picnic scene.

The orchestra will number 21 pieces, including a full percussion section which is not ordinarily used in a Thespian production. The sets are large; one of them reaching 14 feet in height. A variety of techniques in lighting and sound are being used.

The number "Hernando's Hideaway" has been set up by Director Stuart Kahan as something "exceptionally interesting." This is one of 18 musical numbers in the two-act production. There are also three major dances included, one of which is the "steam heat" dance.

A 7½-CENT RAISE seems to be the major problem in the Broadway musical, "Pajama Game," being presented by Thespians tonight, tomorrow and Saturday in Schwab Auditorium. Some of the cast members are planning how to get the raise. Standing are Barbara Kinnier and Sylvia Guyer. Kneeling are Nina Baker and Larry Jacobson.

Ike Favors Extension Of Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors who held an hour-long conference at the White House Wednesday reported the Eisenhower Administration wants to finance an additional 13 weeks of unemployment compensation out of a federal fund.

This approach was outlined to reporters by Republican Gov. Goodwin Knight of California.

Knight and Democratic Govs. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Orval Faubus of Arkansas talked of the financing as being federal grants but a high administration official said the plan, which is an involved one, is actually a form of loans.

Any outright grant plan has been described as repugnant to Secretary of Welfare Folsom on the grounds it would amount to extreme New Dealism.

Money for unemployment compensation now comes from a federal payroll tax on employers, ranging up to three per cent of the payroll. The rate can be lowered from state to state as an incentive for employers to maintain employment.

Many workers have now exhausted their benefits and there has been bipartisan agitation to carry them along. Reps. John W. McCormack (D.-Mass.) and Wilbur D. Mills (D.-Ark.) have introduced a bill calling for the federal government to finance benefits for an additional 16 weeks. Benefit periods vary, being 26 weeks in most states.

Before the meeting opened, Eisenhower called for faster spending of $2¼ billion already contemplated for a variety of projects.

Also, the House whipped through and sent to the White House a $1.85 billion housing bill expected to create 500,000 or more jobs.

These two antirecession moves came a short time before Eisenhower's Wednesday meeting at the White House with a committee of governors on plans to extend Unemployment Compensation benefits a longer period.

In another step, the Army announced it will award 100 million dollars worth of contracts for trucks and trailers during the next 30 days. Nearly all of the work will be placed in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Lion Awaits Spring Tonight

"Well, I'm all set," gushed the Nittany Lion this morning.

"All set for what?" asked a puzzled reporter. "Why I'm all set for the start of spring. It comes in at 10:08 tonight and I can hardly wait to get my first case of spring fever. Oh, won't it just be peachy?"

The reporter found the Lion hard to disagree with, but pressed for the weather that will greet spring. "Well," said the Lion, trying to look as intellectual as possible. "I believe that we will have partly cloudy skies with a high of 40 to 45 degrees. I do not foresee precipitation in any way, shape, manner or form."
