

Prof Snarf Finalists Give Campaign Hopes

By BONNIE JONES

To most students the name of Professor Snarf brings to mind cartoonist Richard Bibler's stereotype of a snarling pedagogue, the type who puts students in concentration booths for bluebooks and drives spikes through the booth when they give a wrong answer.

Deep down, however, Snarf has a heart of gold, according to the World University Service which asked students to pick "Penn State's Most Lovable Prof—Our Prof Snarf" in a fund raising contest.

Proceeds from penny voting for finalists on the Mall Friday will aid students in underdeveloped countries.

Robert W. Green, assistant professor of history and Liberal Arts finalist, seemed a little dubious of his chances. "I think the odds would be more in my favor in the Ugly Man contest," he grinned.

Fred Tracy, assistant professor of physics and Chemistry and Physics nominee, said, "It's an honor, every morning when I walk into class I see 'Good morning prof Snarf' written on the blackboard."

F. A. Hummel, professor of ceramic technology, the Mineral Industries entry, expressed happiness over his selection: "I hope to conduct my classes so I may fully merit the recognition which has been heaped upon me."

Wallace E. White, professor of wood technology and William J. Page, assistant professor of education, Agriculture and Education candidates respectively, expressed hopes that the contest would be successful.

Carl P. Moss, associate professor of industrial engineering, Engineering and Architecture finalist, said "my candidacy has helped me relax tension in the classroom."

Workshop To Be Held By IFCPA

A workshop meeting for fraternity house managers, caterers and cooks will be held at 7 o.m. Thursday in 105 Osmond, opening a campaign for new members in the Interfraternity Council Purchasing Association.

The workshop will include discussions on the general IFCPA setup and advantages of the cooperative plan.

The association, which replaced the now-defunct Fraternity Marketing Association last fall, has 26 members.

Gerald Carlson, IFCPA senior boarder of Tau Kappa Epsilon, said the association grew to a $67,000 business from September to January, compared to only $16,000 which FMA handled after its first year.

David Tressler, out-going senior boarder of Tau Kappa Epsilon, reported that additional business since the start of this semester has increased the volume of business to $117,000.

Thus far, IFCPA has dealt mostly in meats and canned goods; however, Carlson said, it plans soon to include baked goods, linen supplies, hardware, chinaware, fresh produce and paper supplies by the fall semester.

Gifford Phillips, State College insurance man and non-student member of the IFCPA Board of Control, estimated that next year the association will be a $250,000 business.

The purchasing group is operated by a board of control composed of students and non-students.

Norton to Present Lecture on Latrobe

The third lecture of the current Liberal Arts Series will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks by Dr. Paul F. Norton, who will speak on "Benjamin H. Latrobe—An Essay on Norton, associate professor of the history of art and architecture."

Norton, a specialist in English and American architecture of late 18 and early 19th centuries, has made a special study of Latrobe, regarded as one of the most distinguished of early American architects, and will base his lecture on a manuscript essay by Latrobe which, it is said, reveals the genius of his art.

Latrobe's works included complete control of the design and construction of the United States Capitol from 1803 to 1812 and from 1815 to 1817.

He worked on the design of the White House, made suggestions to Thomas Jefferson for the design of the University of Virginia and as an engineer contributed to the development of canals and turnpikes and to the general industrialization of the country.

Latrobe was the originator of the Greek Revival style in the United States, and it is his sketches of the American scene which offer a vivid and faithful record of the early years of the country.

Norton has had writings in such publications as the "Art Bulletin," "Journal of the Society of Architecture," "Actes du Congres International d'Histoire de l'Art," and many other highly rated magazines.

He has also written on both the history of architecture and the Italian Renaissance.

He is part-author of a volume on Nassau Hall at Princeton University and was the recipient of a Fulbright Research Fellowship to England in 1953.

Skull and Bones Cards Available in Old Main

Sixth-semester students with at least a 2.0 All-University average may fill out activity cards for Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society, at the dean of men's office.

Permanent Housemother Move Gains

Phi Sigma Delta, Beta Theta Pi and Delta Sigma Phi have obtained permanent housemothers, raising the total of resident housemothers in fraternities to 15.

The new housemothers are Mrs. Miriam Hurvitz, Phi Sigma Delta; Mrs. Ruth Lermann, Beta Theta Pi; and Mrs. Isobel Davis, Delta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Davis, of Berkelev, Mich., is a mother of five children, one a student at the University. She is a former private nurse.

Mrs. Lermann, of Monessen, served as a hostess in Thompson Hall last semester and began this semester as an Atherton Hall hostess. Mrs. Hurvitz is a former resident of Punxsutawney.

O. Edward Pollock, assistant to the dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, said several other houses are planning to obtain resident housemothers.

Phi Gamma Delta is building an addition to its house which will include a new housemother's suite.

Pollock said that five years ago the University set a policy that all fraternities should have permanent residence housemothers.

"We have been working toward that goal but it is definitely not compulsory," Pollock said. "We will possibly have one or two more this fall."

Theatre Group To Give Play

Five O'Clock Theatre will present the first performance of "Sketch of a Sad Summer," a one-act play by David Stekol, at 5 p.m. today in the Little Theatre in Old Main.

The play is one of memories, telling the story of a young student's summer job at a seaside resort.

Gardner Tillson, graduate student in theatre arts, will direct today's production. The cast is made up of Paula Zeller, Helen Cummings, Marilyn Roberts, Linda Lerza, George Cavey and Joseph Servello.

Dean Ayre and William Kotzwinkle will manage technical direction.

Drinking--

Another section of the ordinance makes it illegal for a student to falsify his age in an attempt to purchase intoxicating beverages, and carries with it the same fine.

The concern over the minor drinking, Perkins said, is not caused primarily by freshmen. The tavern owners are disturbed because the students are minors, he explained, and many students above the freshman class are minors.
