

Engle Pleased with Spring Grid Drills 'Up to This Point'

"We're satisfied with the progress of the team up to this point," grid coach Rip Engle said in his office yesterday morning when questioned about Penn State's spring football drills, "but there's still lots of room for improvement."

"Actually," the old Grey Eagle (as he has been aptly nicknamed) continued, "it's too early to tell just what we have. We're still looking for the best 33 men and we're doing a lot of experimenting."

"We had a real tough scrimmage last Saturday, but no one was really impressive. (Engle was referring to a Blue-White game held on Beaver Field Saturday afternoon.) The movies we took (Ray Conger was at it again) will help us to point out our mistakes, but I wouldn't want to single out any individual for praise until we get a couple more scrimmages in."

That scrimmage game was sort of a prelude to the "climactic" intra-squad Blue-White tilt held on the final day of spring drills. Engle divided his 80-odd candidates into six teams, with the first, fourth and fifth on the White team and the second, third and sixth on the Blues. The Whites won the high-scoring affair 38-36, after losing by a 22-10 count early in the afternoon.

Nine veterans held spots on the White first team, including six regulars from last year's starting varsity. Al Jacks handled the signal-calling duties with Dave Kasperian and Eddie Caye at the halves and last year's starting right half Andy Moconyi at fullback. Captain Steve Garban anchored the line flanked at the guards by a couple of transplanted vets, Charlie Ruslayage—ex-center—and Bill Wehmer—an ex-tackle. Lettermen Andy Stynchula and Joe Bohart were in the tackle slots with John Bozik and Norm Neff—the only non-vets in the lineup—at the wings.

Veteran Richie Lucas quarterbacked the first Blue team, using the running services of letterman Bruce Gilmore and freshman Jim Kerr at halves and veteran Pat Botula at full.

Dick Wilson, a transfer from the Citadel who sat out last season, manned the pivot slot with veteran Bud Kohlhas and freshman Jake Shaffer at the guards; lettermen Tom Mulraney and Chuck Janerette at the tackles; and ex-fullback Maury Schleicher and frosh Stu Barber at the ends.

Another dress rehearsal is on tap Saturday.

Bainbridge, Decker Spark Golfing Win

the year, Reilly waged an uphill battle that ended three feet behind a bush. After 15 holes, the Lion captain was two-down in his match with Penn's Don Warbury. Reilly birdied the 16th, halved the 17th and came to the 18th one down. His second shot landed behind the bush, and that was it. Warbury won the last hole and the match, 2-up.

Reilly had already beaten the Wildcats' Joe Louis, 3-1, for his third win of the year.

Johnny Felus maintained his .500 pace, losing to Ralph Bennett (P), 2 up, and swamping Ron Zurinkas (V), 5-4. Felus' record now stands at 2-2.

Six of eight undergraduate colleges and six of 11 sports were represented on Penn State's athletic honor roll last Fall.

Eight of twenty athletes cited for scholarship achievement at Penn State last Fall were baseball players.

ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil

Oil helps create a new world of fashion

BULKY KNIT BY GRETA PLATTRY

A fine wool sweater owes much of its lovely look to a special oil developed by Esso Research. By lubricating the threads during knitting, it helps them mesh together smoothly and evenly. After knitting, the oil is easily removed. Without oils like this, the springy texture and intricate designs of today's fashionable woollens wouldn't be possible. Again ESSO RESEARCH works wonders with oil.
