

Parade Tonight to Herald 'Little International' Show

The Block and Bridle Club's annual livestock parade tonight will herald the 41st annual Little International Livestock Exposition, which will be held tomorrow.

The exposition, sponsored by the club and the Department of Animal Husbandry, is dedicated posthumously to Paul Stone, an outstanding member of the livestock and meat judging teams when he was a student at the University.

2 Councils For, 1 Against Referendum

The Education and Chemistry-Physics Student Councils have both endorsed the referendum plan that came before All-University Cabinet last night, and the Agriculture Student Council has opposed it.

However, the Agriculture Student Council voted to favor it if the percentages to initiate and to pass a referendum vote are raised.

The members felt higher percentages would get more students to participate in campus affairs. They also said a small percentage of students could be led by a "fanatic" group.

Big-little sisters have been selected by the Education Student Council and will be notified soon. There will be a mass meeting for all education big sisters to explain their duties and purposes and to outline procedures to be followed in the program.

The deadline for applications for outstanding senior awards was extended by the Education Student Council. Faculty members and seniors have been urged to nominate qualified seniors in education for these awards, which will be given at a banquet May 21.

The Agriculture Student Council voted to appoint a committee to investigate the possibility of having council members rather than hat societies counsel freshmen in agriculture during orientation week.

The Agriculture Council also voted a $25 donation to the World University Service.

Library Shows Latrobe's Plans

A selection of writings on early American architect B. H. Latrobe is on display in the second floor of the Pattee Library.

The writings were done by Dr. Paul F. Norton, associate professor of art and architectural history.

The display contains pictures of Latrobe's designs for the National Capitol in Washington, the Baltimore Cathedral and Old West at Dickinson College.

It also shows Latrobe's plans for a structure where frigates could be put "in mothballs."

An original letter from Latrobe is included in the display.

Customs Board to Hold Additional Interviews

Persons who applied for an appointment on the Freshman Customs Board and did not receive a notice will meet tonight in the lounge on the second floor of the Hetzel Union Building.

Women will report at 7 p.m. and men at 7:30 p.m.

The livestock parade tonight will begin at the sheep barn on Ag Hill and travel up College Avenue.

The twilight display will feature the Menzie Dairy Belgian Hitch, the Pepsi Cola Pony Hitch, University horses, and two wagon loads of livestock from the "topnotch" University herds.

Preliminary judging at the livestock show will begin at 8 a.m. tomorrow. The judges will be Tom Merritt of Ohio State University, fitting and showmanship of beef cattle and horses; Clifford Brendon of Purdue University, swine; and Elton Tait, extension radio editor at the University, sheep.

Agriculture students drew animals more than a month ago which they are fitting in preparation for the show. Livestock to be shown include 46 beef cattle, 26 swine, 24 sheep and 4 horses, all selected from the University herds and flocks.

Special events of the show will include a barrel-riding contest, sire exhibition, pony hitch, Menzie Dairy Hitch, and a sheep dog demonstration by Carroll Shaffner, University shepherd.

The final event of the day will be a banquet in the Hetzel Union Building, where trophies and awards will be presented to the winners and outstanding contestants.

Other officers are James Durham, first vice president; Robert Johnson, second vice president; James Knipe, third vice president; Michael Clark, treasurer; Bernard Klem, recording secretary; William Service, corresponding secretary; Michael Lazorchak, historian; Kenneth Louis, alumni secretary; and Robert McCarron, sergeant at arms.

Installation of new officers will be held May 12.

APhiO Elects New Officers

Other officers are James Durham, first vice president; Robert Johnson, second vice president; James Knipe, third vice president; Michael Clark, treasurer; Bernard Klem, recording secretary; William Service, corresponding secretary; Michael Lazorchak, historian; Kenneth Louis, alumni secretary; and Robert McCarron, sergeant at arms.

Installation of new officers will be held May 12.

Collegian Promotes Five Reporters

The Board of Editors-elect of The Daily Collegian has promoted five students to the Board of Advanced Reporters.

They are Diane Dieck, Janet Durstine, Neal Friedman, Lois Neubarth and Jeffrey Pollack.

The promotions are effective Monday.

Gedeckle Quartet to Play On Hubzapoppin Tonight

The Walt Gedeckle Quartet will make its first appearance on the Hubzapoppin show from 8 to 8:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union auditorium.

Speech Festival To End With Prose, Drama

The tenth annual speech festival will end today with prose and drama programs.

This morning's program will begin at 9:30 and the afternoon program at 1 p.m., both in the Mineral Science Auditorium.

Included in the prose selections will be writings of James Thurber, Stephen Vincent Benet, Ernest Hemingway and Sherwood Anderson. Dramatic selections of John Steinbeck, Thornton Wilder, John Dryden and Samuel Beckett will be read during the afternoon program.

Representing the University at the festival are Elizabeth Harned, poetry; Floyd Santoro, prose, and Kenneth Williams, miscellaneous. Students from Geneva College, Slippery Rock and Indiana State Teachers Colleges, Seton Hill College and several centers are also participating in the festival.

The festival, sponsored by the Speech Department, is under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Nesbitt and Dr. William Hamilton, assistant professors of speech.

Little Elected Head Of Biology Society

H. Franklin Little, graduate student in zoology and entomology from Montoursville, has been elected president of Phi Sigma, biological sciences society.

Other officers are Lester Bower, vice president; Adele Reytar, secretary; James Probst, treasurer, and Ruth Ott, editor.

Dr. Charles E. Raven, former vice chancellor of Cambridge University and personal chaplain to Queen Elizabeth, spoke to the group following a business meeting.

Lowenfeld Cites Handicapped Needs

The importance of the education of the handicapped as well as the gifted in a time of crisis was emphasized by Viktor Lowenfeld, professor and head of the department of art education, speaking at the recent International Council for Exceptional Children convention in Kansas City, Mo.

After discussing the importance of developing the faculties of the gifted, he turned to the major topic of his address which dealt with a method of therapy specific to the means of art education.

Prof Attends Meeting; Arranges for 'Day Care'

Dr. Winona L. Morgan, professor and head of the Child Development and Family Relationships department, met with members of the State Department of Welfare in Sunbury yesterday.

She was making arrangements for a Day Care Center to be held in Northumberland County this summer to care for children of migrant agricultural workers.

Speeding was blamed for 13,200 deaths on U.S. highways in 1957.

WSGA Will Discuss Dorm Judicial Group

The formation of a judicial group or "House Council" in each residence hall to discuss minor offenses of Women's Student Government Association rules will be recommended at the next WSGA Senate meeting.

The statement was made by Susanne Smith, former president of WSGA. The proposed council would be a board consisting of the residence hall president; vice president, who would be chairman; secretary; treasurer, and floor representatives. Hostesses would be ex-officio members.

The WSGA Judicial Board would hear major offenses and would act as a court of appeals.

Miss Smith outlined the plan after her committee on constitution revision discussed the idea at WSGA retreat Wednesday night.

The committee also will recommend that an additional senior senator be added to Senate. There is now one senior senator.

The committee on evaluation of future WSGA projects will recommend that WSGA publish its own newsletter to further acquaint women students with WSGA.

A committee of Jane Ingley, Phoebe Humphrey, Jessie Janjigian, and Nancy Clark was appointed to screen applicants for WSGA Senate parliamentarian at the regular meeting of WSGA Senate following the retreat. The committee will present four candidates to Senate.

Eng Prof Writes Magazine Article

"Professional Education for Automation Engineers," by Chester Linsky, associate professor of industrial engineering in charge of the automation program, appears in the April issue of "The Tool Engineer."

Linsky's article describes the potential academic program for engineers interested in preparing themselves for automation. It describes both professional programs and individual courses required to prepare engineers for this growing field.

Runaway Boy Returns Home

The 12-year-old son of a University professor returned home safely Wednesday afternoon after spending Tuesday night in the woods near Pine Grove Mills.

John LeFrancois, son of Mr. and Mrs. John LeFrancois, an associate professor of research engineering, returned home "very hungry," but uninjured, his mother said.

He did not return home after the close of school Tuesday. He is a sixth grader in the elementary wing of the new College Area Joint School.

His mother attributed his running away to a low grade he received on a mathematics assignment which he handed in as homework Monday.
