

Float Parade to Be Televised; 'Athletics' Open Spring Week

Students and viewers in Altoona and Lancaster will be able to watch western, quiz and panel, plus police and detective floats depicting a larger amassing of talent than any TV spectacular on the air waves when the float parade starts at 6 p.m. Monday.

Miss Penn State finalists, informally dressed and riding in sports cars, will start the parade in front of Boucke Building where the University will make the pickup for WFBG-TV of Altoona.

Two drum majorettes from the State College High School will then step out with a banner announcing the category of western shows. The western floats will be preceded by the Air Force ROTC band.

Scenes will range from grizzly prospectors panning gold by a mountain stream to a piano player plunking out rinky-tink in a dance hall.

Zorro, Annie Oakley and her sister "Fanny," the Lone Ranger, Tonto, "Limp Along Catastrophe," and Wyatt Earp caught by Expose magazine are a few of the roo-tin'-tootin' cowboys who will "paint up" Pollock Road with color.

A horse-drawn covered wagon, and later a patent medicine wagon will roll by.

Besides floats employing live horses, the "big fellow" Silver will prance by in papier mache. One cowboy will even ride by on a rocket ship and another clad in a toga will be atop a 20-foot-high Trojan horse.

To complete the T.V. picture, a "Commercial" float will carry a mammoth box of cereal.

After westerns, two more drum majorettes and the Navy ROTC bands will announce the panel and quiz show category. Most floats will house panels such as "I've Got a Secret," "Masquerade Party," and "You'll Get Yours," and a pint-sized pie-throwing "Juvenile Jury."

On the "Strike it Rich" float there will be a large red heart and treasure chest. Cinderella seated atop a satin slipper will be serenaded on "Cinderella Weekend."

More majorettes and the Army ROTC band will lead off the last category, police and detective shows.

Observers will be able to tune in on 11 floats and glimpse all kinds of cops and robbers, under the protection of a float carrying a goddess of justice weighing the uneven balance of men to women students on her scales.

Sherlock Holmes will be on hand to track down the "Golden Garter," and he'll be smoking a dry ice pipe on another float.

A Statue of McGraw, surrounded by campus buildings, will search for the "missing coed" while sleuth Charlie Chan, amidst Geisha girls, pagoda and Communist soldiers, looks for "Stolen Gems," and "Mystery." On "Dragon Net," what else but a writhing dragon.

On still another a silhouetted Alfred Hitchcock will "resent" a moveable merry-go-round and ferris wheel of Carnival.

The last float will carry He-Man finalists and will move on to the golf course with the Air Force ROTC drum and bugle corps for the He-Man finals.

Gift Suggestion Boxes

Suggestion boxes for the senior class gift will be placed at the Hetzel Union desk and at the entrance to the card room in the HUB on Monday.

Two more boxes will be placed on campus Tuesday. The locations have not yet been determined.

Prospective he-men will attempt to speed through the 100-yard dash and hurl a shot-put out of sight while coeds scramble to catch raw eggs in the preliminary events for the He-Man and Queen of Hearts contests at 2 p.m. today at the Golf Course.

In case of rain, the pre-tests of athletic prowess will be postponed until 2 p.m. Sunday at the Golf Course.

The first 10 men in each event will receive points in order of their finish. The 10 men with the highest combined scores will appear in the Float Parade Monday and participate in the finals after the parade at 8 p.m. also at the Golf Course.

In the women's preliminaries two-girl teams will be eliminated until eight teams remain which have not broken any eggs.

In the event of rain the finals will be held on Wednesday.

Contest rules exclude University track and cross country athletes, previous winners and spiked shoes.

Judges will be members of the Varsity "S" Club. Robert Hoffman, Olympic weight lifting coach, may be on campus Monday to act as an honorary judge for the finals.

Final events will include the 100-yard dash; the shot put; a steeple chase, a quarter mile run over an obstacle course complete with water jumps, crossed ropes, and hurdles; and the bench press, a weight lifting event.

Queen finalists in the same two-girl teams will compete in a suitcase race. One girl will dash 30 yards to a suitcase full of clothing, don the clothes, return to the starting point and exchange these clothes with her partner who will run back to the suitcase, remove the clothes and put them back in the suitcase.

Trophies will be presented to the He-Man and Queen winners at Awards Night Thursday.

Overall Spring Week points will be awarded as follows. He-Man winner, 15; second, 10; third, 7; fourth, 5, fifth, 2; Queen winner, 5; second, 3.

Thirty-three men and 66 women representing 33 groups will participate in the preliminaries.

Both Parties Will Elect New Heads

University and Campus parties will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow to elect new party officers; neither party chairman will seek re-election.

University party will meet in 121 Sparks. Only registered party members may vote. John D'Angelo, retiring party chairman, said party cards or matriculation cards must be shown. Senior and junior class party officers as well as all-party officers will be elected.

D'Angelo said he plans to disassociate himself completely from University party. "The party will fall into the hands of new people," he said. "I have accomplished my aims in establishing it."

The executive committee will meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow in 203 Willard. A sub-committee will be appointed to study the proposed revamping of student government.

Campus party will elect all-party officers at a meeting in 10 Sparks. Party cards and matriculation cards must be shown.

Retiring clique chairman Bernard Magdovitz said: "I learned an awful lot and I'm thankful for the job I had, but it's time to turn the party reins over to someone else."

Campus' steering committee will meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow in 218 Hetzel Union to hear campaign reports and recommendations for the next political season.

The All-University Elections Committee will conduct the party elections. Lynn Ward, junior in journalism from Paoli, is the new committee chairman. She replaces Peter Fishburn, senior in industrial engineering from State College.

Office Hours Set For All-U Officers

Office hours for the new All-University officers have been announced.

They are:
Jay Feldstein, All-University President, 2 to 4 p.m. Mondays and Fridays; Steven Garban, All-University vice president, 9 a.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. to noon Thursday, and John Gingrich, All-University secretary-treasurer, 2 to 4 p.m. Monday and 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Experimental Group To Give Aberg Play

The experimental theater unit will present "Where There's a Will," a new play by Gilbert Aberg, at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Little Theatre.

The play was developed in playwriting classes with Warren Smith, associate professor of theatre arts. The author is a writer and director at the University's motion picture studio.

The plot concerns the return to earth of William Shakespeare and Christopher Marlowe. They are making an effort to settle, once and for all, the matter of their identities. In the process they run across a New York television crowd and find more important things to take their attention.

The play will last about two and a half hours. The author is also directing the play. Richard Mazza is in charge of the technical arrangements.

The experimental theatre is part of the Department of Theatre Arts. The group presents new student plays each Tuesday in the Five O'Clock Theatre. The members of the cast and their roles are:

Ivan Ladizinsky, Will; Barry Gordon, Kit; Joseph Servello, Myron (a TV producer); Susan Mort, Natalie (the producer's wife); Ruth Harris, Sylvia (wife's psychiatrist); Hyman Schultz, Sugar man (an author's agent).
Jack Timmins, Herman (a potential client); Robert Shiarella, Carlye (a modern poet); Derek Swire, Wally (a bartender); Sidney Bowhill, Roger (a butler); and Bruce Taylor, an Elizabethian nobleman.

DTS House--

The first floor of the house will have six rooms with kitchen, dining and living room areas.

The February fire in the house at 128 E. Fairmount Avenue started from hot ashes coming in contact with a wooden partition in the basement.

Alpha firemen fought the early morning blaze for four hours. The house was extensively damaged by fire on the inside, especially through the center of the building. The entire house received water damage.
