

Powerful Rutgers Team Beats Lacrosse Men, 15-2

The Lion lacrosse men dropped their second straight home game on Beaver Field Saturday and now post a 2-4 season record. The second loss came at the hands of an experienced Rutgers crew that had an easy day of scoring a 15-2 win over the home team.

Coach Earnie Baer was the first to admit the obvious. "Our attack was weak and will continue to be our weak spot this year without Bill Hess in there."

(Hess is the sensational Long Island southpaw who broke the Lion scoring mark with 41 goals as a sophomore and re-set his own record as a junior with an output of 49. In only two years of competition he also set the Lion career scoring mark of 90 goals and added three more in the only game he played this year. He was permanently sidelined for the season and his collegiate career in that one game with a broken kneecap.)

But Baer didn't have to make excuses for his boys as they were playing one of the top units in the country in Rutgers. The Scarlet crew handled the ball expertly and only on very rare occasions did they make the amateurish mistakes of inexperienced stickmen.

Baer said after the game that he expects the Lions to improve with practice and experience—particularly since they have completed the tough part of their schedule which saw them drop three to the nation's best—Maryland, Navy and Rutgers.

After the Lions take a week-end visit with teams of their calibre—at Hobart on Friday and at Syracuse on Saturday—they will end the season with five straight home games.

After watching the Rutgers forces score five easy goals in the first period, Dick Weeden scored the Lion first goal as he swept in from high outside and diagonally crossed the field before firing his successful shot.

Previously, the team was surprised when Dave Wilkinson, a previously unknown second team goalie, scored a goal.

It happened this way: the aggressive junior, who was playing his first game on the attack, spotted the ball in front of the net after the goalie had blocked the shot. He kicked it in for the apparent score, but in the process was legally knocked into the crease (circular zone around the goal) and the goal was disallowed.

But Wilkinson helped make up for it later as he screened a Rutgers defenseman out of position and Harry Brown put in an open shot to put the Lions back in the game—temporarily.

Musial Tops Hitters; Cards Want Ashburn

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial, speedily closing in on the 3000 hits mark, is off to a great start in quest of his eighth National League batting championship.

The St. Louis Cardinals' slugger has hit safely in each of the 11 games he's played this year and heads the senior circuit with a .453 average. He has 24 hits in 43 tries and has increased his lifetime total of safe blows to 2,981.

Nineteen more hits will add the 37-year-old Musial to the select group of seven which has 3000 or more hits. It includes Cap Anson, Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner and Paul Waner.

Musial won the batting title with a .351 mark last season. That put him only one behind Wagner, who holds the National League record. Cobb owns the major league standard of 12.

In the American League, Rocky Colavito of Cleveland heads the pack with a .423 average. The Bronx youngster, who has shifted from the outfield to first base, has 11 safeties in 26 times at bat.

Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is second in the American League batting race at .415. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore is third with .406.

Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies, the 1955 batting champion, is followed by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants with .412 and Don Hoak of Cincinnati and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh is a fourth place tie at .405.

Incidentally, the last-place St. Louis Cardinals are trying to swing a deal for a front line player—presumably Ashburn.

Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, would not name the club he is negotiating with or the player sought by the Cardinals.

"If we can make one big move to help ourselves, I'd prefer to do it with a regular, a player who might give us a lift every day," Devine said before the Redbirds departed for Cincinnati.

The Phils were reported to have expressed interest in Wally Moon, Joe Cunningham, Dick Schofield, B. G. Smith and Hobbie Landrieth.

One of Penn State's top student-athletes is basketball player Ted Kubista, of Scotch Plains, N.J.

Three Titles Decided In IM V-Ball

Three league championships were decided Friday night as the IM volleyball tournament moved into its closing stages.

In League A Tau Phi Delta and Lambda Chi Alpha were undefeated and tied for first place. Their championship game was a thriller with Tau Phi Delta coming out on top by virtue of a 15-13, 15-12 victory.

Pi Kappa Phi won the League B title when they downed Alpha Kappa Lambda, 15-1, 15-5.

With one more round remaining in League H, Sigma Chi clinched the League title with a 15-6, 15-0 conquest of Beta Sigma Rho.

In other games Friday night, Alpha Tau Omega beat Sigma Alpha Mu, 15-11, 13-15, 15-11; Acacia beat Sigma Phi Epsilon, 15-5, 15-13; Alpha Chi Omega nipped Omega Psi Phi, 15-7, 16-14; Delta Upsilon beat Alpha Zeta, 15-8, 15-11, and Phi Delta Theta walloped Delta Theta Sigma, 15-5, 15-3.

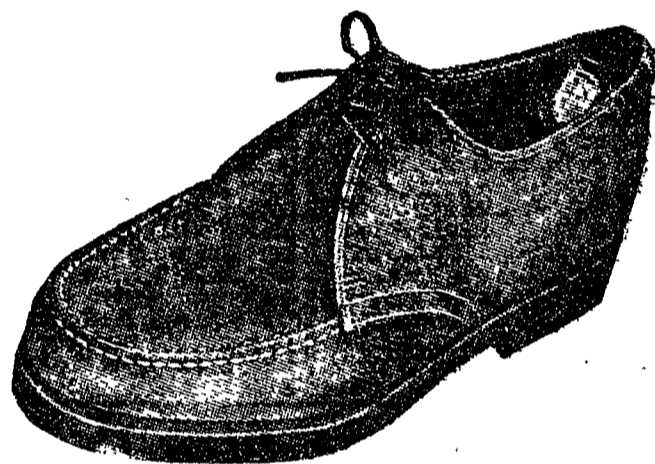

In the Independent tournament, all the league titles have been decided. Last year's indie champs, the Bullets, won the League A title. Hanna's Horrors copped League B honors; The McKee Trojans captured League C's championship.

In League D a tie occurred between the Thumbs and the Leviathans; Nittany 38 won in League E; The Hurricanes took League F laurels, and Nittany Cop won in League G.
