

Carnival Goes Tonight Come 'Rain or Shine'

The Spring Week Carnival scheduled for last night but postponed because of inclement weather will be held "rain or shine" from 7 to midnight tonight at the intramural field on the south end of the golf course.

Yesterday's muddy ground and soggy timbers failed to halt work on the carnival, as over 100 members of participating groups went ahead hammering frames, setting up platforms, and hauling in supplies for their booths.

An extension of time has been granted on construction so that groups may begin work at 8 a.m. today and continue until 7 p.m., instead of starting at noon, the time set originally.

James Jimirro, Spring Week Chairman, said that the carnival was postponed to take advantage of good weather predictions for today. "The meteorology department has definitely assured me that there will be sunshine and no rain today," he said.

Last night's weather prediction called for fair, breezy and cool weather for tonight.

All women who sign out for the carnival will receive a 12:15 late permission. Special 12:45 late permissions to help clean up will be granted to six upperclass women per booth who have been certified with the office of the dean of women.

Jimirro said yesterday he felt Monday's float parade brought Spring Week enthusiasm to a high ebb. "Carnival will be as high as ever due to the increased participation," he said.

The 35 groups entered in the carnival and their themes are:

Seniors Increase Suggestion Boxes

The Senior Class gift committee has added two suggestion boxes to the ones already in the Hetzel Union Building.

One box has been placed in the lobby of the Pattee Library and another inside the Corner Room. In the HUB the boxes are found at the entrance to the Card Room and at the main desk.

Suggestions must be in before May 10, in order to give the class time to come to a decision on the gift. Seniors have been encouraged to turn in their ideas.

Delta Sig Reports Losses Of $100 in Clothing, Artwork

Articles valued at approximately $100 were reported missing from Delta Sigma Phi fraternity last night.

Two coats hanging on the first floor coatrack, a painting and two plaques all of which were on the first floor of the house at 508 Locust Lane were noticed to be missing by members Monday night and yesterday morning.

Ronald Kolb, senior in industrial art from Philadelphia and former vice president of the house, said there was no sign of a forced entry and the items were probably taken by someone who just walked in the door which usually is kept unlocked.

Kolb said none of the articles were insured and that the incident "should teach other fraternities not to keep their doors unlocked at night."

The painting, valued at $40, was the first item noticed missing Monday night along with the two plaques worth $20.

The loss of the coats, worth about $20 each, was noticed this morning.

State College police were called last night to investigate the apparent robbery.

The Canadian Players will perform Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and Shaw's "Devils Disciple" in a 2-day appearance. They come from Canada's drama center at Stratford, Ontario, and are the first Canadian group to travel North America.

Inspection Backed By Hammerskjold

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold made a dramatic bid in the Security Council yesterday in behalf of President Eisenhower's Arctic military inspection plan. He did so in the face of bitter Soviet denunciation of the plan, and in an obvious effort to head off a veto.

Stepping out of his customary neutral role, Hammarskjold said he wishes to welcome the initiative of the United States in submitting a proposal which might break the East-West disarmament deadlock "from the angle of inspection."

The 11-nation security council was caught by surprise at the sudden move and adjourned until Friday morning.

Just before Hammarskjold took the floor, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge expressed hope that the Soviet Union would change its mind "in the passage of a few days."

Eight nations on the Security Council—Britain, France, Canada, Japan, Panama, Iraq, China and Sweden—lined up behind the U.S. proposal. Columbia was the only member who did not speak.

Lodge said he appreciated the support given the United States and joined with the others in deploring the "depressing and discouraging nature of the Soviet position."

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev listened impassively to Hammarskjold and later had no comment. Sobolev had attacked the Eisenhower proposal as a diversionary measure and had suggested that all questions linked with disarmament be submitted to a summit conference.

The three-day recess was suggested by French Delegate Guillaume Georges-Picot. He said Hammarskjold's statement "deserves careful study not only on our part but on the part of our governments."

Hammarskjold recalled that he had recently welcomed the Soviet decision to suspend nuclear tests as having an impact on the disarmament stalemate. He added that "in the same spirit and on the same basis I wish today to welcome the initiative taken by the United States" in presenting its proposal.

Statements by Sobolev here and a denunciation of the Eisenhower proposal by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow indicated a Soviet veto is in prospect. It would kill the proposal in the council.

Gromyko dismissed the Eisenhower plan as "a matter of sheer publicity" and said it was advanced because the United States needs intelligence data on Soviet territory.

Sobolev, asked outside the council if his speech signified he would cast a veto, replied: "Draw your own conclusion."

GM Ends 3-Year Deal With UAW

DETROIT (P)—General Motors took over the driver's seat yesterday in bargaining talks with the United Auto Workers Union.

In an unprecedented move, the company terminated its current three-year contract with the union, effective at midnight May 29.

This took the union by surprise. It is the one that usually serves such notice. It already has notified Chrysler and Ford their contracts will be terminated effective June 1.

The Ford and Chrysler contracts differ slightly from GM's, and termination by the company is standard procedure. These companies followed the union's notice immediately with their own.

By calling the signals on contract termination, GM virtually invited the UAW to make the world's biggest manufacturing firm its strike target rather than putting the heat on Ford and Chrysler.

But UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, head of the union's GM bargaining team, made it clear the union has no intention of disclosing any plans it may have for possible GM strike action.

Woodcock told newsmen the union "will not be maneuvered into a strike, particularly at a time hand-picked by the company."

GM's bold action followed its rejection Monday of the union's bid for a three-month extension of the present contract until September.

The company was quick to point out this would strengthen the union's bargaining position by having the contract expire when the auto industry goes into production on 1959 models.

Ford and Chrysler rejected the same bid.
