Arragon's men will be played by David Stekol and Lee Watkins. The singer will be Wayne Zarr.

The flute will be played by John Norton, the virginal by Del Kormen and the lute by Rosme Taylor.

The director is Warren Smith, Aberg will be stage manager and Katz, assistant stage manager.

The conference is being sponsored by the Women's Student Government Association, the Interfraternity Council and the University Christian Association.

Mrs. Helen E. Buchanan, instructor of family relations, Daniel Hobbs, instructor in family relations, and Carolyn Johnson, senior in home economics from Wilmington, will discuss, on Tuesday, dating as a preparation for marriage and dating practices at the University. Mrs. Buchanan will speak on the parents' viewpoint on dating, Miss Jones will give the students' side of dating, and Hobbs will discuss the aims and ideals of dating.

Dr. William M. Smith, professor of family relations, will speak Wednesday on the process of mate selection and how it is complicated by living on a college campus.

Dr. Jessie R. Bernard, professor of sociology, will speak Thursday on how students adjust themselves in the neomarital period.

After Dr. Bernard's speech there will be a panel discussion by Dr. Ruth Honey, professor of family economics and housing, Dr. Winona Morgan, professor of child development and family relations, and Dr. Harriet Harry, professor of family relations.

The guest speakers will hold a question and answer period after their talks to answer such pertinent questions as: what about engagement when the couple is separated? what about inter-faith marriages? what about the goals and standards of a couple?

BusAd College Plans to Honor Deceased Prof

A scholarship in honor of George L. Leffler, late assistant dean of research and director of planning of the College of Business Administration, is being set up by the College of Business Administration.

Leffler, who was also professor of finance, died last February at the age of 59.

Plans for the scholarship were undertaken at the request of Leffler's widow, Vada Morris Leffler, who asked that flowers be omitted at his funeral and the contributions be used instead to aid students in business administration.

Donations totaling $1062 have been received, the largest being $500 from the Pennsylvania Bankers Association for whom Leffler wrote several books, including "Industrial Trends in Pennsylvania Since 1941," "The Stock Market," and "Your Bank."

Other donations have been made by the Business Administration Student Council, students, faculty and clubs connected with the college.

Riemer Receives Fellowship To Continue PoliSci Studies

Dr. Neal Riemer, associate professor of political science, has been awarded a fellowship in political philosophy by the Rockefeller Foundation.

The grant will support his study of the orienting concepts underlying modern democratic theory.

Riemer, who will be on leave during the 1958-59 academic year, hopes to complete a first draft of a book on "Modern Democratic Theory." This 5-year project is an outgrowth of a series of lectures he gave on modern democratic political theory.

Riemer

Riemer received his bachelor of arts degree in history and international relations from Clark University. After almost three years of active duty with the Air Force, he studied at Harvard University where he received a doctorate in government.

A member of the faculty since 1948, Riemer has written a number of articles on political theory for professional journals. He plans to complete a book on James Madison's political theory before starting his fellowship-year.

Riemer is also the author of "Problems of American Government."
