

Panhel Will Establish Jr. Council

The Panhellenic Council voted last night to establish a Junior Panhellenic composed of pledges from each sorority, which will be similar to the new Junior Interfraternity Council.

The Council will be composed of two delegates from each sorority, the president of the pledge class and another member of the pledge class.

This will make the membership 48, the same as the Panhellenic Council. The vice president of Panhellenic Council will act as adviser to the group.

The purpose of the junior council is to acquaint pledges with the workings of the senior council and to stimulate interest in sorority and panhellenic affairs.

This is similar to the Junior IFC whose purpose is to acquaint their pledges with IFC.

The formation of a junior council is endorsed by the National Panhellenic Conference, president Phyllis Muscat said, and would operate on the rotation system for officers in accordance with national policy.

The rotation, however, will not coincide with the rotation of the senior council, she said.

The council will be set up in the fall, probably in October, when the pledge classes are established, and will change as the pledge classes change.

Miss Muscat said the National Panhellenic Conference will supply a list of projects the junior council will work on.

Police Check Fight Involving Phi Ep Alums

State College police and the dean of men's office are investigating a fight which occurred outside a fraternity house Saturday night.

Police said the fight resulted when two men, alumni of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, were walking their dates to a car parked in front of the house.

A group of students began using abusive language to the two men and their dates, police said, and prevented them from entering their car.

Harold W. Perkins, associate dean of men, said yesterday that the number of persons reportedly involved in the fight varies from five to seven. "We only have hearsay information now and I wouldn't want to say anything else. We expect to speak to the borough police tomorrow (today) and will move further then."

Police said the investigation is being held up for two reasons. One is that the unusually high number of complaints over the weekend has put them behind in their work and the other is that they are having trouble locating the two alumni who returned to their homes in Philadelphia before police could talk to them. Police declined to release names of any persons involved in the investigation or to elaborate further on details concerning the incident.

All-U Elections Group Applications Due Today

Today is the deadline for filing applications at the Hetzel Union desk for All-University Elections Committee.

Applicants must have a minimum 2.0 All-University average. They will be notified of appointments for interviews by the Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee.

—Collegian Photo by Bob Thompson

TWO MONTHS, if everything goes as planned, is all the time it will take for Shaver Creek, here being "inspected" by five students, to fill up the Stone Valley Recreational Area's 70-acre lake next October. Part of the lake's boundary will be the line of trees in the background.

Stone Valley Gifts Approach $60,000

Approximately $60,000 has been collected by the Alumni Association, the Penn State Foundation and the Parents' Fund for the Stone Valley Recreation Project according to Ross B. Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

The Stone Valley Project, scheduled for completion in October, will cost about $200,000, Lawrence Perez, engineer for the program, said.

According to the last audit, the Alumni Association has accounted for approximately $40,000 and the Parents' Fund $8000. However, since the last audit in January an estimated $2000 has been received for the project.

Lehman said these figures can only be approximate, since money is being received continually and the audits are only made quarterly. Many of the alumni, Lehman said, have sent their contributions to the Penn State Fund and there is no record of it.

The Alumni Association keeps an approximate running total on donations received while the Penn State Fund relies on the quarterly audits.

Carl R. Barnes, comptroller, confirmed the estimated amount received for the project.

The Penn State Fund has also received a $300 donation from Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, from the proceeds of last semester's Ugly Man Contest.

When completed the project will feature a 70-acre artificial lake along with other recreational facilities.

The area is 12 miles from campus, about a 20-minute drive.

Senate Acts On Sentence Of 4 Students

The Senate subcommittee on discipline yesterday lessened the recommendation of the Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review for one freshman while approving the action recommended against three others, all of whom were charged with drinking in their residence hall.

The subcommittee changed the recommendation for immediate suspension of the student until the end of the fall semester 1958 to suspension until the end of the summer session. The change will allow the student to apply for re-admission for the fall semester.

The other three students had their recommendations for suspended suspension until the end of the spring semester 1958 approved. The action places the students in the position where any trouble can mean their immediate suspension.

All four were involved in a drinking party in their residence hall.

(Continued on page eight)

NATO Officials Back Dulles

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The NATO foreign ministers yesterday established a solid front on summit talks by agreeing that Secretary of State Dulles was right all along in his cautious approach.

A diplomatic source said Russia's recent maneuvers "have opened," this informant said, not one of America's allies believes it wise to rush to top-level meeting with the Russians.

All agreed during two days of consultations here that any summit meeting must be adequately prepared and must show in advance some prospect of East-West

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — State police announced Tuesday night they have arrested a Danish diplomat on evidence that top secret papers involving the eyes of many Europeans. He reported a marked change in Western thinking since the North Atlantic Council meeting in Paris last December.

This NATO nation may have reached Eastern hands. The diplomat is Einar Blechinger, 62, trade adviser at the Danish embassy in Bonn for almost two years.

on from the start. But last De- agreement on a basic point of world tension. That is what Dulles has insisted

AIM Board Favors Directed Vote On First Reading

By NEAL FRIEDMAN

The Association of Independent Men Board of Governors last night, on first reading, voted 9-5, with two abstentions, in favor of an amendment to its constitution which would prevent the AIM president from voting on All-University Cabinet against the wishes of the board.

The amendment, presented by David Byers, must be read to the board a second time and approved again by a two-thirds vote. It will be re-read at a meeting next Wednesday night.

Byers began the lengthy debate by asking the "veteran members on the board to forget past arguments." A similar amendment was defeated by the board last December.

Byers said the amendment does not make a "puppet" of the AIM president and does not restrict him in any way except that he cannot vote against the wishes of the board.

"No one man," said Byers, "can make the decisions for 6500."

Charles Bartholomew, president of Town Independent Men, spoke against the amendment, saying that "a truly representative democracy is not always the best way because the majority is not always well informed. We are taking away the AIM president's voting powers and going against every concept of representative government that I have ever known."

William B. Crafts, assistant to the dean of men and adviser to the board, when asked for his opinion of the amendment said, "It (the amendment) is entirely undemocratic and is not an expression of (the AIM president's) abilities as president."

Carl Smith, AIM vice president, stated that others have attempted to influence the AIM president in the past and that they often have not made up their own minds on how to vote.

The board repeatedly became embroiled in parliamentary controversies. At several points it was not clear just who had the floor.

When a motion was made to limit debate because of the lateness of the hour and the amount of work still to be accomplished (it was then about 10:15 p.m. and the board was still on committee reports), there was some objection voiced.

Edward Frymoyer, AIM president, called for a vote on the motion to limit debate. After the voice vote a division was called, but Frymoyer refused to recognize the division.

James Goodwin, a member of the board, attempted to get the floor, but Frymoyer went ahead with the vote on the amendment.

Goodwin continued to attempt to get Frymoyer's attention. At length he was recognized, but Frymoyer refused to hear his objection.

At this point Byers stood up and urged the board to "drop its present attitude." Frymoyer yielded and the motion to limit debate was passed 11-4.

After the amendment was passed the board disposed of its remaining agenda in 30 minutes.

Schilling Stays Quiet On ROTC

By DENNY MALICK

Dean Harold K. Schilling of the Graduate School and chairman of the Senate Committee on Educational Policy, refused to comment in an interview yesterday on whether last week's veto by the Liberal Arts faculty would kill a plan to integrate a School of Military Affairs into the LA college.

The Liberal Arts faculty vetoed the plan, drawn up by Schilling's committee, and passed a substitute motion to "oppose all points recommended by the committee and especially the philosophy of integration of the military into the academic structure of the University."

The Senate plan calls for a School of Military Affairs and Civil Defense to be integrated within the Liberal Arts college with a civilian coordinator as its director.

The plan would coordinate "the work of various military and civilian defense units on campus" under a University "civilian academic officer."

Schilling also declined comment on whether the Senate plan would come up before the May 29 meeting or what the next step of his committee would be.

He said only that "I wouldn't care to comment on this right now."

Rainy Weather Will Continue

The weather will provide no new topic of conversation today.

Clouds, rain and chilly temperatures are predicted to remain until at least late afternoon. The highest point the thermometer will touch will be in the 50's.

The Nittany Lion had little comment today. He is thoroughly disgusted with the recent "spring" weather.

He hasn't had a chance to wear half the ivy-league sports clothes in his new spring wardrobe. He is hoping to be able to startle parents with his pink, orange and red striped jamaica shorts when he appears on Mother's Day weekend.

IFCPA Will Meet For Reorganization

The Interfraternity Council Purchasing Association will hold a reorganization meeting in preparation for the 1958-59 school year at 7 tonight at Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity.

Robert Ginns, newly elected president, said all new and old junior and senior board members are requested to attend as well as representatives from fraternities now in the program, or those interested in it.

The IFCPA serves 26 fraternities with a complete line of meat, canned goods and produce.