

Senior Still Jobless May Now Get Help

By LYNN WARD
Collegian Copy Editor

Now that the dust has cleared from the spring stampede of job interviewing, the University Placement Service has time to help seniors who haven't lined up jobs yet, Donald M. Cook, assistant director of the placement service said.

Although no more than 12 companies will interview on campus the remainder of this year, Cook said seniors who are having trouble finding jobs and are seriously interested can be supplied with names of companies to which they may write to apply for jobs.

The placement service will also help seniors with job offers they already have, he said.

"We still get calls for students," he said, "in the engineering, technical and non-technical fields. This year students just have to do a better job of presenting themselves to the companies," he added.

Engineers in particular shouldn't have much trouble finding jobs, Cook said, because many firms have not had full interviewing schedules on campus this spring.

He urged seniors to look into the information and help available at the placement service before they graduate, because once they leave the campus they will not have the lists of companies and job opportunities at hand.

University alumni may also use the facilities of the placement service if they want to change jobs at any time, or when looking for jobs after being in the armed forces.

Sputnik--

pounds; length 11 feet 8 1/2 inches; diameter at base 5 feet 8 inches; angle of orbit, 65 degrees from the equator.

The weight compares with 1120 pounds reported for cone-shaped Sputnik II, 184 pounds for spherical Sputnik I, and 31 pounds for Explorer III, heaviest of the U.S. satellites.

Nothing was said about the closest approach to the earth or the possible life span of Sputnik III. But orbit time and maximum height are similar to Sputnik II, which approached to within 150 miles of earth and was in orbit 5 1/2 months.

THE GREAT CAP AND GOWN CONTROVERSY

It will soon be cap and gown time again, so let us, without delay, take up the vexing question: which side of the cap should the tassel hang on?

For many years the practice was to hang the tassel over the front of the cap. This practice was abandoned in 1948 when the entire graduating class of Northwestern University, blinded by tassels hanging in their eyes, made a wrong turn during commencement exercises and ended up at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center where, all unwitting, they were inducted into the submarine service for five-year hitchies.

Let us take up the Vexing Question:

There is a growing body of opinion which holds that the tassel should be worn on the same side you keep your Marlboro Cigarettes on. Thus a quick glance will show you where your Marlboros are and save much time and fumbling.

This makes a good deal of sense because when one wants a Marlboro, one wants one with a minimum of delay. One does not relish being kept, even for a second, from the heaps of joy, the barrels of pleasure, the seeds of content, the loads of glee, the lumps of ecstasy, that one gets from that filter, that flavor, that flip-top box.

There is another group, small but vocal, which insists the tassel should hang over the back of the cap. The tassel, they say, is a symbol like the bullfighter's pigtail, signifying honor and courage.

They are wrong. Bullfighters wear pigtails for only one reason: to keep the backs of their necks warm. Do you have any idea what a draft a bull makes when he rushes past you? A plenty big one, you may be sure.

In fact, upper respiratory infections, contracted in the wake of passing bulls, is the largest single cause of bull-ring fatalities. I have this interesting statistic from the Bullfighters Mutual Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut. Incidentally, Hartford, the insurance capital of America, is a delightful city and well worth a visit if you are ever in New England, as north-eastern United States is laughingly called. Try to make your visit in spring when the actuaries are in bloom.

But I digress. We were talking about what side to wear the tassel on. An ingenious solution to this problem was proposed not long ago by Humboldt Sigafos, perhaps better known as "The Quoit King of Delaware." An early forbear of Mr. Sigafos was granted a monopoly by King George III, on all quoits manufactured in Delaware. Somehow this royal patent was never rescinded and from that day to this, every quoit made in Delaware has been a Sigafos Quoit.

Well sir, Mr. Sigafos suggested that the way to solve the great tassel controversy was to starch the tassel so it stood upright and hung on no side of the cap at all. But I'm afraid that sly Mr. Sigafos was only seeking to broaden his market because after graduation, what can you do with an upright tassel except hurl quoits at it?

The makers of Marlboro have no opinion about what side to hang your tassel on. But with cigarettes, they say firmly: Stay on the light, mild, tasty side . . . with Marlboro, of course!
