

Travel-Seeking Students Plan Vacations Abroad

By LUCY THIESSEN

Far-off lands will provide summer homes for many students attracted by jobs, service projects, travel and cruises.

John Sweeney, junior in arts and letters from Summit, N.J., has obtained a summer job in Hamburg, Germany for Esso Export, a branch of Standard Oil Co. Working for the personnel, transportation and marketing departments, he expects to be able to do some traveling through his job.

While abroad, Sweeney hopes to bicycle to Denmark, to buy and bring back a foreign car, and to acquire some knowledge of the German language on the side.

Lianne Cordero, junior in arts and letters from Wayne, will be doing volunteer work for an Interdenominational Protestant mission on a 100-acre farm located on the Anasco River near San Sebastian, Puerto Rico.

Miss Cordero and three other college students will be working to help the people in this area develop agriculturally, economically and spiritually, by teaching them such things as modern agricultural methods and Christian ethics.

A variety of jobs will occupy Miss Cordero's time while there, including working for a girl's camp at the farm for a week, and possibly secretarial work or work in the fields.

The World's Fair in Brussels is the main attraction for Gary Young, junior in psychology from Clarion, who plans to be Europe-bound in August. Young will work his way over with a steamship line and hopes to find time to look up relatives in southwestern Germany.

More than 100 Navy ROTC students will ship out to foreign ports on summer cruises. First and third class cadets who are on the scholarship program, will visit Northern European ports and possibly the World's Fair on "X-Ray-One."

Second class cadets will travel with the "Narimid" cruise to Corpus Christi, Texas for aviation training and to Little Creek for marine amphibious training.

Cruise "Charlie" will take juniors who are contract students from Long Beach, California to British Vancouver, Canada and Hawaii.

Bon Voyage!

New Jersey Establishes Rules for Water Skiing

New Jersey has adopted strict traffic regulations for water skiers in an effort to make the sport safer.

Skiing is barred from the busiest sections of the Shrewsbury and Navesink Rivers. Elsewhere skiing may not be done within 100 feet of any shore, wharf, pier, swimmer, or boat.

SHORE FUN is to be had whether sailing on many of New Jersey's inland waters, or just loafing on one of the many beaches that dot the Atlantic coast.

Festivals, Pageant Set For Summer Vacation

For those making summer vacation plans and wondering what events are taking place in and around Pennsylvania, here are some hints of several scheduled highlights.

The Pennsylvania Dutch are known for their annual Folk Festival which will be held July 2 to 6 in Kutztown.

The festival is a pageant of farm life, regional foods, songs, dances, sports and crafts.

Another annual festival, the Laurel Festival which honors the state's flower, will take place June 13 to 15 in Wellsboro.

New Jersey-wise, where there is always something of interest going on, the summer's highlight will be the Miss America Pageant where one can see the nation's beauties compete for the title. This can be witnessed September 2 to 6 in Atlantic City.

For New Yorkers fond of sailing and fishing, there is the marathon boat racing June 1 at Albany, June 15 at Poughkeepsie, July 13 at Buffalo and July 27 at Grand Island.

No matter where the tourist might be this summer he will certainly find a festival, sports event or show that will catch his eye and make his vacation an enjoyable one.

Poconos Await Tourist Influx

Advance reservations indicate that a record number of tourists will vacation in the Poconos.

Last season, 300,000 spent over $40 million in the area. This prosperity has encouraged resort operators to spend $2 million on improvements.

The increasing amount of honeymoon trade has been the most noticeable trend in recent years. Many managements are developing an atmosphere and service to please the newly-weds.

Honeymoon cottages boast "his" and "hers" aprons, television sets in the kitchens and delivery of the couple's hometown newspaper. Rates are approximately $180 per week.

Wildwood Park Features 'Satellite'

Want to ride in a Sputnik on your vacation this year?

Well, if you spend your vacation in Wildwood, N.J., your wish can come true. Ramagossa Center, one of Wildwood's many amusement centers, has just installed an amusement ride made up to look like a satellite. It was imported from West Germany at a cost of $65,000 and will soon be attempting to supply thrills for vacationers from all over the country who visit New Jersey.

New Jersey offers other amusements for vacationing students seeking a place to spend the long, hot summer. The Garden State, Monmouth and Atlantic City race tracks will be open at various times during the summer months for fans who follow the "sport of kings." A so-called "golden triangle" of races has been arranged for the three tracks with purses totaling over $6 million.

For those who love fishing, swimming and boating, New Jersey offers an abundance of resorts where these activities can be found.

World-famous Atlantic City now boasts a new marina which will be ready this summer to accommodate small boats and yachts. For those who like to hike, Pacific Avenue, paralleling the boardwalk, has been widened six feet and completely repaved.

Vacationists at Asbury Park will find a new aquarium and a mobile city display running almost the entire length of Ocean Avenue. Convention Hall, which for many years was used for exhibits, will now be booked for sports events and dances. The beach front along Seventh Avenue has been transformed into a replica of the French Riviera.

For Summer Fun Visit Ocean City

by Lynn Ward

France has the Riviera, and Switzerland, the Alps, but Penn State students have Ocean City, N.J.—the land of shoe-boxers (a term fondly applied to those people who flock to the island for weekends), moving in with their friends and the sand.

According to the Ocean City Chamber of Commerce and the Ocean City Sentinel-Ledger (semi-weekly newspaper), the island is a family resort.

According to the natives (those braving the elements of the island in summer and winter), Ocean City is a peaceful place to retire for the winter but develops into a continual, chaotic circus in the summer months.

According to beach-enthusiasts, Ocean City is no longer a resort because of the encroaching ocean monopolizing the sun-bathing areas.

But Penn State students will tell you that there is absolutely no place like Ocean City on summer weekends to have a 3-day party. This may be attributed in part to its proximity to Somers Point.

Along about spring vacation every year enterprising students head down to Ocean City to make preliminary stabs at lining up summer jobs.

The successful ones will pack up and move to rooming houses or apartments as soon as exams are over. Summer jobs include waitressing, life guarding, bartending at the "Point", dipping ice cream on the boardwalk and boxing pop-corn.

The 14th and 22nd Street beaches have traditionally been the meeting place for college students as long as there has been an Ocean City. But students are in for somewhat of a shock this summer. Most of these beaches are no more.

Winter storms and a wild ocean have taken their toll of the beach and boardwalk. Looks like beach parties may become bay parties.

Miami Beach Is Vacation Mecca

Miami Beach and its surrounding resort communities will be a mecca for the bargain-hunting vacationer this summer.

The annual reduction of rates by all hotels is beginning, and during May and June rates will be down to $5 daily, American plan, and $7 per day, European plan.

In some hotels and motels on the beach, rooms are available at a daily rate of $2 to $4 per person.

The tourist can visit Cape Canaveral, water-ski, play golf, go deep sea fishing on charter boats and spend sun-filled afternoons on the beach.

Scenic attractions in Vermont include its 400 lakes and the Green Mountains.
