

Undergraduate Fees Used for Activities

You paid out a sum of $4.90, marked for "undergraduate student fees," as part of your $175 tuition charges.

If you're like most, you want to know where it goes. If it doesn't pay for books or courses, what good does it do you?

That $4.90 entitles you to attend concerts and other special events, receive The Daily Collegian and the LaVie, be represented on your college council, and the independent or fraternity governing body and All-University Cabinet, and to hear student radio station WDFM.

Your fees, paid every semester as part of the $175 fixed charges, are channeled through the Associated Student Activities treasury.

All-University Cabinet, the highest student government organization, receives 50 cents a semester from each student. This money goes into the Inter-class Budget System.

Twenty-five cents of your fee goes to the student council of your college. Another 25 cent allotment is used for operation of Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, Association of Independent Men and Leonides.

Most seniors who receive a "free" copy of LaVie just before graduation do not realize that $1.75 was taken each semester from their fees to pay for the $14 yearbook.

WDFM gets 20 cents, and the Daily Collegian receives $1.10. Collegians are distributed to the living units, the Hetzel Union Building, the Corner Room and downtown diners and fraternity houses. The paper is printed daily, Tuesday through Saturday.

The debate teams and the glee club divide 35 cents. Debates and glee club concerts are given without charge to students, as are Blue Band concerts. The Blue Band gets 25 cents from the fees. The agricultural judging team also receives 25 cents.

Now that you know where the $4.90 goes, you probably are wondering what happens to the rest of your $175 tuition. Most of the money is a fixed fee for physical facilities, as heating and lighting. Besides major costs there are these other charges:

Women students pay $1.50 for the Women's Recreation Association and the Women's Student Government Association.

All students pay a charge for the health facilities. Another portion of your fee helps pay off the HUB. Admission to athletic contests also comes out of your tuition. And there is a small damage deposit.

Two dollars goes to the Artist Series. Because of the extra $2 fee you pay, there is a ticket waiting for you for each performance in the series.

ChemEng Junior Wins $500 Viscose Award

Henry M. Gehrhardt, junior in chemical engineering from Westfield, N.J., has been awarded the American Viscose Corporation Scholarship for the 1958-59 academic year.

The $500 award is made possible by a grant from the American Viscose Corp., Philadelphia.

Bernreuter Is Dean of Admissions

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter has taken over the duties of dean of admissions and registrar while continuing as special assistant to the president for student affairs.

In assuming the duties of admissions dean and registrar, Bernreuter replaces Dr. C. O. Williams, who has been named assistant to the president for special services.

Bernreuter has relinquished his directorship of the Division of Counseling. He has been replaced by Dr. Donald H. Ford, former division assistant.

Bernreuter, also continuing as professor of psychology, will serve as coordinator of the services now rendered by the dean of men, dean of women, University Health Service, Division of Counseling, Associated Student Affairs, Placement and Scholarships, International Student Affairs and Religious Affairs.

His new dual position will include membership on President Eric A. Walker's staff and also on the Council of Academic Deans.

After serving on the psychology faculty since 1931, Bernreuter was named director of the Division of Counseling in 1956 and special assistant to the president in 1957.

Campus 'Show Biz' Handled by Players

There's no business like show business, like no business I know. Everything about it is appealing, dum-de-dum-dum...

What! Oh, hello. Me? I'm a Player. What do I do? Oh, come now—I put . . . that is, we put on plays. Oh, we're given a little help, of course, by the Theatre Arts Department.

Last year, for example, we put on eight shows—we call them shows, not plays, you understand. There were three in Schwab Auditorium, and five at Center Stage, an arena or in-the-round theatre.

One of our bigger productions was "Amahl and the Night Visitors," Gounod's popular Christmas opera.

The way the shows are picked, it seems to me, is a rather complicated process. We have a hand in it when we are polled at the end of the year. The results of the poll are submitted to the Board of Control, which makes the final decision.

The board, of course, tries to work out a variety in the program. For the past two years, Players has produced a world premiere of a play being tried out for possible future Broadway production. We also try to give students at least one Greek or

Shakespearean play every two years.

We're a chummy group and like to get together every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon for tea in the Greenroom of Schwab Auditorium.

The Greenroom, on the second floor, is an interesting place and you might like to visit it some time. Besides our library of thousands of copies of plays, there are changing exhibits of scenery designs and photographs of Players productions.

We make money on most of our plays. This money, however, does not go to actors, directors or any other participants. We're saving it, we hope, to help pay for future theatre arts facilities.

How do you become a Player? Well, let me say first, darling, that you don't have to be a Player (Continued on page eighteen)
