

Artist Series to Feature 17 Concerts This Year

Appearances by the Danish National Orchestra, the Ballet Espanol and the Canadian Players will highlight this year's Artists Series of 17 concerts.

The Artists Series—pre-paid through student fees—provides entertainment and culture for the students by presenting a wide representation of the work being done by artists in all fields both in this country and abroad.

The Danish National Orchestra, conducted by John Frandsen and Thomas Jensen, will be making its second tour in the United States. Its U.S. debut, made in 1952, was a great success. Its program will include works by Scandinavian composers and selections from the standard orchestra repertoire.

Roberto Iglesias' Ballet Espanol made its last appearance in the U.S. in 1957. Its appearance on campus will include many of the Latin American numbers that brought praise from New York critics.

The Canadian Players will perform Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and Shaw's "Devil's Disciple" in a 2-day appearance. They come from Canada's drama center at Stratford, Ontario, and are the first Canadian group to travel in North America.

Fourteen of the 17 planned concerts have already been announced. The schedule for the year is:

The New York Pro Musica, Sept. 26, Schwab Auditorium; The Danish National Orchestra, Oct. 12, Recreation Hall; the Ballet Espanol, Oct. 26, Recreation Hall; Guiomar Novaca (pianist) Nov. 2, Schwab Auditorium; the Canadian Players, Nov. 14 and 15, Schwab Auditorium; Elizabeth Schwartzkopf (soprano), Dec. 12, Schwab Auditorium.

Mozart Concert Opera Group (which will perform "Così fan Tutti" with the University Orchestra) Jan. 13, Schwab Auditorium; Concordia Choir, Feb. 9, Schwab Auditorium; The Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra, Feb. 13, Schwab Auditorium; The Philadelphia Orchestra, Feb. 21, Recreation Hall; Jussi Bjoerling (Swedish tenor), March 1, Recreation Hall; Nathan Milstein (violinist), April 7, Schwab Auditorium; Emlyn Williams (who will give a dramatic reading of Dylan Thomas' "A Boy Grows Up"), April 18, Schwab Auditorium; Michael Tree (who will work with the University Orchestra in a workshop session), April 28 in Schwab Auditorium.

In addition to these artists, places are open for a jazz group, a poet and a theatre group. A chamber music series is also scheduled.

Tickets for these programs are distributed free to students upon presentation of matriculation cards at the HUB desk. A limited number of tickets are also put on sale to the public.

The Artists Series was born last year when 16 concerts were given by such artists as George London, Dave Brubeck, Hungarian Quartet, Dancers of India, Ballet Theatre, Erica Morini, De Paur Opera Gala, Gregor Piatigorsky, Festival Quartet, Dublin Players, Rise Stevens, Kaleidoscope, Alexander Brailowsky, Obernkirchen Children's Choir and the Cleveland Symphony.

Library Room Tells History Of University

Would you like to know some facts about the University's history, see some pictures of the campus as it looked in the early 1900s or see furniture used by some of the early presidents of the University?

You can see these and much more in the Penn State Collection which is housed in two rooms on the top floor of the Pattee Library.

The Penn State Collection includes files of student and University publications, pictures, letters, programs, scrapbooks and official papers relating to the history of the University and the area.

The first ordered collection of material was started in 1904 by Dr. Erwin Runkle, doctor of philosophy and librarian of the college from 1904 to 1924. Mrs. C. O. Cromer, curator of the collection from 1946 to 1952, catalogued most of the collection and now all books, bulletins, pamphlets and periodicals are catalogued and classified.

Some of the most valuable items in the collection are letters of correspondence between early founders of the University. Many of these letters are the only means of providing the story of the school's founding.

The oldest publication of any kind in the collection is, "An Address from the Board of Trustees of the Farmer's High School," dated July 1857. It records some problems (and their solutions) in the founding of the school.

Other items include a desk which belonged to Dr. Evan Pugh, the first president of the college, and a memory chest given by the class of 1895. The class hymn is carved on the chest.

The collection also contains items valuable mostly for their memories such as class pictures and banquet menus.

Hillier to Teach In Pakistan College

Dr. Elizabeth C. Hillier, associate professor of home economics education, will leave this month on a two-year assignment in Pakistan.

As one of a team working under an agreement between Oklahoma State University, the Ford Foundation and the government of Pakistan, she will work on program planning and curriculum development at the Karachi College of Home Economics in Pakistan.

The college was recently established and during the next year will graduate its first class.

BX Carries Equipment For Studies

The Book Exchange (BX), a student-run organization, carries a complete line of school supplies for students' needs.

The BX, located in the basement of the Hetzel Union Building, is the sole distributor for dinks and name cards for fresh customs.

Pens, pencils, notebooks, paper

The BX is the only place fresh can pick up their official dinks. Price $1.50.

and waste baskets are only a few of the items that the BX supplies.

Starting this year, the BX will sell drawing boards and art supplies.

James Meister, BX director, re-emphasized the 50-cent refund for each $5 worth of sales receipts, especially in regards to items like drawing boards, which cost up to $20. This would mean $2 in refunds.

The store will open for business at 10 a.m. today. Regular hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. The BX is normally closed on Sundays, but will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today.

The BX calls for candidates during the second semester. If the candidate does a satisfactory job, then he may be promoted to sophomore board. Sophomore boarders receive an hourly wage.

Other possible positions include junior and senior board posts.

An eight-man board of control operates the BX. The members are elected each spring by the incumbent board.

College Avenue Flooded

A 6-inch-deep flood on East College Avenue was caused by a broken main at the site of construction of the Home Economics Buildings additions early in the morning of July 8.

Greeks Have Week For Public Relations

Fostering good relations between the citizens of State College and the University and among the fraternities and sororities themselves are the primary purposes of Greek Week.

The week-long event, held in the spring semester, includes projects which benefit the students, University and the community; it was begun in 1952.

The week is sponsored jointly by the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils, which are composed of all fraternities and sororities on campus.

Greek Sunday usually begins the week with the IFC and Panhellenic Councils sponsoring religious services in Schwab Auditorium and in local churches and synagogues.

The Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Council Sing preliminaries and finals attract a large audience and intense competition among fraternities and sororities. Tau Kappa Epsilon won its eighth consecutive fraternity championship last year while Alpha Omicron Pi captured the sorority title.

One night of the week is set aside for exchange dinners between the fraternities and sororities. Fraternity members eat in the women's dormitory dining halls while sorority representatives visit the fraternities.

An Outstanding Pledge Banquet is conducted each year to honor the outstanding pledge of each fraternity and to award the pledge scholarship trophy.

An innovation in the 1958 program was the Greek Week bridge tournament which was won by Delta Chi fraternity and Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. Four representatives from each group were invited to participate and the representatives formed two teams.

Community service work is done through the Greek Day community work projects. Last year some 22 projects were undertaken by 45 fraternities and 22 sororities. These included recreation improvements and aid given local churches through cleaning and repairing of church property.

The climax of the week is the annual IFC-Panhel banquet held at the Nittany Lion Inn. During the banquet, the outstanding fraternities are announced and various scholarship trophies are awarded. Trophies are also presented to the IFC-Panhel Sing winners.

Campus Pep Comes From Cheerleaders

Leading cheers and fight songs at varsity sports events and putting the "pep" into pep rallies is the job of the 14 members of the University cheerleading squad.

The Nittany Lion, esteemed object of much joking and jesting at the football contests, is an added attraction to the cheerleading group. John Lange, senior in electrical engineering from Belle Vernon, is captain of the squad. Samuel Fleming, senior in chemical engineering from Huntingdon, and Eugene Woy, senior in business administration from Haverford, are assistants.

Members of the cheering squad are Ann Beveridge, Laurence Buck, Lucille Capella, Lanny Dey, Patricia Eden, John Edge, Jane Flinn, Charles Hodges, Patricia Leh, Patricia Shepler and Linda Speer. Alternates are Sue First and Robert Farrah.

John Behler, junior in psychology from Bethlehem, is the 1958-59 Nittany Lion.

Freshmen will get a chance to meet the cheerleaders at the frosh song and cheer practice at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Beaver Field.

In conjunction with campus hat societies, pep rallies will be held before each football game. Poster contests, bonfires, and parades are all part of the pepping up for the football contests.

Freshmen with a minimum 2.0 average may try out for the cheerleading squad in the spring. Two coeds and two male cheerleaders are chosen each spring in addition to alternates.

Times Editor Gets Post

Jerome Weinstein, editor of The Centre Daily Times, has been elected president of the Pennsylvania Associated Press Managing Editors.

He succeeds Edward Schuyler of the Bloomsburg Morning Press.

UBA to Begin Taking Books On Tuesday

The Used Book Agency will be accepting books in the card room of the Hetzel Union Building beginning Tuesday.

Any used books that will be used in courses this semester will be accepted.

The student-operated agency will be accepting the books until Sept. 16.

The books will go on sale Friday in the television room of the HUB. John Featherman, UBA manager, expects about 16,000 books for the sales period which will end Sept. 20.

Students must place their own price on the books; however, it may not exceed 80 per cent of the book's original cost. Prices of what the books cost new and the 80 per cent price will be posted outside the TV room.

A list of books to be used this semester will also be posted.

Any persons buying wrong books may return them to the agency for a refund Sept. 19 and 20.

Money and unsold books will be returned from Sept. 29 to Oct. 3 in the TV room and from Oct. 7 to 10 in the UBA storeroom.

A 10 cent charge will be made on each book turned in to the agency and an additional 10 cents will be charged to the person buying the book.

Honor Societies Suit Varied Interests

At the University, organizations can be found to suit almost any interest.

The professional fraternities include students who have an interest in anything from forestry to geography, while students are selected for honorary societies in recognition of their scholastic success.

Alpha Delta Sigma is the national advertising fraternity for men. At each meeting an advertising practitioner explains some aspect of the industry. The group takes a yearly field trip to either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh to see the industry in operation.

Alpha Kappa Psi is a commerce fraternity. Businessmen come to speak to them at their monthly meetings. Each year it holds a tea, a dance and a banquet. It also sponsors research projects and field trips.

The honorary fraternity for juniors, seniors and graduate students, with high averages, in business administration is Beta Gamma Sigma. This group is also open for membership to women in the course.

The members of Chi Epsilon, civil engineering honorary fraternity, are selected from the junior and senior classes on the basis of scholarship and character. The fraternity competes with other universities in presenting reports on civil engineering topics. Monthly meetings are held with engineering speakers.

Delta Nu Alpha is the men's transportation fraternity, which is open to those with a 2.0 average. It sponsors speakers at its meetings, field trips, an annual banquet, and rushing smoker.

Women interested in working on service projects may join Gamma Sigma Sigma. During orientation week this group will guide visitors on a tour around campus. It also runs an information booth with Alpha Phi Omega, men's service society.

Gamma Theta Upsilon, geography fraternity, is open to those with at least six credits in geography. It holds lectures and social events throughout the semester.

The business fraternity for women is Phi Chi Theta. The members sponsor a student-faculty mixer for the College of Business Administration and act as ushers for the annual Career Day.

All freshman men who receive a 3.5 average or better are elected to Phi Eta Sigma.

Pi Epsilon Tau, the petroleum engineering honorary, is composed of undergraduates, graduates and faculty members in the field.
