

6 Trustees Re-named; Gym Classes Maddigan Elected Required of Freshmen

Six members of the University's Board of Trustees were re-elected in June for 3-year terms.

One newcomer to the 32-member board, State Senator Albert W. Maddigan of Towanda, was elected to replace Furman H. Gyger Jr., Kimberton.

Senator Maddigan and J. Lewis Williams, Uniontown, re-elected, were chosen as two of the six delegates elected to the board by county agricultural societies.

Charles E. Oakes, Allentown, and Roger W. Rowland, New Castle, both re-elected, are two of six delegates chosen by county industrial societies.

Alumni re-elected George H. Deike, Pittsburgh; James B. Long, Blue Bell; and Willma D. Harkins, Philadelphia, as three of the nine members they regularly name to the board.

Six board members are appointed by the governor of the commonwealth and five positions are ex-officio: the governor, University president, superintendent of public instruction, secretary of agriculture and secretary of mines and mineral industries.

Working through seven standing committees, the board conducts constant research for new ideas to develop, maintain and manage the University.

As the top policy-making body, the board decides on all major changes affecting the University.

The full board meets only twice a year, January and June, but most of its work is carried out by its executive and standing committees.

George H. Deike is president of the board and chairman of the executive committee.

The executive committee meets and transacts business about seven times a year. Standing committees meet frequently between the executive meetings and give reports at the executive committee sessions.

The governor-appointed trustees are Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia; Edward J. Lynett, Scranton; Mary Jane Wyland, State College; Charles T. Douds, Englewood, N.J.; Frank W. Ruth Jr., Lykens; and Joseph A. McDonough, Philadelphia.

Trustees elected by the alumni are Deike, Harkins, Long, J. L. Mauthe, Youngstown, Ohio; Milton Fritsche, Philadelphia; Ralph Hetzel, New York City; J. E. Holtzinger, Altoona; B. C. Jones, Greensburg; and Mrs. Carvel Sparks, Riverton, N.J.

Board members elected by societies are Rowland, Maddigan, Oakes, Walter W. Patchell, Philadelphia; George W. Slocum, Milton; Kenzie S. Bagshaw, Hollidaysburg; R. Johnston Gillan, St. Thomas; H. Thomas Hallowell, Jr., Rydal; Fred E. Bittenbender, Shickshinny; Albert J. Nesbitt, Philadelphia; and G. Albert Shoemaker, Pittsburgh.

The College of Physical Education and Athletics, with about 350 students, offers programs in health and physical education and in recreation education.

The college also conducts required health and physical education courses for men and women. All first and second year students are required to take four credit hours in health and physical education in order to fulfill graduation requirements.

Students with physical defects enter a special program.

Students in the college are represented by the Physical Education Council. Council president is Calvin Emery, senior from Centre Hall.

Other officers are James Hockenbrock, vice president; Mary Radovic, secretary; and Judith Clancy, treasurer.

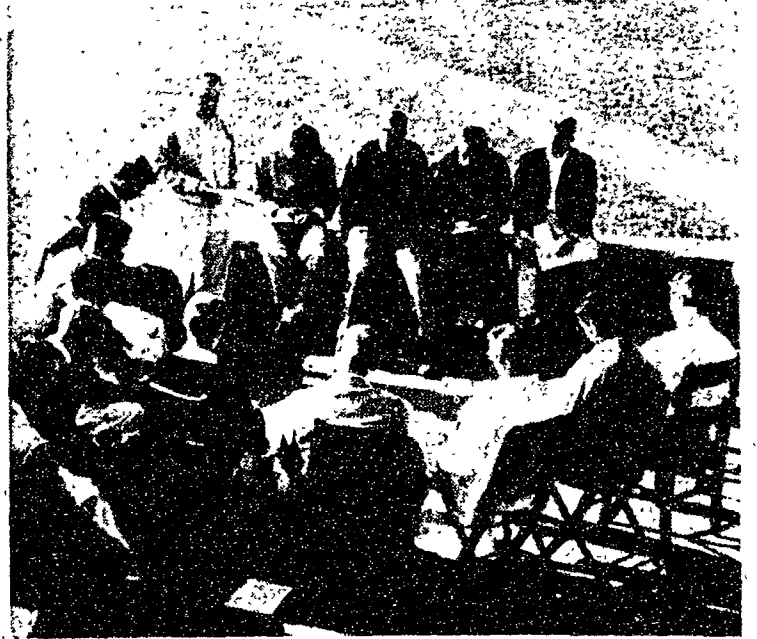

Council members are two representatives from each class; the president of Lakonides, woman's physical education honorary society; Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's honorary; student major club; recreation society, the editor of Discobolus and two faculty advisors.

Elections are held each spring in classes that physical education majors attend. Students are nominated by a committee appointed by the council president with council's approval. A petition of 15 names may make additional nominations.

THE NEWLY ADOPTED Interfraternity Council deferred rushing code was inspected closely yesterday at the IFC encampment held at the Civil Engineering Camp at Stone Valley. Board of Control chairman Ronald Siders, standing, outlined the program to workshop members.

IFC Encampment—

The penalties for violators is flexible with the maximum penalties being loss of rushing privileges for a year by the student and social probation for a semester for the fraternity.

Other problems discussed at the first encampment included the constitution and organization of the newly formed Junior IFC, how attendance is to be enforced and what benefits may be derived from the pledge presidents' group. Bettering the existing relationships between the fraternities, on the one hand, and the townspeople, faculty, and University on the other, occupied a majority of the discussion in the public relations workshop.

The scholarship committee recommended that renewed emphasis and interest be placed on the academic standing of fraternity members and urged fraternities to create a better studying atmosphere for pledges.

The Interfraternity Council Purchasing Association workshop concerned itself with enrolling more members and increasing the size of the service.

The encampment, attended by some 85 fraternity presidents, advisers, faculty members, administrative personnel and IFC committee members, consisted of morning sessions in six areas. They were the IFCPA — Robert Ginns, chairman; public relations — Theodore Haller; IFC organization and administration — James Hammerle; scholarship — John Nagy; and Junior IFC — Charles Hughes, newly appointed IFC secretary-treasurer.

After a box lunch at the site of the planned Stone Valley recreation area, the group convened for a general meeting under the chairmanship of Robert Jubelirer and president Edward Hintz.

port to receive the nomination of the party as a whole.

Once the parties have made their final nomination of candidates for the offices, a campus-wide campaign is conducted. At the end of the campaign, you and your classmates will go to the polls and elect your officers.

My message on Friday will be concerned with political experience, student councils, and the pitfalls of public scrutiny of student government actions.
