

Cabinet to Hear Results Of Student Encampment

Recommendations from the seventh annual Student Encampment will go to All-University Cabinet for action, delegation to committees or the administration or revisions.

The recommendations were drawn up by the seven workshops at Encampment, held Sept. 3 to 6 at Mont Alto Forestry School. A series of Daily Collegian articles beginning next week will explain the recommendations.

About 90 students and 30 faculty and administration members attended Encampment. About 70 of the 90 student delegates were chosen to attend because of their positions in student activities.

The other 20 students were chosen by interview. About 150 competed for the 20 open positions. The faculty and administration members attended by invitation.

Eugene Curry, senior in business administration from Reading, was chairman of the Encampment committee.

Committee members were Jay Feldstein (All-University president), chairman of the plenary session; David Epstein, evaluation chairman; Theodore Haller, business manager; and Marshal Jacobson, recreation director.

The purpose of Encampment is to provide an informal atmosphere for discussing University problems.

Milton Eisenhower brought along the idea of holding an Encampment when he became president of the University in 1950. As president of Kansas State College he had originated an encampment there.

The seven workshops and their chairmen were:

Recreation and Student Welfare, David Fineman; Judicial System, Mary Ann Gemmill; Culture and Academic Affairs, Louis Phillips; Subsidiary Organizations, Samuel Fleming; Communications, William Lewellen; Present Problems of Student Government, Charles Bartholomew; and Student Government Organization, John Bott.

Chapel Choir Known for Trips To Britain, European Countries

The University's Chapel Choir, through its trips to England and the Continent, has become internationally known.

It and other campus and local choral groups — Meditation Chapel Choir, Men's Glee Club, Women's Chorus, Phi Mu Alpha Chorus and the State College Choral Society — are open to all interested students.

The University Chapel Choir, under the direction of Willa Taylor, sings for all Sunday chapel services in Schwab Auditorium and also presents a candlelight service before Christmas and a special Palm Sunday program.

Each year the choir gives a spring concert with orchestra and professional soloists featuring a complete oratorio or mass. Last year the choir presented Haydn's "Missa Sanctae Ceciliae."

Auditions for the Chapel Choirs are being held through September 20. Interested students may make appointments in the lobby of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

The Chapel Choir toured Europe in the summers of 1955 and 1957, and is currently planning another tour for 1959.

There are about 100 voices in the choir. One credit is given for participation in the choir. Tryouts will be held during Orientation Week by appointment at the University Chapel.

The Meditation Chapel Choirs, consisting of approximately 30 members each, sing for the services in Meditation Chapel. Each group sings one service a week, as well as on every third Sunday morning.

The Men's Glee Club presents two concerts each year and makes a spring tour. Last year's makes a spring tour.

Included in the Glee Club are two special groups, the Varsity Quartet and the Hi-Lo's. The Varsity Quartet was organized about 50 years ago and specializes in modern and popular numbers. The Hi-Lo's is a group of about 18 men which specializes in comedy selections.

In 1933 the Glee Club made a coast-to-coast tour and in 1928 sang in Europe.

The group is under the direction of Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, and is open to all undergraduate students. Tryouts will be held during Orientation Week every day from 7 p.m. on in 200 Carnegie.

The Women's Chorus of about 150 voices presents an annual spring concert in Schwab Auditorium and an annual concert in Bellefonte High School. The chorus is directed by W. Paul Campbell, associate professor of music education.

Two smaller groups are included in the Women's Chorus, the Woman's Trio and the Triple Trio.

Auditions for the chorus will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday during Orientation Week, 9-12 and 1-5 daily in 212 Carnegie.

The Phi Mu Alpha chorus is part of the Phi Mu Alpha professional music fraternity. It participates in a classical concert each year in cooperation with other musical groups of the fraternity.
