AM Station Is Tabled By Trustees

There are no senior class gift funds and there have been none since 1948, President Eric A. Walker said yesterday.

Unknown to the students, and many administration officials including Walker himself, the University has been footing the bill for gift choices of the senior class. But it can no longer be expected to do so, President Eric A. Walker said yesterday.

Before 1948 the gift funds came from a damage deposit assessed all students. When all student fees were consolidated into one general fee that year, the deposit ceased to exist, Walker said.

The 1958 class gift—$10,000 for an AM radio station—did not receive an appropriation from the Board of Trustees at its June meeting. University officials said the proposal was last on the agenda and was tabled by the trustees because of the lateness of the meeting hour.

But Walker said the trustees unquestionably will decide on its own merits whether the University will establish an AM radio station. A meeting is scheduled for October.

The student body has never been informed of the correct source of income for the senior class gift during the past 10 years.

James H. Coogan, director of Public Information, yesterday said Walker himself learned of the situation only recently from Carl R. Barnes, University comptroller. Walker apparently was not aware of the situation when he accepted the 1957 and 1958 gifts.

Walker voiced regret that the students had not been better informed and expressed confidence that classes will recognize demands on University revenue which he said make it impossible for the University to continue providing for the gift.

Walker said the damage deposit which provided the senior gift was exhausted in 1948. (Continued on page fifteen)

Dink Debut Kicks Off Dress Customs Tonight

"Eager beaver" freshmen who have been wearing their dinks this week will be glad to learn that they will officially begin customs tonight.

Dress customs (dink and name-card) are to be worn at the Dink Debut 8:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom. Freshmen without their customs will not be admitted.

And customs must be worn all day tomorrow too. They may be removed following the Class Night program 8-11 tonight in Recreation building.

At the start of classes Monday, all Freshmen will be required to wear dress customs from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, until noon Saturdays and to all intercollegiate athletic events. All other times are "customs holidays." Men must remove their dinks when inside a building.

Freshmen must carry their Student Handbooks with them at all times, except during the dress customs holidays. The identification page of this book must be filled out completely and memorized.

Freshmen who do not obey these and other regulations may have their names turned into the Freshmen Customs Board for penalization by upperclassmen and upperclass women.

Freshmen over 21 must appear personally before the board at 6:30 p.m. Monday in 218 HUB for exemptions from the program.

Freshmen must learn and be able to recite on request the Freshman Oath: "In furthering the traditions of Penn State, I hereby promise to memorize our school songs and cheers, wear my dink and namecard with pride and learn the names and places of traditional interest. All of this I do for the betterment of The Pennsylvania State University."

Freshmen may not walk on campus grass or on any unpaved short cuts. Senior Walk, the walk extending along College Avenue from Allen Street gate to the Pugh Street gate, is out-of-bounds to all freshmen. This also includes the wall adjacent to the walk.

Ike Sees No Appeasement In Far East

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower pledged last night there would be no appeasement in the Far East crisis because he said that might lead to a major war.

At the same time, Eisenhower said, "there is some hope" that Red China will agree to negotiate a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

Eisenhower spoke out in a major Far Eastern policy speech carried to the people on television and radio and beamed abroad.

Eisenhower described the present Far East tensions as serious but he said:

"I believe that there is not going to be any war."

"But there must be sober realization by the American people that our legitimate purposes are again being tested by those who threaten peace and freedom everywhere."

Eisenhower likened Red demands that the United States force the Chinese Nationalists to surrender Quemoy and other offshore islands to demands for peace at any price evident at Munich before World War II.

"Some misguided persons have said that Quemoy is nothing to become excited about," he said.

Eisenhower said the United States would neither be "lured or frightened into appeasement" because of Red China's massive bombardments and threats to invade Quemoy and other Nationalist-held islands. He added:

"Now I assure you that no American boy will be asked by (Continued on page three)

DEAN RICHARD C. MALONEY and Council President Lou Phillips greet two freshmen at the College of the Liberal Arts Mixer, held last night in the HUB ballroom. The coeds will no doubt visit the ballroom again tonight, but this time they must don their blue and white dinks for the Dink Debut. The freshmen are Pat Zakian (left) from Upper Darby and Mary Dell Kahle from Yardley.

Freshmen to Frolic In Class Night Fun

'New Faces of 1958'—University style—will get together tomorrow night at Recreation Hall for fun, food and frolic at Freshman Class Night.

An estimated 2500 new students are expected to be present to preview the top talent of their fellow classmates and sing the school songs they have been learning all week.

The event will climax a week of activities designed to acquaint new students with each other and with the school.

In preparation for this first Class Night program, a meeting of all students who auditioned for the talent show will be held at 10 a.m. today in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

Robert Navarra, secretary of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, which is sponsoring the class night, said the meeting will be held to run through the act again so that he can arrange the final program for the talent show.

He said the response to the call for acts to audition was far greater than he had anticipated and made this second meeting necessary. Because of the large amount of talent available, he said, it will be necessary to eliminate some of the acts which auditioned.

A dress rehearsal will be held tomorrow afternoon for the acts which are selected this morning. Navarra said the program for the talent show will consist primarily of vocal talent—mostly soloists—and will include comedy skits and instrumental numbers.

Freshman Class Night replaces Fun Night, the annual freshman get-acquainted program. Upperclassmen dates may also attend.

The evening's program for Class Night includes dancing from 8 to 9 p.m., singing school songs from 9 to 9:30 and the talent show from 9:30 to 10:30.

Following the talent show, refreshments will be served, and dancing will resume again until midnight.

Dr. Hummel Fishburn and Frank Gullo of the Department of Music will lead the singing.

Dag Seeks Moon Laws

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld has called for an international agreement banning possible national claims to the moon or other outer space bodies.

Ed Caye Sidelined For Grid Season

By LOU PRATO

Collegian Sports Editor

Penn State's football fortunes soared downward yesterday when it was learned that first team right halfback Eddie Caye would be missing for the season.

Caye, who tore a ligament in his left knee Monday afternoon, will be operated on this morning at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital in Danville.

"His injury was more serious than I had at first believed," team doctor Alfred Griess said yesterday. "We took him to Danville this morning and after consultation, we decided to operate."

"Besides his torn ligament," the doctor added, "he may also be suffering from cartilage damage. However, we won't know that until after the operation."

That operation will be performed by Dr. Leonard Bush and Dr. Love. They are the same surgeons who have successfully performed similar operations on three current varsity performers, Captain Steve Garban, Bruce Gilmore and Willard "Bull" Smith.

Indies to Feature Workshop Sessions

The Indie encampment will feature six workshops and a two-hour plenary session at the group's first annual affair to be held from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Forestry in Stone Valley.

James Wambold has been named chairman of the event for independent men and women students.

Also aiding in the session will be Edward Frymoyer, Association of Independent Men president, and Rita Saltzer, Leonides president.

Some 70 students, faculty and administrative personnel will attend the encampment at the site of the proposed University recreational site. The Forestry Cabin is located about 15 miles from the campus.

Representatives of State College police and fire departments will attend and address the group. Also expected to attend is Burgess Roy Anthony to discuss the community's relationship with the independent students.

Officials from the dean of men's and dean of women's office will attend as well as Ross B. Lehman, assistant executive alumni secretary and adviser to All-University Cabinet, and George B. Donovan, coordinator of student activities.

Lorraine Jablonski will head the student government workshop and concern her discussion with better ways of promoting interest in student government and its problems. Donald Dennis and Barbara Marcus will head the finance workshop and the discussion of financing of independent affairs.

Charles Bartholomew will head the social-recreation workshop which will delve into the problem of presenting an adequate social program for freshmen. William Schimpf is chairman of the communications workshop.

The AIM-Leonides cooperation workshop will be handled by Carl Smith, former West Halls Council president. David Byers will head the regulation. (Continued on page five)
