Senior Unit Pushes Gift Negotiation

By DICK DRAYNE
Collegian Managing Editor

Attempts to renew the defunct senior class gift picked up momentum last night as the Senior Class Advisory Board threw its support behind negotiations with the University for a gift fund.

The board in a lengthy discussion supplied Senior Class President Charles Welsh with suggested methods of renewing the gift to take to President Eric A. Walker at a meeting to be held on the gift fund.

Welsh and All-University President Jay Feldstein are scheduled to meet with Walker on Friday afternoon.

Welsh said he will bring the board's suggestions to Walker and will also try to determine if there are any monies now available which could be channeled into a gift fund.

The board discussed the issue both from the point of trying to raise money for a gift this year—which Welsh said he "very definitely" hopes to do—and providing a system for providing funds for a class gift in the future.

A proposal to empower Feldstein and Welsh to negotiate with the University to reallocate funds for a class gift was passed by All-University Cabinet last Thursday.

The advisory board suggestions included both reallocation of funds and other methods of raising the money.

The board concluded that "one of the better ways" to raise money in the future is by assessing each student at the beginning of each semester.

Among other suggestions brought up at the meeting were:

A voluntary collection of fees among seniors for this year's gift; an assessment of seniors to provide a down payment on a gift, the remainder to be paid after the class has graduated; and a graduated assessment among all classes for the next four years, after which the fee would be standardized.

Greased Pig to End Customs for Frosh

By LIANNE CORDERO

Twelve freshmen in hot pursuit of a greased pig will bring Customs to an end this year.

The date for the "Greased Pig Scramble" has not yet been released by the Freshman Customs Board.

The contest will be held on the enclosed tennis courts at the corner of Pollock Road and Route 322. Only the participants will be allowed inside the wire fence.

The 12 contestants will be divided into six teams of two each. The team that catches the pig will officially end the Customs period. Each team will be given three minutes to catch the pig.

Eleven of the participants are volunteers from the animal husbandry 1 course. The 12th participant is a Customs violator who volunteered to enter the contest as his penalty.

The pig used in the contest will be from University livestock. It will be selected by Dr. James L. Gobble, assistant professor of animal husbandry.

The idea for the "Greased Pig Scramble" originated in the Subsidiary Organizations of Student Government Workshop at this year's Student Encampment.

Today has been declared a Joint Customs Day by the Customs Board. Upperclassmen and upperclasswomen both may request freshman men to "Butt" and freshman women to "Curtsy."

Only one violator was penalized by the board last night. Helen Will, freshman in pre-medical from Pittsburgh, was found carrying her dress Customs in her purse. She will wear a sign Thursday proclaiming, "My Customs are in my purse."

Plan for Hydraulics Building Delays Stone Valley Project

By DON CASCIATO

The decision to add a hydraulics testing building on top of the proposed dam at the Stone Valley Recreation Area has delayed the start on the $200,000 project, according to the program's coordinator, Lawrence Perez.

Originally the plans for the dam were to have been presented to the State Power and Resources Board on May 12. As of now, the plans are still incomplete and have yet to be presented to the board, Perez said.

Work now being done on the project includes designing the dam and clearing 70 acres around the planned dam area. Perez said he is hoping students will answer a plea to help clear and burn the debris in the area. He said this will save money. The plea will be issued to students as soon as it gets colder, he said.

Once the plans for the dam are sent to the board it remains only for the board to approve them. The board meets once a month.

The project, which is being sponsored and paid for by the Alumni Association and the friends of the University, was begun during the fall of 1956.

The proposed dam will be 42 feet high and 600 feet long. The structure will block Shaver Creek upon completion, forming a 70-acre lake.

The area is 15 miles from the

Peiping's Seating In UN Sidetracked

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States succeeded yesterday in again getting the United Nations to sidetrack the question of Red China's membership. But the margin of victory was the lowest on record.

By a vote of 44-28 the 81-nation General Assembly approved a U.S. proposal to postpone the issue for another year. Nine nations abstained.

Last year the vote was 48 for, 27 against and six abstentions.

In approving the U.S. proposal the Assembly rejected India's request that the Assembly open full-scale debate on Red China's representation. It also decided against considering any proposals for excluding the Chinese Nationalists or to seat the representatives of Peiping.

By its vote the Assembly endorsed the action of its powerful Steering Committee. It approved the U.S. proposal by a 12-7 vote last Friday.

This time the United States had the support of slightly over 54 per cent of the U.N. members on the postponement move.

It compared with 71.6 per cent in 1954, 70 per cent in 1955, and a little over 59 per cent in 1956 and 1957. The drop in 1956 and 1957 was due to the increase in the U.N. membership by 21 nations, including four Soviet bloc and six Asian nations.

Perhaps one of the most significant developments in the Assembly debate this year was the fact that the United States fought almost singlehandedly for its proposal.

Almost all the speakers in the debate that opened Monday morning were from the nations either opposed to the United States stand or abstaining.

Those lining up against the United States on the final vote were: Afghanistan, Albania, Bulgaria, Burma, White Russia, Cambodia, Ceylon, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, Ghana, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Iraq, Ireland, Morocco, Nepal, Norway, Poland, Romania, Sudan, Sweden, Ukraine, the Soviet Union, United Arab Republic, Yemen and Yugoslavia.

Council Asks BX to Sell Slide Rules

The Engineering and Architecture Student Council voted last night to recommend that the BX sell slide rules in the future.

The BX carried a very limited supply of slide rules this year, a council member explained, because Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs, said a slide rule could not be considered part of an engineer's supplies.

A motion was also made to send Jack Kendall, student council president, to Michigan State's industrial exposition in October. The motion was tabled until the next meeting when more complete information would be available on the council's financial ability to stand his expenses.

The council now has $50 in its treasury but expects $1350 from anticipated fees and $280 in unpaid bills from last semester's industrial exposition.

The council also discussed the possibility of including the Mineral Industries and Chemistry and Physics Student Councils in its plans for next year's exposition.

Eng Grad Sails on Skate

Zane A. Sandusky, a 1955 engineering graduate, was among the crew of the USS Skate, the second United States atomic submarine to reach the North Pole. Sandusky served as system test engineer for the inertial navigation equipment.

The USS Skate spent 10 days and 14 hours and traveled 2,405 miles under the polar ice pack. She surfaced nine times during this period on her zig-zag voyage at the top of the world.

Sandusky began his employment with Autonetics, developers and producers of the inertial navigation equipment, as a junior research engineer shortly after graduation from the University. He assumed his system test engineering responsibilities in March 1956.
