The crowd moved down to the Penn-Penn State Pep Rally held in front of Old Main. Approximately 1200 students attended the rally. Guest speakers Joseph Paterno, quarterback coach, and All-University President Jay Feldstein urged students to support the football team. Paterno called the Nebraska loss a "pre-season practice game." "We were terrible, we deserved it," he said. The cheerleaders led the freshmen in a new class cheer: "P.S.U! We're for you! We're the Class of '62."

However, adding to the merry-go-round, Nye felt it might be coupled with the ROTC question involving exemption of veterans. This, too, met a blank wall, as Elmer R. Queer, Military Instruction committee chairman, knew nothing of it. Expressing disappointment with the action, Feldstein pledged to try to uncover the recommendation and have some sort of action taken.

Half-Holiday--

(Continued from page one) the administration also favors the plan. All-University President Jay Feldstein said he will appoint a committee chairman at next week's meeting. The committee will discuss both the feasibility and organization of the parents groups. Cabinet approved the possible formation of the group at last week's meeting and sent it to the public relations committee for study.

Local Destruction Becomes Construction

By DON CASCIATO
The organized destruction and excavation on campus last spring is gradually being transformed into construction as new buildings are beginning to take form.

A tour over campus would show these developments, as numbered in the photograph:

● 1—The new Men's Residence Halls along Park Avenue and Shortlidge Road are the nearest to completion. All the structural work is complete on three of four L-shaped units. The structural work on the remaining building will be completed within a week and a half.

Each of the units is in a different construction stage. The interior work is now beginning in the more advanced dorms. Dining rooms for the units have their structural part complete and workmen are now in the process of enclosing it. The new residence halls, due for completion in July 1959, will house approximately 1100.

● 2—The military science building, named the Wagner Building, was started at the end of May and is due for completion in April, 1960.

All the frame work on the building is finished and work is starting on the first floor structure. The Military Science Building is North of the Nittany Dorms.

● 3—The structural steel has been installed for the telephone building which was started last August. The building should be ready for partial occupation by the middle of February. The equipment room is scheduled for completion at this time so that Bell Telephone Co. can install its equipment. The rest of the building is scheduled for completion shortly after February 15.

In connection with the telephone building, telephone ducts are being installed near the Jordan Fertility Plots along Pollock Rd., opposite McElwain Hall.

● 4—Foundations for the wing connecting the new Home Economics Building with the old south wing have been laid. The extension to the south wing structure has reached the second story. The south wing will not be completely demolished, but will be incorporated into the new plan.

Work on the new Home Economic Buildings started last May and is expected to be completed by April 1960.

● 5—Excavation proceedings are nearly completed for the north wing of Sackett and for the Hammond Engineering Building along West College Avenue.

Some of the foundations have been laid in the north wing of Sackett Building, along the Mall. Most of the plumbing and electrical parts have been put in for both buildings.

Workmen are hoping to have the foundations-laid for the Hammond Building by cold weather.

● 6—The Petroleum Refining Laboratory, south of the Forestry Building, has all its foundations in, and cement is now being poured for part of the first floor. The structural steel for the building is expected in the middle of October.

Work was begun last April and the completion date is expected to be April 1960.
