

IFC Relieves Ban On Residence Halls, OK's Day Rushing

By BILL JAFFE

Editorial on Page Six

The ban on fraternity members entering men's residence halls was partially lifted yesterday.

Fraternity members will be permitted in men's residence halls from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. effective today under a joint agreement by the Interfraternity Council and residence hall

2 Students Involved In Accidents

University students were involved in two accidents Saturday morning, one on near-by Seven Mountains, the other in Germantown, outside of Philadelphia.

William A. Thompson, senior in business administration from Red Lion, escaped serious injury when his car overturned and caught fire on the Seven Mountains. He was enroute to Red Lion. Thompson was treated for first degree burns of the face and hands at the Lewistown Hospital dispensary.

He was taken to the dispensary after passing motorists removed him from his burning car. It was reported by Lewistown Police that Thompson was released from the dispensary following treatment.

Noel DeCavalcante, senior in business administration from Wynnewood suffered a few minor cuts and bruises, and a woman passenger sustained a slight sprained ankle in the Germantown accident. Four other passengers in the vehicle escaped injury.

DeCavalcante said that the accident happened when he swerved to avoid the car in front of him on the Germantown Pike. He missed the car, but crashed into a light post, a fire alarm and a traffic light instead.

He said the car signaled for a left turn, but then turned right causing him to turn as he attempted to pass on the right. DeCavalcante's car was damaged in the front but the cost has not yet been determined, he said.

counselors. During the study hours of 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., no fraternity man will be allowed in the dormitories for any purpose, Ronald Siders, Chairman of the IFC Board of Control, said in announcing the agreement.

At last week's IFC meeting, the Board of Control ruled the dormitories off-limits for fraternity men for any reason other than to visit members of the immediate family. Yesterday's ruling partially eliminates the ban.

Siders said the ruling will mean fraternity members may enter the dormitories for "any purpose" during the stated hours.

In other words, fraternity rushing on an individual basis will be legal under the IFC deferred rushing program. Fraternity members may also visit upperclassmen during the daylight hours and use the residence halls' facilities, Siders said.

Fraternity members still may not supply or provide freshmen with anything of monetary value nor may they rush as a group. The number composing a "group" has not been defined by the Board of Control, Siders said.

The agreement which partially lifted the ban was made at a meeting attended by Edward Frymoyer, AIM president; Edward Hintz, IFC president; William Crafts, assistant to the dean of men in charge of independent affairs; Dean O. Edward Pollock, residence hall's counselors; and Siders.

"The residence halls counselors will assume the added responsibility of policing the dormitories during the night and reporting infractions," Siders said.

No exceptions will be made to permit fraternity members to enter the dormitories from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., Siders said. It will mean the end to campus political campaigning for fraternity men in the dormitories and counselling by student groups. Visiting immediate

Court Rules Out South's Evasion

WASHINGTON (P) — The Supreme Court told resisting Southerners and all others yesterday that "evasive schemes for segregation" cannot nullify orders of the court.

The unanimous opinion pointed straight toward just such things as the lease of Little Rock's four high schools for private, segregated operation.

Chief Justice Earl Warren read the 17-page opinion word for word in a quiet proceed-

Little Rock Board Ordered To Maintain Public Schools

OMAHA (P)—Two federal circuit judges ordered the Little Rock Board of Education yesterday to retain control of the city high schools and to maintain their integrated status.

Judges Harvey M. Johnson and Joseph W. Woodrough issued an order restraining the board, its agents and employees from "taking further action to transfer possession, control or operation, directly or indirectly," of the Little Rock schools.

The order forbade altering the "status quo of the senior high schools insofar as their integrated status is concerned."

The Little Rock School Board yesterday morning transferred the schools to a private corporation which intends to operate them on a segregated basis starting today.

During the hearing in Omaha yesterday, Justice Department Attorney Donald MacGuineas said the Little Rock school lease had been executed in haste to complete action before the hearing.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P)—Attorney for the teachers in Little Rock high schools said last night they have advised them not to "participate in the operation of the Little Rock high schools by any private corporation."

The action came while school officials and officers of the private corporation that leased the schools yesterday were conferring over the next step in the legally-tangled situation.

LITTLE ROCK — School board leased four high schools for use as private segregated schools shortly before Supreme Court declared evasive schemes cannot be countenanced. Private corporation planned to reopen schools today "unless we get some sort of direct order to proceed."

NORFOLK, Va.—First wholesale school closings under Virginia program to resist integration leaves 10,000 high school pupils idle. School board calls emergency meeting to discuss next moves.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker says he knows nothing of the possibility of using troops again this year in Little Rock school crisis.

Botula Hurt in Lion Victory

By LOU PRATO

One would think that head football Coach Rip Engle would be a very happy gent after Penn State's 43-0 thrashing of Penn Saturday. But he's not.

It's not that he didn't enjoy seeing his boys bounce back after the 14-7 upset by Nebraska last week—far from it. But the overpowering victory cost him and the Lions their most valuable piece of grid property—fullback Pat Botula.

Botula, who led the Nittany runners in rushing for the second straight weekend, will be out of action for at least three weeks because of a painful elbow injury suffered early in the second quarter of Saturday's fiasco.

"I really feel terrible about Botula's injury," Engle said yesterday afternoon. "He's the best fullback in the East. It's a crime to be eliminated (from action) for several weeks in the manner in which he was."

The manner of Botula's injury was a crime indeed. In fact, if Penn's three-year veteran tackle Dennis Troychack would have had any manners, Botula would still be in the lineup today.

For it was Troychack who applied the block that sent Botula to the sidelines. It came on the kickoff following Penn State's second touchdown. Botula ran down to cover the play but the whistle blew before he could help with the tackle. But in the split ing, while in Little Rock the lease plan blessed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus was being put into being.

Warren didn't name Faubus or any other state official, and he didn't define what was meant by evasive tactics. But the opinion did assert:

"The constitutional rights of children not to be discriminated against in school admission on grounds of race or color . . . can neither be nullified openly and directly by state legislators or state executive or judicial officers, nor nullified indirectly by them through evasive schemes for segregation whether attempted ingeniously or ingenuously . . . states can not support segregated schools through any arrangement, management, funds, or property cannot be equated with the 14th amendment's command that no state shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Arkansas is one of several Southern states which are trying by one means or another to keep Negro and white pupils separate, regardless of what the Supreme Court says.

On the surface, yesterday's opinion ruled out every form of resistance—direct and indirect—but no one believed that Gov. Faubus and others of like mind had any intention of giving up.

The opinion was unanimous, as have been all of those since the court first ruled in 1954 that forced segregation is unconstitutional. The opinion stressed the thesis that the 1954 opinion "is the supreme law of the land."

Yesterday's special session was attended by all the nine members except Justice William O. Douglas.

Yesterday's session was called to deliver an opinion supporting the court's Sept. 12 decision calling for integration to proceed immediately at Little Rock's Central High School. It has not proceeded, however, because of resistance by state authorities.

There was some expectation in advance that the court would say in some detail what it meant three years ago when it said public school segregation on account of race would have to be ended "with all deliberate speed."

Warmer Weather, Rain Seen Today

The Nittany Lion, whose ghost writer is the weatherman, scribbled a promise of a little warmer weather today, followed, however, by increasing cloudiness in the late afternoon and rain tonight.

Penn Film to Be Shown

Movies of the Penn-Penn State game will be shown by the Varsity "S" Club at 6:45 tonight in 119 Osmond.

Matriculation cards are necessary for admission.
