

Rogers Shines Despite Defeat

Lion Booters Blanked By Ram Defenses, 2-0

Any hopes that Penn State's soccer team might have had about winning another national championship received a severe jolt Saturday when it lost to West Chester State Teachers College, 2-0.

This was a "do-or-die" game for both squads. For Penn State it was a big hurdle that had to be cleared en route to a national title. For West Chester it meant a 16-game win streak plus a lot of added prestige to its already glittering soccer history.

A crowd of about 2,000 highly partisan West Chester soccer fans had a perfect day to see one of the most important soccer games to be played in the East this year.

West Chester's victory was due mainly to an outstanding defensive performance turned in by its backline defense.

Terry German, playing his first game as a goalie, was the main cog in the West Chester defense. He saved 14 shots.

For the second straight year—last year the Rams won 5-1—West Chester used their "three-back defense" to blank the Lions. By deploying center forward Joe Onyschuk between the two fullbacks, the hosts were able to completely bottle up Penn State's offense.

For the first quarter neither team was able to mount much of an offensive because of good defensive play.

With 2:15 of the second period gone, Ram center forward Andy Kelly scored on a "freak" shot. Chris Jones, the West Chester outside left, took a shot and it bounced off the diving Lion goalie Jerry Bruce. The ball fell in front of the goal and Kelly then tapped it in.

The goal started West Chester on a hot streak and they began to move. They kept the pressure on the Penn State defense until their outside left, Chris Jones, tallied at 11:50. This ended the scoring for the half and the afternoon.

Despite the loss there was one bright spot for the Lions and that was their defense. "I know it seems crazy to praise a defense after a team loses, but our fullbacks and goalie deserve a lot of credit for holding the score at 2-0," Hosterman said. "I was extremely pleased with Wayne Rogers."

"Rogers really hustled. If he plays like that all the time, all my fullback worries will be over. As of now I'm pretty confident that the fullbacks will be pretty solid for the rest of the year," continued Hosterman.

Hosterman was very disappointed with the Lion offense. Neither Bill Fiedler or Mike Stollmeyer were able to break loose from the blanket-type defense thrown up by the Golden Rams.

Fiedler scored four goals last week against Bucknell but couldn't do a thing against West Chester.

He now has only seven games left to break the Penn State scoring record of 25 goals set by Dick Packer in 1955.

"The main trouble with our offense was the inability of our wings to get the ball to the insides," said Hosterman. "We'll be drilling on that this week in preparation for Syracuse."

Army 3rd in Grid Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS followed by Wisconsin, Mississippi, Clemson, Michigan State and Pittsburgh.

The experts, who have had a little trouble agreeing on the early rankings of major college football teams, fell back on an old reliable Monday—1957 champion Auburn.

Army's high-scoring team climbed from fifth to third in the ratings and Notre Dame from seventh to fourth. They'll settle their relative positions when they meet next Saturday.

Auburn became the third team in as many weeks to hold the No. 1 spot. Ohio State, the pre-season pick, led the first weekly poll, then Oklahoma moved up last week.

Pitt takes on Michigan State next Saturday in a second tussle between a pair of top ten teams. The second ten are Louisiana State, Navy, Purdue, Michigan, Oregon, Texas, Iowa, Southern Methodist and a 19th place tie between Colorado and Houston.
