

Haney Nominates Spahn to Go for Clincher Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, 37-year-old Milwaukee ace, will try to clinch the World Series today with only two days of rest when he faces the New York Yankees in the sixth game. Casey Stengel did not announce a definite starter but hunted strongly it might be Whitey Ford instead of Art Ditmar or Don Larsen.

Although Spahn normally works every fourth day and never started all season with only two days off, Manager

Fred Haney decided to shoot the works with his best. If it goes to a seventh game he always has Lew Burdette, his 1957 Yankee killer.

Trailing 3-2 in this best-of-seven series in the enemy territory of County Stadium, Stengel said he wouldn't name his starter until after he watched his men warm up today.

"You've got to get a pitcher to compare with Spahn," said Stengel. "Ford told me he is ready. I'm going to talk to Larsen. I don't like to use him with two or three days rest. He has had a sore arm ever since I got him."

Big money rides on each pitch as they head into the sixth game. The winners will split about $313,000 and the losers about $208,000, to say nothing of the endorsement cash and extra money for winter appearances by the world champions.

Bill Bruton of the Braves, more respected as a defensive man than a dangerous hitter, leads both clubs with a .500 average. Although he has started only three times, he has appeared in all five games. Del Crandall is having an excellent series, hitting .294 and doing a fine job behind the plate. However, he has struck out six times. Hank Aaron (.263) also has fanned six times and has yet to drive in his first run.

Eddie Mathews, the most feared long-distance slugger in the Milwaukee lineup, has been a disappointment with a .211 average.

On the Yankee side the big man is Hank Bauer who hit safely through 17 series games before he finally was stopped. The ex-Marine is batting .381 with eight hits, high for the series. He has three homers and seven runs batted in to top both clubs in power.

Mickey Mantle has pulled his average up to .333, with three runs batted in. Gil McDougald's excellent second-base play and his .278 average scoff at the Milwaukee scouting report that he is over the hill.

Until catcher Yogi Berra doubled Monday the squat catcher hadn't driven in a run. He still has only one RBI and a sad .158 average although he has played more series games, 59, than any other man.

Engle Shifts Janerette, Ruslavage to 2nd Unit

A visitor at Penn State's football practice on Beaver Field yesterday afternoon must have thought he was watching a revised production of "New Faces."

At least that was the appearance head producer Rip Engle gave from the cast changes he made in the Lions' starting lineup. For only two of the 11 performers that opened against Army last Saturday—Captain Steve Garban and tackle Andy Stynchula—ran with Engle's first team alignment.

However, this isn't as shocking as it may seem, for 7 of the 9 other regulars were "resting up" because of minor injuries suffered in the Army debacle.

But two men—guard Chuck Ruslavage and tackle Chuck Janerette—were shuffled to the alternate unit by Engle. In their place on the first array went junior Bud Kohlhaas at guard and sophomore Bob Gilmour at tackle.

Engle had very little to say on the changes. (Ruslavage and Janerette). "They didn't play too well against Army," he said. "Now, we'll see if they want their jobs back."

Ends Norm Neff and Maury Schleicher, guard Bill Wehmer, and backs Al Jacks, Dave Kasperian, Fran Paolone and Andy Moconyi were missing from the first team because of injuries and were limited to light contact work. Here's a breakdown of the ailments: Neff, achilles tendon; Schleicher, ankle sprain; Wehmer, bruised neck muscles; Jacks, sore arm muscles; Kasperian, sore knee and bruises; Paolone, bruised hip; and Moconyi, bad charley horse.

According to team doctor Alfred Griess, all of the aforementioned gridders are expected to be ready for Saturday's Homecoming clash with Marquette. But as Engle said: "How can they be in top physical shape if they don't practice hard?"

Four other alternate unit performers were also limited to light contact yesterday because of injuries including tackle Joe Bohart, end Stew Barber, halfback Dek Hoak and Sam Sobczak. Bohart is the most serious casualty with a bad shoulder and twisted ankle. His ankle injury was left over from the Nebraska game but the shoulder got banged up Saturday. His status for the Marquette tilt is doubtful.

Commenting on the injuries, Engle said: "I don't know why we have had all the bad luck. I never experienced such a year in my coaching career. We looked pretty deep after last spring's practice, but not now."

Garban Picked As Player of the Week

Captain Steve Garban picked up two first place votes in Collegian's "Player of the Week" poll to become the Lions' outstanding player for the Army game.

Quarterback Richie Lucas came in a strong second. He was picked among the top two players by all five selectors—but four of them picked him second.

Mickey Bergstein, WMAJ's versatile sportscaster was the lone selector to name the former "Reckless Richie" as the top Lion athlete in the Cadet encounter.

The other four selectors—Centre Daily Times sports editor Ron Fields, alumni executive secretary Ridge Riley, Collegian sports editor Lou Prato and associate sports editor Matt Mathews—considered Lucas' efforts, but picked Garban.

Fields picked the Lion Captain after pointing out that Coach Rip Engle was elated over the work of Lucas. But Fields commented, "I think Garban did about the best job in the line and in that none of the backs were really outstanding. I'll pick Garban."

Prato had a similar view of his choice: "It was either Garban or Lucas and I seemed to notice Garban's playing more."

Mathews threw in a surprise vote for end Norm Neff who started his first game Saturday. "There was only one player who did much blocking beyond the line," commented Mathews, "and that was Neff. And on defense, Neff was one of the few Lions to get into the Cadet backfield and make a tackle."

Riley, the man who made the lone selection of Garban as the "player of the week" for the Penn game, picked Andy Moconyi. "My choice is between Lucas and Moconyi," said the "literate" sports analyst. "and I give Andy the advantage on his 'meanness'. You need a mean player when you play at Army to match the Cadets' type of 'aggressiveness'. Besides, he took the place of our outstanding back (Pat Botula) and with only a week's practice did a highly commendable job."

Army Leads Nation In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — The superior balance of Army's football team was shown Tuesday in the latest figures from the NCAA Service Bureau.

The Cadets are No. 1 in total offense, second in passing offense, third in rushing, seventh in total defense, eighth in rushing defense, as they prepare for their important game with Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, Ind.

Although not among the top 10 in pass defense yardage, Army has allowed the lowest percentage of enemy passes to be completed—only eight in 40 attempts. The West Pointers also are second in scoring.

Army in two games has a total offense average of 515 yards. College of the Pacific is second with 458 yards. Washington State is third with 391.

College of the Pacific is tops in rushing with an average of 373 yards, while Washington State leads in forward passing offense with an average of 237.3.

Auburn is the total defense leader, having allowed an average of 57 yards. The Tigers also are tops in rushing defense, with a 21.5 average. In forward pass defense, Kentucky is the leader, permitting an average of 28.7 yards. Auburn is next with 35.5 yards.

Houston leads in scoring, with a two-game average of 36.5 points. Army is second with 35.5, followed by Wisconsin, 35; Oklahoma State, 31.7; West Virginia, 30.7, and VMI, 30.3.

Southern Methodist, beaten by Notre Dame last Saturday, is the punting leader with an average of 42.4 on seven kicks.

Managers, Wrestlers To Meet at 4:30 Today

Candidates for the varsity and freshman wrestling teams and sophomore candidates for second manager should report to an organization meeting at 4:30 p.m. today at the wrestling area on the main floor of Recreation Hall.

Penn State's unbeaten seasons number eight in 71 seasons of intercollegiate football.

Dave Sime Joins Duke Gridders As 'Lonesome End'

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Duke Football Coach Bill Murray Tuesday announced that spring star Dave Sime has joined the Duke squad and will play the role of the lonesome end in the Blue Devils' new offense.

Sime, 22-year-old redhead from Fair Lawn, N. J., holds world's records in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash and the 80-yard dash. Sime was an All-State back in high school but has not played football at Duke. Murray said that Sime will play in Saturday's contest against Baylor. He began working out this afternoon.
