

Pope Pius XII Is Dead

Pontiff Dies At 10:52 After 2nd Stroke

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pope Pius XII is dead.

The 82-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church died at 9:52 p.m. yesterday.

Minutes before death came, the Pope's temperature shot up to 107.6 degrees and his blood pressure fell to 70.

"Symptoms of pulmonary exhaustion became evident," Vatican radio said before death came.

The Vatican earlier said it was only a matter of hours, if not minutes, before the 82-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church would breathe his last.

Pope Pius XII was born in Rome March 2, 1876.
Ordained priest April 2, 1899.
Consecrated bishop May 13, 1917.

Created cardinal Dec. 1, 1929.
Elected pope March 2, 1939.
Died Oct. 9, 1958.

His physicians hours before had abandoned hope, after the Pope suffered a second stroke and his heart began failing. Pneumonia set in and his temperature shot up to 107.6.

A mournful Mass for the dying was celebrated in a chapel next to the sickroom in the papal summer palace here. The Mass, begun at 12:30 a.m. (Italian Time), was celebrated by Msgr. Domenico Tardini, pro-secretary of state at the Vatican.

At the end of the Mass, broadcast so the Pope's fellow Romans could hear it, the Vatican radio called for prayers and said:

"The Pope's condition continues to deteriorate rapidly. His breathing has become even shorter and harder."

The Mass, called in Latin "Pro Infirmis," continued past 1 a.m. Wednesday Pope Pius was physically unable to take holy Communion. He was given holy absolution instead.

It was the Pope's second grave illness in four years. He had survived the first in 1954 and resumed full activities.

He had been Pope 19 years. The College of Cardinals, now numbering 55, will elect the new pope—probably within the next 10 days.

The pontiff became ill last week with a stomach disorder and hiccups but he continued his regular strenuous work schedule until Sunday.

FIVE CENTS

A STITCH TOO LATE—Jack Behler stitches another tear in the headpiece of the Nittany Lion costume. A drive to purchase a new costume will be conducted by hatmen and hatwomen at the Homecoming game Saturday.

Funds to Be Sought For New Lion Suit

A student fund drive to purchase a new costume for the Nittany Lion will be kicked off at the Homecoming game against Marquette Saturday.

Jack Lange, head cheerleader and chairman of the drive, told The Daily Collegian that the committee has received approval to collect the money in the student sections of Beaver Field.

Belgian Educator Serves on Faculty

Dr. Leo J. Apostel, former Belgian educator, is serving as visiting assistant professor of philosophy.

Apostel, born in Antwerp, Belgium, received his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Brussels.

Before his appointment to the University faculty, Apostel served on the faculties of the University of Brussels and the University of Ghent. He also studied at the University of Chicago and Yale University.

"Although our goal is $1000," Lange commented, "we are asking only dimes and quarter donations from the students at the game."

"Since the Nittany Lion is a symbol of the fighting spirit of the University," Lange explained, "the committee feels we can best make this a true University drive by having all the students contribute a little. That's why we are only asking for small coins."

The present costume, which was purchased through a similar student drive in 1952, is in "terrible" shape according to the present Nittany Lion, Jack Behler.

Behler said that the head piece was in the worst shape. "Every-time I take the head off, I wind up with cuts from the wire on my forehead and ears," he explained.

Behler said the $1000 estimate was for a suit made of real lion's skin as has been the procedure for past costumes.

Ron Kolb, president of Hat Society Council, will direct the collections by hatmen and hatwomen at the game.

Lion Foresees Cloudy Skies

The Nittany Lion is busy getting ready for the invasion of the alums tomorrow.

He is disappointed with the forecast but still is hoping for some real football weather on Saturday.

Today's forecast is partly cloudy, some sunshine and warm with a high temperature of 76. Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low of 55.

Tomorrow is expected to be mostly cloudy and continued warm with afternoon or evening showers likely.

Yanks Beat Braves To Tie Series, 3-3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gill McDougald's 10th inning home run ruined a magnificent pitching effort by stout-hearted Warren Spahn Wednesday as a 4-3 Yankee victory sent the New York-Milwaukee World Series into a seventh game.

Through nine torturous innings the 37-year-old Milwaukee southpaw, working with only two days rest, duelled with three different Yankee pitchers—only to lose in the 10th.

Singles by Elston Howard and Yogi Berra finished him off and the Yanks added the all-important extra run on Bill Skowron's single off relief man Don McMahon.

Ryne Duren, Casey Stengel's flame-thrower who followed Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar to the mound, fired his blinding fast ball past the Braves from the sixth to the 10th when he suddenly lost his stuff.

Johnny Logan, who had walked and taken second unmolested while Duren wound up making Eddie Mathews his eighth strike-out victim, scored when Hank Aaron singled.

Out came grizzled old Casey Stengel to talk with his pitcher, as Joe Adcock grabbed a war club. Casey decided to stay with Duren but when Adcock pumped a single to center, moving the potential tying run to third base, Stengel summoned Bob Turley from the Yankee bullpen.

Torre connected with Bob's third pitch and the ball sailed toward short right field with second baseman McDougald in full pursuit. For a split second it seemed it would fall safely for a hit. McDougald had it all the way, as it turned out, gloving the ball for the game-ending out.

19,869 Students Enrolled in Fall

The University enrollment for the fall semester reached an all-time high—19,869 full-time students both on and off the main campus.

A record total of 14,634 students are enrolled on the University campus.

Last fall the total University enrollment was 19,265 and the campus total, 14,131 students.

Men students outnumber women students nearly three to one, 14,728 to 5141, in the total enrollment figures released yesterday.

The on-campus enrollment shows 10,646 men and 3988 women registered, including graduate and special students.

The off-campus enrollment of 5235 students is an increase of 506 students over last fall's enrollment. Included in the figure are 3060 men and 320 women enrolled in off-campus centers, 119 men at Mont Alto School of Forestry, and 1736 students enrolled in part-time extension classes.

The graduate students number 1880, 1534 men and 346 women. The part-time extension graduate figure is 279 men and 135 women for a total of 414.

The freshman class is the largest class on campus with 3355 students, 2277 men and 1078 women. The sophomore class has 3178 members, 2212 men and 966 women.

The junior class has more men students than the sophomores, 2304, but only 828 women for a total of 3132 students. The senior class is composed of 2796 students—2196 men and 600 women.

Special students number 293—123 men and 170 women.

The spring semester, 1958, enrollment was 15,077 students. Enrolled on campus were 12,600 students—9533 men and 3067 women students.

96 Students Drop Out Of University

Ninety-six students have officially withdrawn from the University since the start of the school year.

The total includes 62 men students and 34 women students, the registrar's office reported at 5 p.m. yesterday.

In conjunction with the withdrawals, the Department of Housing said yesterday only 69 students remain in temporary housing facilities.

Otto E. Mueller, head of the department, said 24 men and 45 women are left in study rooms or lounges. All students have been moved from recreation rooms and the Ritenour Health Center into permanent housing, he said.

Originally 176 women and 120 men were housed into temporary accommodations, Mueller said.

The overcrowding of the residence halls occurs annually because of the admittance of more students than there are bed spaces. Usually all the students are placed in permanent housing after the first two months of school because of the usual large number of withdrawals.

At the end of the second

Dean Weston Back To Resume Duties

Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston resumed her duties yesterday after an absence of almost three weeks because of illness.

Miss Weston returned to the campus late Monday after her release last week from the Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh where she underwent a series of tests and diagnostic work upon the advice of her doctor.

In an interview yesterday, Miss Weston said that she was feeling well but that she would probably feel peppier after a few days. She will not return to the hospital at a later date since she has received a complete discharge.

Miss Weston has taken all her former duties over from R. Mae Shultz, assistant dean, who acted in Miss Weston's absence.

Miss Weston was admitted to the hospital Sept. 18 after taking a leave of absence the day before upon the advice of her doctor. She had not been feeling well for some time. No reports on the results of the tests and diagnosis performed on Miss Weston have been released.

After her release from the hospital, Miss Weston spent a few days at the home of her sister in Carnegie.

Miss Weston expressed her appreciation to everyone for their notes, cards and flowers during her confinement and upon her arrival on campus.
