Varsity Harriers Crush Cornell; Freshmen Lose

By GEORGE FRENCH

The Nittany varsity cross-country team humbled the Cornell varsity, 17-42, at Ithaca, N.Y., yesterday, but a 26-31 victory by the Cornell freshmen over the Lion cubs indicates that the Cornell varsity should be quite strong for the next three years.

In the varsity meet, Penn State's track captain and near-minute miler Ed Moran negotiated the 5 1/16-mile Cornell course in 27:37—just ten seconds slower than the course record held by the Big Red's Mike Midler.

Cross-country Captain Fred Kerr took second in 27:52, followed by junior teammate Dick Engelbrink in 28:03. "They (Moran, Kerr and Engelbrink) looked quite strong out there this afternoon," assistant Coach Norm Gordon said after the meet. A light rain fell shortly before the meet, leaving the course slightly wet and soggy.

Cornell's Chuck Hill was the only Big Red runner to break up a 5-man sweep by the Lions. Hill took fourth in 28:27, three seconds ahead of Penn State's Chick King.

Sophomore Herm Weber placed sixth in 28:30, after finishing in a 3-way tie for first against Navy last week.

Sophomore Ernie Noll—12th last week against Navy—placed ninth in 29:38 in only the second meet of his cross-country career. Noll attended the University's forestry school at Mont Alto last year.

Rounding out the Lion finishers was 5-6 foot junior George Jones in tenth place in 30:05.

Sophomore Denny Johnson—the Lions' only other varsity entrant—was with the leaders for the first 2 1/2 miles, but ran out of gas and did not finish.

Steve Moorhead, 1958 Pennsylvania Class "A" mile champion and brother of 1955 Lion cross-country Captain Doug Moorhead, took first place over the 3-mile, 143-yard course in 16:41—just three seconds short of the course record.

Five seconds behind Moorhead was the Big Red's Mark Heine. Mike Miller—the state high school class "A" half mile champion from Kane, Moran's hometown—placed third in 16:55. Class "B" mile champion Fred Larson took sixth for the Lion cubs in 17:11.5.

No Break-away Boys

Penn State's longest touchdown run from scrimmage in 1957 was an eight-yard dash by halfback Dave Kasperian.

(Continued from page nine) of eligibility by keeping him in school for five years) In the near future, I think a rule will be passed making a boy eligible for four years from his date of entrance into school. I think this has to come about.

"Why do we lose so many boys to out-of-state schools?"

"Well," he said, "we lose a lot because some schools don't have as high requirements as we do. Remember, our ball players have to qualify just as the other students. That's an ECAC (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) and an NCAA rule. If our boys are not in the upper 2/5 of their high school classes, they must pass our entrance test or the college boards to get in schools."

"No," he said emphatically, "Our alumni is as strong as can be. Under our present policies, they're behind us 100 per cent. We're always open for contributions, but our alums have been wonderful in that respect."

"And while we're talking about recruiting, and money," he continued, "you must remember that there are other sports on campus that must be considered besides football. We're concerned over their welfare too and want to help them just as much as football."

"I have another question," the anxious reporter said. "According to what I have heard, Beaver Field will be moved at the end of this season. Is that true?"

"It's not definite yet," the man said. "There's much ground work to be done. It has to be dismantled, reerected, and dressing, parking and toilet facilities have to be built. Actually, the Board of Trustees have to give the final say on whether it can be moved, and they haven't given approval yet. We'll know for sure after they meet in October."

"What would be the capacity of the new stadium?" we asked, drawing the conversation to a close.

"We're not sure of that, but it would probably be around 40,000 to 50,000. That would be enough considering our location."

Engle figures the visiting Warriors will offer the Lions plenty of trouble. "If they're as good as they were against us last year," the Nittany mentor said, "then we've got problems. And with five sophomores in our lineup, we don't have much experience."

Engle will be looking for a rejuvenation of the Lions' rushing attack which looked miserable against the Cadets. The Lions are 14th in the nation in ground-gaining with a 739 yard total for a 246.3 game average. However, they would have been ranked higher if Army hadn't held them to 67 yards.

Of course Engle is still waiting for the Lions' passing game to break open, too. Last year with Lucas, Jacks and Bob Scrabis pitching, the Nittanians finished seventh in the nation in passing offense with 1187 yards for a 131.9 per game average. This year, however, with the same three men throwing, the Lions have gained only 179 yards—59.7 game average.

What's the reason? As Engle said, "We just don't have the same ends as we did last year. I'm still looking for a couple of good receivers."

Homecoming 1958!

ATTENTION: Alumni, Students and Guests

Our "Homecoming" weekend is now in full swing. Anticipation for the first big home game is high and the full week of entertainment ahead promises to be enjoyable.

Being Alma Mater-conscious, you'll want to stop at Hur's and look over our "Penn State" wear. And as alumni, you'll especially enjoy some homecoming remembrances.

Out On a Limb

By Bob "Tree-Trimmer" Thompson

Our "fearless forecasters" have once again put themselves out on the limb to pick the fifteen top grid games of the week.

Genial George French, who still sticks to his dart board theory in picking winners, has again gone against the other prognosticators and picked three games completely different from the others.

French, holding the best record (.649), disagrees with everyone in picking Pitt over Michigan State, Wake Forest over North Carolina State, and Texas A. & M. over Maryland.

Lucky Lou Prato, the champion forecaster two years ago, trails the entire pack this season. He claims that he'll return to the top position this week. He still maintains that Genial George is getting his results before the games are played.

All four prognosticators agree that Duke will have no trouble in defeating Baylor. They also agree that Ohio State will beat Illinois. (This is a fairly safe prediction. It's like picking State over State College High—according to the tree-trimmer!)

The fearless four also agree on Yale beating Columbia and Syracuse winning over Cornell.

This week's coaching representative to the fabulous four is End Coach J. T. White.
