Dulles Fires Accusations Of Subversion at China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles accused Red China of propaganda and subversive activity, under cover of its Formosa Strait ceasefire, to drive a wedge between the United States and Nationalist China.

Sen. Clark Will Speak Here Today

United States Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr. will speak on "Major Issues Before the Nation" to students and faculty of the University at 4:15 this afternoon in the Hetzel Union Building auditorium.

He will be the guest of honor at a reception from 3:30 until the time of his talk in the lounge of the Hetzel Union Building. Anyone may attend.

Clark is being sponsored by Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary fraternity, and the Student Cabinet of the University Christian Association in an effort to acquaint students with outstanding political figures and to encourage responsible citizenship by a greater awareness of the major policy decisions which confront the nation.

This is the first in a series on "Ethics and Public Policy." The sponsoring organizations are presently making arrangements to present a Republican Congressman from Pennsylvania later in the month. He will speak on the same topic at a time and place to be announced later.

Born in Philadelphia in 1901, Clark climaxed a long career in politics and city government with his election in 1956 to the U.S. Senate. Prior to his election he was mayor of Philadelphia for five years and city controller for two years.

From 1947 to 1953 Clark served on various city, state and national committees of the Democratic Party. He was chairman of the Philadelphia Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action in 1948-49.

In a 40-minute news conference Dulles said, "The main theme constantly reiterated is that the Americans must abandon Taiwan, Formosa . . . and go home."

Dulles said he has no plans whatsoever for urging a reduction of Nationalist forces on China's coastal islands.

A reporter quoted a statement by Vice President Nixon at Chicago Monday night in which Nixon said "The Acheson foreign policy resulted in war and the Eisenhower-Dulles policy resulted in peace."

The reporter asked whether this criticism of the Truman administration's Secretary of State Dean Acheson fell within the limits Dulles had prescribed.

Grinning broadly, as if enjoying his evasiveness, Dulles replied: "It might fit without the limits." He did not elaborate.

This appeared to be a reversal of his statement two weeks ago that it would be foolish to maintain the current garrison strength on the Nationalist islands if Red China agreed to a dependable cease-fire.

But Dulles did not picture it as a reversal. He said the Communists treated the islands "as a matter of indifference."

The question of withdrawing Nationalist troops from them could not therefore be considered a bargaining issue or the price of a Red cease-fire, he added.

The secretary refused to say what the United States might offer as an inducement for continuing the cease-fire.

University to Hold AM Station Reins Facilities Not Assured

President Eric A. Walker said after the weekend meeting of the Board of Trustees that an AM radio station license would have to be issued in the name of the University rather than a student organization because of the responsibility involved.

But even if an AM station is established, University officials say, the question of the 1958 Class Gift will have to await separate consideration because it involves an appropriation of funds.

Walker said the door has not been slammed on the AM station, but, he said, "no definite action can be expected until critical questions involving operational and financial responsibility are more fully explored."

Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth, a board member, heads the committee on instruction, which will study the AM station question and "resubmit the question with appropriate recommendations" at a future board meeting.

The holdup on an AM station, Walker said, is because the trustees feel the University must first demonstrate beyond a doubt that the station is needed and that the University would be in a position to meet the manifold responsibilities which the new license would impose.

The 1958 graduating class voted to give its $10,000 class gift for AM facilities. However, Walker announced last month that due to a revision of fees class gifts in effect had been non-existent since 1948 and the University had been footing the bill since then.

A 1956 study showed an AM station of 100 watts could be established on a frequency of 1400 kilocycles.

The earlier study said the criti-

Hoffman, Craska Win Ugly Man Parade

By BETSY ANDERSON

Jon Hoffman, Phi Kappa Sigma, and Paul Craska, Nittany 43, took first places in the Ugly Man Parade last night.

The winners of the entire contest will be announced Friday night. The selection will be based on three criteria—points from the parade, amount of pennies collected and quality of the skits Friday night.

There will be winners in the fraternity and independent divisions.

Phi Kappa Sigma used the theme of cigarettes and their relation to cancer. Hoffman, the cancerous-looking ugly man, sat in a tomb, smoking cigarettes.

Paul Craska, the Nittany 43 ugly man, had a white wig, rubber base clay face, long nose and big chin. Two long fangs hung from his lower jaw. He was trying to catch the Albatross, a bird which was leading him out to sea.

The other finalists in the fraternity division were: second place, Bruce Huffman, Sigma Pi; third place, Donald Curry, Alpha Tau Omega; fourth place, Sheldon De Satnick, Phi Sigma Delta (Continued on page eight)

5 Channels Co-ordinate 1200 Research Projects

By LIANNE CORDERO
Second of a Series

More than 1200 research projects at the University are co-ordinated through a complex of five administrative channels.

These channels are the office of the vice president for research, the deans of the respective colleges, the University controller, an administrative committee on research and the director of the division of academic research and services.

These departments work within the framework of policy established by the University Senate and the Board of Trustees "to establish an atmosphere in which scholarship and individual creativity are encouraged."

"Although some degree of organization is both desirable and necessary, the University does not wish to impose on the faculty any restrictions that would tend to hinder the free expression of the research spirit."

To assist the president and the Board of Trustees in establishing the proper atmosphere for re-

No Profit on Sales

Lion's Den Attendance Drops in Trial Hours

The attendance in the Lion's Den last weekend was less than the weekend before, despite the continuation of extended hours, according to Robert C. Proffitt, director of Food Service.

Edward Frymoyer, president of the Association of Independent Men, however, said that the snack bar seemed crowded on Saturday night.

Proffitt said there were about 30 persons fewer on Friday night and about 200 fewer on Saturday night compared with the previous weekend.

The Lion's Den has been open until 12:30 for the past two weekends on a trial basis to see if it would be feasible to keep it open later every weekend or on special weekends.

Frymoyer made the original request for the extended hours in order to provide a place for freshmen to go on weekends, since they are not allowed to visit fraternities because of the deferred rushing program.

Proffitt said he didn't know if his findings were conclusive. There was definitely no profit made on sales according to a report made to him, he said. He could not state exact figures but said the Lion's Den definitely suffered a loss. This might have been because of the numerous activities scheduled for Homecoming Weekend, Proffitt said.

Frymoyer said the big weekend seemed to draw more people to the Lion's Den. Students also came down from the dance in the ballroom, he said.
