

Rightist Display Fails in Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A French rightist attempt to buck Premier Charles de Gaulle's liberal policies in Algeria collapsed yesterday.

De Gaulle remained victor in the field, free to run Algeria his own way.

The civilians of the badly divided Public Safety Committee called off their general strike and demonstrations under direct orders from De Gaulle in Paris.

The embittered extremists had rocketed De Gaulle to power last May but soured on him. They hoped by a display of strength in Algeria's streets to rally support against the Premier's plan to give the Arab-Berber population a stronger role in Algerian affairs.

The forum in front of the Algiers government building was empty at the hour appointed for the demonstration. The army, following De Gaulle's orders to ban demonstrations, surrounded the area just in case.

Buses and streetcars ran normally. Shops and government buildings stayed open.

The extremists were aroused by De Gaulle's orders for the army in Algeria to quit politics and for freely run elections here on Nov. 23. Those orders went out Tuesday.

EUB Bars Churches For Segregated Schools

HARRISBURG (AP) — The 850,000-member Evangelical United Brethren Church resolution yesterday barred use of its buildings as racially segregated schools.

Another resolution was strong in its denunciation of nuclear testing by the United States or any other nation.

Lawrence Backs Small Business Aid

MANOA, Pa. (AP) — Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, last night proposed creation of a new bureau in the State Commerce Department to help small business.

"As governor, I propose to call together business and labor leaders, irrespective of party affiliation, to join a monumental drive to recruit new industry for Pennsylvania and to encourage firms to expand here," he said.

Population Hits 175 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Estimated U.S. population reached 175 million yesterday.

That milestone figure turned up at 11:08 a.m. EDT on the Commerce Department's census clock—a big speedometer-like device which gives the estimated population every minute.

Government Predicts Economic Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists predicted yesterday the recovering economy will climb to a peak production rate of roughly 450 billion dollars annually in this final quarter of 1958.

They also forecast another shrinkage of unemployment in October comparable to the drop of nearly 600,000 last month.

Although these predictions are tentative, they are heartening to the administration. If they are borne out, Republican candidates can point to a reduction in the number of jobless to about 3½ million on the eve of Nov. 4 congressional elections.

This still would be about one million above the level of last fall but would represent much improvement from the average of five million unemployed which prevailed in the first nine months of this recession year.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks was armed with these favorable appraisals as he and other government officials headed yesterday for Hot Springs, Va., for a weekend conference with the Business Advisory Council.

Sponsor Drops '21' Quiz Show

NEW YORK (AP) — "Twenty-one," the NBC quiz show which brought money and fame to a number of obscure but brainy Americans, flickered for the last time last night on television screens across the nation.

Its sponsor, Pharmaceuticals, Inc., dropped it in the wake of a wave of charges that the show, and other big-money quiz programs, was rigged in favor of some contestants.

"Twenty-one" thus joined two other big-money giveaway programs in oblivion—"Dotto" and "The $64,000 Challenge."

Still another, "The $64,000 Question," one of the first of the quiz shows to give money away in really large amounts, was reportedly about to be dropped.
