MI Council To Request Honor Code

The Mineral Industries Student Council will recommend a college-wide honor system to the faculty.

The council decided at a meeting last night that students should not have to participate in the honor system if they do not wish. If a student wants to take an exam with a proctor present under the proposed honor system he should be permitted to do so, the council felt.

The council also decided that if an honor system is approved by the faculty, a student taking an exam under this system should be required to write a statement saying "This is my own work" followed by his signature at the end of the exam.

Cases of dishonesty would be considered by an Honor Council consisting of six undergraduate students, the council decided. If the Honor Council feels that the trust of the honor system has been betrayed it would turn the case over to the appropriate college disciplinary committee.

Methods of picking members of the Honor Council were discussed.

The elections committee reported that positions on the council are available for four freshmen. Elections will take place next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Nous are sponsoring the pep rally. The rally will be held on the steps of Old Main immediately after the motorcade.

Ralph H. Wherry, professor of insurance and head of the Department of Commerce, will speak. Music will be furnished the Blue Band.

Richard Christian, pep rally co-chairman, will be master of ceremonies.

Patricia O'Neill, co-chairman, said the pep rally will be short enough to allow students to return to the residence halls to get ready for the Junior Prom. There will be no skit.

The Lion and Frothy will be at the rally. However, since the football players have a meeting, they will not be able to attend.

Hatwomen will go through freshman women's residence halls to encourage coeds to attend the rally.

National TV Course Okayed for Credit

The University is one of more than 300 American colleges and universities offering credit for the college course in "Atomic Age Physics" which is being televised by the National Broadcasting Company from coast to coast during the 1958-59 academic year.

The nation-wide TV network program, entitled "Continental Classroom," is given from 6:30 to 7 a.m. Mondays through Fridays and is available to central Pennsylvania residents over the facilities of WJAC-TV Johnstown.

The course has been designed primarily for high school science teachers, but holders of bachelor's degrees and college students who have the consent of their adviser may enroll for college credit. The course began Oct. 6 and will end June 5.

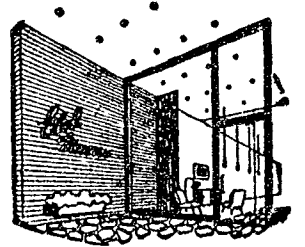

Fred Tracy, assistant professor of physics, has been named coordinator of the course for the University.

Enrollees will be expected to view all televised lectures, study all assignments in the designated textbooks and do all assigned problems. Tests will be given and a final examination is required.

The course, "Basic Principles of Modern Physics," will consist of two series of 80 illustrated lectures.

Dr. Harvey E. White, professor of physics at the University of California, is the principal lecturer. Other internationally-known scientists will also participate.

The project marks the first time a college course has been televised on a nation-wide basis.

Junior Prom coming up, girls. Have you snagged your UGLY MAN yet? If you haven't, cheer up, the worst is yet to come.

Speaking of coming, why don't you come down to Ethel's this week. We'd love to have you.

Our Angora Cappello

These furry winter caps are as flexible as they are beautiful. They can be worn over a chignon (bun to you) or pony tail, and would be perfect for ice skating (if you're one of the hardier souls who can brave the walk to the Nittany rink). Colors? Well, you name it, we've got it. Moss green, brown, red, toast, teal, olive, charcoal, (pause for breath) black, white, royal blue, burnt grass, and beige. Best of all, one size fits everyone.

The Wind Is Blowing

The snow is snowing (well, not yet anyway), but you can weather the storm in our soft as a cloud, pardon the cliché, please, mohair scarfs. They come in solid shades, or in colorful plaids, which would be perfect with your moth-eaten boy coat.

Animal Lover?

Right after you apply for a life-time membership in the SPCA, hustle on down to Ethel's and choose a novel rhinestone animal pin. Attach them to your silk scarfs, sweaters, and blouses. And, oh yes, you can even add a sparkle to that angora cap you just bought with this piece of jewelry. The price? Shame on you for asking. But it's only $1.65.
