

Today's Forecast:
Cloudy,
Windy

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Hearing
Bryan Green
See Page 4

VOL. 59, No. 43

STATE COLLEGE, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 8, 1958

FIVE CENTS

Zepp Seeks New Rule For ICCB

Donald Zepp has proposed to the Inter-College Council Board that a section be included in ICCB's new constitution which would make any motion passed by a two-thirds majority of ICCB members "binding" on all college student councils.

If this section were included in the new ICCB constitution, any motion passed by ICCB would have to be automatically approved by all student councils. The councils would not be given the opportunity to vote on the motion.

"If ICCB decided to do something, all the councils would have to go along with it," Zepp, chairman of ICCB, said.

James Meister, president of the Business Administration student council, said that this new section might require a constitutional amendment to the individual college student council constitutions.

Jack Kendall, president of the Engineering and Architecture Student Council, said "I don't know if we have the power to do it (include the new section in the ICCB constitution)."

The present constitution is incomplete and "makes a mockery out of the organization (ICCB)," according to Zepp.

The present constitution was passed by the All-University Cabinet in March 1956 and was also passed by the Senate Subcommittee on Student Affairs, Zepp said.

Four members of ICCB, Louis Phillips, Eleanor Judy, Ruth Johnson and Zepp, met Thursday afternoon to draw up an outline of the new constitution to be presented to ICCB members next Thursday for discussion.

Zepp proposed that the president of the Division of Counseling Student Council be given a seat on the Inter-College Board.

It was also decided at the ICCB meeting Thursday night to elect a faculty adviser for ICCB at next week's meeting.

Ed Policy Committee To Study Vet Problem

The University Senate Thursday referred the controversial veterans' physical education exemption problem to the Senate's Education Policy Committee for further study.

The problem was not referred to the Education Student Council as The Daily Collegian erroneously reported in the headline of the story yesterday.

—Collegian photo by Dave Trump
"STEP RIGHT UP, ladies and gents. Feast your eyes . . ." Benay Hollanz is doing the yelling to bring Mardi Gras spectators into the freshman booth in Recreation Building last night.

Mardi Gras Relives Gay New Orleans

By JIM MORAN

Booths representing everything that is Creole, Dixie, ancient history, sounds of the blues, barker's cries and bass drums filled the air.

That was Mardi Gras, 1958, sponsored by Scrolls, senior women's hat society, in Recreation Building last night.

In one booth, spectators were urged to "Revlonize the Alpha Xi's" by smearing them with cosmetics. In another, two "Golden Girls" covered with gild lured patrons into the "Grecian Grotto."

Chi Omega's "Hit or Mississippi" minstrel show offered a free car wash to the winners of the betting on the large spinning wheel.

Winners of the hula hoop betting in Phi Sigma Sigma's "La Hula Hoop Invades New Orleans" get a spaghetti dinner at a downtown restaurant.

There were numerous pitching contests ranging from Alpha Phi's flinging a frisbee through the mouth of Frothy to Phi Mu's throwing a "Ring Around the Rosy."

Dart games were on the scene and patrons aimed for everything from Kappa Kappa Gamma's "Key Club" to Pi Beta Phi's rainbows.

Other Mardi Gras highlights were the Rue de Bourbon show of Theta Phi Alpha; Delta Delta Delta's "Mermaid Madness," where participants could throw a ball through a moving Neptune's mouth to vie for a prize; and Alpha Gamma Delta's "French Surprise Show."

At intervals, the standings of the Mardi King contest would be announced. The five finalists were to be chosen at 11 p.m.

Prior to the Mardi Gras exhibition, a parade moved down Pollock Road en route to Recreation Building. Cars carrying each of the 22 Rex candidates were surrounded by dancing devils, togglad Greeks, clowns, gamblers and others, as they moved gayly down the street.

Winners of the parade and the Mardi Gras king will be announced at the Mardi Brawl jam session from 2 to 5 p.m. today in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

Jr. IFC to Meet Monday

The Junior Interfraternity Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Hetzel Union assembly room. Newly elected officers will be installed.

Lions to Start Bid For 'Old Ironsides'

By LOU PRATO
Sports Editor

MORGANTOWN, W.Va., Nov. 8—The second leg in the battle for Tri-State supremacy and the "Old Ironsides" trophy that goes with it gets underway here this afternoon when Penn State meets West Virginia on Mountaineer Field.

Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m. Radio station WMAJ with Mickey Bergstein handling the play-by-play, will broadcast the game starting at 1:25.

This is the Mounties' last chance to remain in contention for the Tri-State title—held "illegally" by Pitt the last 3 years. West Virginia was beaten by the Panthers, 15-8, three weeks ago in the first step towards the 1958 crown. Penn State faces Pitt Thanksgiving Day in the final round.

The Tri-State crown and "Old Ironsides" has been given since 1952 when a Pitt alumnus—Emil Narick—instigated the idea. Penn State won the award the first year, West Virginia in 1953 and 1954 and Pitt in 1955. The Panthers have kept the trophy for the last two years because of ties between the three combatants.

The Lions are a six-point favorite today, mainly on the basis of a win over a common opponent — Boston University. Penn State whipped the Terriers, 34-0, but the Mountaineers lost, 36-30.

However, with this being Homecoming Day in Mountaineer land, that one TD spread doesn't mean much. For Coach Pappy Lewis' crew is a fired-up ball club and what would be more fitting than beating an old enemy before a horde of grid-happy alums.

It's almost ironic to note that the last West Virginia win in the 24-game series came before another Homecoming day gathering here in 1955, 21-7.

However, Penn State's head Coach Rip Engle feels that the Homecoming aspect will not be that important. "They'll be fired up anyway," Engle said before leaving the Nittany Valley yesterday morning, "because we are such an old rival. They're up for us everytime we meet."

(Continued on page six)

Committee Approves Phi Psi Rule

The Senate subcommittee on group discipline approved yesterday the recommendation for the loss of social privileges for Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

The Interfraternity Council Board of Control recommended Wednesday night that the fraternity lose its social privileges from yesterday until Monday, Dec. 1.

Phi Kappa Psi did not appeal the case before the subcommittee. O. Edward Pollock, assistant to the dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, said.

The board charged the fraternity with the involvement of two of its members in a drinking incident on campus while the fraternity was on social probation. The fraternity has been on social probation since Feb. 21.

Two members of Phi Kappa Psi were involved in an incident on campus following an "after one" party at the fraternity, Oct. 19. Along with three other students, they were caught near the women's residence hall by the Campus Patrol.

The fraternity suffered the loss of its social privileges for the spring semester and was placed on social probation for the fall semester last February. Its social privileges were removed for the mistreatment of pledges and the holding of pre-initiation practices outside the fraternity.

Land Grant Colleges to Meet

Walker to Discuss College Instruction

President Eric A. Walker will take part next week in a panel on the quality of college instruction at the annual meetings of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities in Washington, D.C.

Nineteen other University faculty and staff members will participate in the meetings.

Walker will take part in a panel on "What Is the Quality and Character of American Instruction for the College Student Ranging from the Gifted to the Average."

Dr. Clarence R. Carpenter, director of the Division of Academic Research and Services, will speak Monday on "A Long Range Plan for Extension."

Dean Ben Euwema of the College of the Liberal Arts will participate in a panel on, "Should Colleges Offer Remedial Programs," and Edward Keller will serve on a panel discussing "Preliminary Study and Problems of General Extension."

Dr. Grace M. Henderson, dean of the College of Home Economics, will report on the advisory board of the National Cooperative Agricultural Extension Center for Advanced Study.

Others attending the meetings will be Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs; Dr. Harold K. Shilling, dean of the Graduate School; Dr. Ferdinand G. Brickwedde, dean of the College of Chemistry and Physics;

Dr. Herbert R. Albrecht, director of agricultural and home economics extension; Dr. Samuel B. Guss, professor of veterinary science extension; Dr. Dorothy Houghton, assistant dean in charge of home economics resident instruction; Delpha E. Wiesendanger, assistant dean in charge of home economics field service and buildings; Dr. Ruth R. Honey, director of home economics research.

Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean (Continued on page eight)

T-Shirts Banned

Rule Doesn't Suit Them

By JOHN ROOT

Picture on Page 2

The pro T-shirt faction in the Nittany area has begun a new effort to obtain right-to-wear legislation.

This move is in the form of a petition written by Paul Garnet, the secretary of Nittany 43.

If one-fourth (200) of the Nittany residents sign the petition the dress rule will be suspended for one week and the area will hold a popular referendum, according to Nittany Council President William Schimpf.

If two-thirds of the members then vote against the dress rule in a referendum vote, the T-shirt rule will be repealed, Schimpf said, according to the Nittany constitution.

The rule states that no T-shirts or sweatshirts will be worn at any meal and that a sport-shirt or coat will be worn. It also states that at the Sunday noon meal a sport jacket or suit coat must be worn.

As it stands now, the rule will go into effect tomorrow at the noon meal. There will be signs posted at the three entrances to the dining hall informing the residents of the rule. If these signs are ignored, the dining room checkers will not allow the residents ignoring the rule to pass through the line, Schimpf said.

There will be dormitory meetings during the week to inform the residence hall members of the ruling. When it was first brought up at the Nittany Council meeting on Wednesday, there were no apparent objections and the rule was passed with only a few dissenting votes.

However, the residence hall members seemed to have a different idea about the ruling.

At one residence hall meeting, discussion on the rule turned into heated debate and included claims of violations of constitutional rights and non-representation of the students at Nittany Council. One member of the unit called for the secession of Nittany 43 from the Nittany Council and the election of a new president was also suggested.