

Ruslavage to Start at Guard

Mounties Hold 5 Lb. Weight Edge

The first game in the series was back in 1904 when the Lions won, 34-0. But it wasn't until 1940 that the two clubs began meeting regularly. Penn State holds the series edge—16 wins, seven losses and one tie—but the Mounties have taken three of the last five outings.

Only one change will be made in Penn State's starting lineup this week from the one which opened against Furman last Saturday. That's an oddity, indeed, for Engle has been maneuvering his first unit this season like a man at a chess table.

The "new" starter is veteran Charley Ruslavage who sat out last week's game because of a twisted knee. Ruslavage will move into his regular left guard slot replacing Sam Stellatella.

Stellatella is the regular alternate unit center but was moved to guard in a surprise move by Engle. However, according to Engle, he'll see action at both positions for the remainder of the campaign.

The rest of the Lions' first array will include Maury Schleicher and John Bozick at the ends; Andy Stynchula and Joe Bohart at the tackles; Bill Popp (offense) or Bill Wehmer (defense) at right guard; Steve Garban at center; Richie Lucas at quarterback, Dave Kasperian and Bucky Paolone at the halves and Pat Botula at fullback.

Engle's alternate unit—which sees nearly as much action as the first—will include ends Dave Alexander or Norm Neff and Stu Barber, tackles Tom Mulrany and Bob Gilmour, guards Kohlhaas or Stellatella, center Wayne Berefield or Stellatella, quarterback Al Jacks, halfbacks Dick Hoak and Jim Kerr or Don Jonas, and fullback Andy Mocony.

West Virginia will counter with a starting team that averages 205 pounds—a five-pound advantage over Penn State. The top threats in the Mountaineer lineup include quarterbacks Dick Longfellow and Danny Williams, halfbacks Ray Peterson, Mel Reight and Dave Rider, fullback Noel Whipkey, end Terry Fairbanks and Bruce McClung and tackles Dick Guesman and Carl Dannenberg.

Both teams use similar offenses—a split-T or Wing-T alignment with the quarterback option the specialty. And the defenses are also the same.

Brewster Passes Frosh To 19-0 Win Over Navy

By MATT MATHEWS, Associate Sports Editor

After holding back their big guns for a half, the Lion freshmen gridders opened up the second half on the passing arm of quarterback Allen "Ack-Ack" Brewster to knock Navy from the unbeaten ranks, 19-0. The win gave the frosh their second unbeaten season.

Brewster, who was supposedly sidelined with a knee injury, was called into service when his substitute, Bill Peters, was injured in the second quarter.

After the dismal first half in which the two teams fumbled eight times, Coach Earl Bruce's charges broke the game open on a typical Brewster call.

With first-and-ten on his own 16-yard line, the little field general heaved a pass to speedy Roger Kochman for an 84-yard TD to break open a scoreless duel. Only a minute and half had passed in the half, according to Lion first manager Lonnie Wolf.

Navy took the kickoff and immediately fumbled with end Bill Saul making the recovery on the Lion 40. After they moved the ball to the Navy 40, Brewster put the game out of reach of the Middies by heaving a 40-yarder to another fleet halfback, Mike Daniels. End Bob Mitinger converted for a 13-0 lead.

Just to show that the fast Lion runners were in top form, third-string flash "Mad Anthony" Wayne returned a punt 42 yards for the final score. Tackle Bill Slezosky missed another extra point.

Assistant coach Pete Schodebeck described the Massachusetts sprint champ's 42-yard return: "Wayne dodged, twisted and turned through the Middle players like a PT boat. They never laid a hand on him."

"But that Brewster," commented Schodebeck, "was terrific. There were times when he was a little reckless and gambled on 4th down, but his passing was terrific. The 84-yard TD pass play was thrown into the wind, but it didn't seem to bother him in the least."

Fullback Bob Hart and end Saul both were credited with two recoveries, according to manager Wolf's statistics. Kochman recovered a fumble and intercepted a 50-yard desperation heave on his own seven to stop two Navy drives. Daniels and Maiello received credit for two of the other recoveries.

Head coach Bruce had words of praise for the "spirited" second half "team effort." Assistants Joe Moore and Schodebeck were more specific in naming Al Maiello, Lynn "Sluggs" Drake, Bob Mitinger and Saul as "outstanding on an outstanding line."

"In the backfield Daniels, Kochman and Al Gursky played great games," analyzed Moore, "but little Brewster was the difference."

Lion Harriers Seek 4th Win In Dual Meet With Jaspers

By GEORGE FRENCH

The Nittany Lion cross-country team will attempt to get back on the winning trail with a win over Manhattan in a dual meet at 1 p.m. today on the University golf course.

The Lions lost to Michigan State, 23-32, in their last outing after defeating Navy (16-46), Cornell (17-42) and Pitt (22-34).

The Jaspers' Pete Beyer took first place in Manhattan's 20-41 victory over Cornell—the Lions' only common opponent. Nat Cravner of Cornell trailed Beyer in second place. Against the Big Red, Ed Moran, Capt. Fred Kerr and Dick Engelbrink swept the first three places. Chuck Hill was the only Cornell runner able to break up a five-man Lion sweep, placing fourth, three seconds ahead on Penn State's Chick King.

Last year, Manhattan upset the Lions, 23-32, on the 5-mile Van Cortlandt course in New York City. In that meet, the Lions set too fast a pace in the early stages of the meet and faded toward the end of the race. Nine days later the Nittany harriers evened the score by beating the Jaspers in the IC4-A Championships.

Again this year the 5-mile test against Manhattan is the last meet for the Lions before the IC4-A competition at Van Cortlandt Park. The Nittany runners will meet stiff competition from Michigan State, Manhattan and Army (18-41 victors over the Jaspers) in the IC4-A meet one week from Monday.

Others besides Moran, Kerr, King and Engelbrink in the probable starting lineup for the Lions today are juniors George Jones, Sam White and Jack Williams and sophomores Herm Weber, Ernie Noll and Denny Johnson.

SHORT SPIKES—Lion cross-country coach Chick Werner has predicted a new IC4-A record for Fordy Kennedy of Michigan State... Probable opponents for Moran (4:01.7 for the mile) in indoor competition this winter are a pair of sub-four-minute milers—Ron Delany of Ireland and Dan Waern of Sweden. Delany, after a star-studded career as an undergraduate at Villanova, has returned to the Pennsylvania school for graduate study. Waern will leave Sweden on Feb. 3 for a tour of indoor meets in the United States.
