

Players to Present 'Clearing in Woods'

By JEANETTE SAXE

Author Laurents' "A Clearing in The Woods," to be presented by Players on Dec. 4, 5 and 6, is an intimate excursion into a woman's mind that clearly shows a person cannot run away from his past.

The heroine, Virginia, is a sick woman—mentally distraught, profoundly unhappy. In a process of self analysis, she is forced by her past to go back through her life and try to find the time, place and event which caused her unhappiness. She decides to return to her summer home in a clearing in the woods to try and discover where she went wrong.

Lehrman to Discuss Pasternak's 'Zhivago'

The Nobel Prize winning novel, "Doctor Zhivago," will be discussed by Dr. Edgar H. Lehrman, assistant professor of Russian, at the Founders' Day Dinner of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary society, at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 4, at the Autoport.

For dinner reservations, contact Dr. Aileen Hostinsky, associate professor of mathematics.

Grads Live In Former Coed Dorm

After 69 years, a woman's dormitory, Woman's Building, has been remodeled to house graduate students and has been renamed the Graduate Residence Hall. The change from housing coeds to housing graduate students went into effect this semester.

Graduate Residence Hall, which was once called Ladies' Cottage, was the first residence hall built at the University. Formerly, all students lived in Old Main, but as the enrollment increased it became necessary to build a residence hall.

In order to build Ladies' Cottage it was essential to move the home of Professor Jackson. The cottage, which was completed in 1889, cost $2534.42 for which appropriations were made by the executive committee.

In 1909 the west wing was added to the cottage.

According to the Sept. 26, 1907, issue of the State Collegian, the girls of Ladies' Cottage had to abide by the following rules (the rules were found by a member of the Collegian staff):

"No one is permitted off the campus with a male.

"The governess shall be informed when a man has asked to call and the necessary permission sought.

"Sunday night callers must be out to the willow by 9:30 under the pain of an interview with the governess Friday and Saturday calls may be prolonged until 9:45.

"Girl students may not work in the library at night without permission. If any subject in the course requires night attendance, the subject should be dropped.

"A tinkling bell should announce to the students at Ladies Cottage when to begin studying, when to stop, and when to retire. The last bell shall ring at 10.

"A college student who wishes to treat a coed to a sundae will be required to hand his nickel to the maiden at the corner and he may wait until her return to receive words of appreciation and thanks.

"Special provision will have to be made as to the color of necktie, the style of collar, size of shoes and the religious and political preferences which a caller should be required to possess."

While there, she meets three girls—Jigee, 10; Nora, a teenager; and Ginna, a young woman—who are all similar to herself. Through them she relives some of her youthful experiences. She again meets the boy who is her very first love and who introduces her to her first spiked drink. She relives the time when she is married to Pete, a college BMOC who is very charming but little else. In time, she divorces Pete.

She also encounters her father, Barney, and some of the other men in her life. Barney is a loveable person but addicted to the bottle and golf course. Andy is her true love who returns to her and saves her sanity. George is a composite of all the other men with whom she has tried to find happiness. She also meets Hazelmae, a girlhood friend.

In the end she realizes that it is hope and not hopelessness which is the well-spring of life.

Frank Neusbaum, professor of theatre arts, will direct the play. He is returning to stage direction after an absence of some years when he was working with the University's motion picture service.

The production of "A Clearing in The Woods" requires very detailed preparation. Neusbaum had to meet the problem of finding four actresses who resembled one another slightly. The casting was complicated by the fact that one of the actresses has to portray a small girl of 10. Setting, lights and sound are also especially important in this play.

Through Traffic Banned in Terrace

The streets of Eastview Terrace, faculty housing development located behind the old Pollock residence area, have been closed to through traffic.

Only persons having business in the area will be allowed to drive on the streets.

Elwood F. Olver, director of the Department of Security, said the traffic in the area has increased between College Avenue and Entrance Road and is endangering the lives of the children playing in the area.

The problem has increased since construction of the area started.

Disorderly Sophs Given 13.50 Fine

Two sophomores in physical education from Philadelphia pleaded guilty yesterday before Justice of the Peace Guy Mills, on a disorderly conduct charge.

Dennis Johnson Jr. and Robert Brown were fined $13.50 and hearing costs for creating a nuisance in the downtown diner and on local streets early Sunday morning.

They said that they had been drinking earlier in the evening. Mills said that since they gave police no trouble he only charged them a minimum fine.

THE CLOTHES YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

In this column we take up fashions for college men, which means of course, the Ivy Look. Today's Ivy Look clothes have made a great stride forward. Not only do they have thin lapels, three buttons, narrow trousers, and a minimum of shoulder padding, but—now hear this!—this year they are actually covered with ivy!

This new development, while attractive beyond the singing of it, nevertheless gives rise to certain hazards. For instance, people keep trying to plant you on Arbor Day. Indeed, this is precisely what happened to two SAE's of my acquaintance, Walter R. Gurlash and Fred Rasp. Before they could protest, they were snatched up, planted, limed, and watered, and today they support a hammock in Cut and Shoot, Vermont.

People keep trying to plant you on Arbor Day...

Let us now discuss shirts. Again this year the campus favorite is the good old Oxford with button-down collar and barrel cuffs. This is without doubt an admirable garment, but let me ask you a question: if you don't wear anything but Oxfords, what do you do with all the cuff links people have been giving you for your birthday since you were twelve years old?

Well sir, some fellows have their wrists pierced, but what E. Mackenzie Sigafos, a Chi Psi of my acquaintance, did was to take a dozen pairs of his handsome gold monogrammed cuff links and string them together in a charm bracelet for his girl, Jo-Carol Isobar.

(It turned out, incidentally, to be a mistake. In short order so many admirers accrued to Jo-Carol on account of her gorgeous bracelet that she grew tired of plain old E. Mackenzie, and one night when she was seated on a bench in Lovers Lane throwing sticks for E. Mackenzie to retrieve, she suddenly, cruelly, without warning, told him they were through.

"I am heartbroken," said E. Mackenzie, heartbroken. "But if go you must, give me back my charm bracelet."

"No, I will keep it," said Jo-Carol.

"What for?" said E. Mackenzie. "You can't wear it. The initials on the cuff links are all mine—E.M.S."

"Ha, ha, the joke is on you," said Jo-Carol. "Yesterday I was voted Miss Chinese Restaurant of 1958."

"So?" said E. Mackenzie.

"So," replied Jo-Carol, "E.M.S. does not stand for E. Mackenzie Sigafos. It stands for Eat More Subgum!"

A broken man, E. Mackenzie today squeezes out a meagre living as a pendulum in Cleveland. Jo-Carol was killed in a tong war.)

But I digress. We were talking about well-dressed men, and the one essential for every well-dressed man—and every well-dressed woman too—is a well-dressed cigarette—neat, compact, flavorful, and correct for work or play, sunshine or shower, repose or revelry, darkness or light. And where does one find such a perfect companion? Just go to any tobacco counter and ask for Philip Morris. Ask for it in long size or regular. Ask for it in soft pack or hard. But ask for it; that's the important thing. Don't just stand there making cryptic gestures at your tobaccoist. He may be armed.
