

Junior Ed Council May Be Organized

By JANET DURSTINE

A junior affiliate council of the National Council of Teachers of English may be formed for students interested in teaching English and the language arts.

Dr. Brice Harris, professor of English literature and past president of the national council, will speak on the role of the junior affiliate council at an organizational meeting Dec. 10 in Hetzel Union dining room "C."

A coffee hour honoring Harris will be held at the meeting. Dr. Jerome Weiss, assistant professor of education, said he hoped the council would sponsor discussions on teenage literature by an author of juvenile books, and of linguistics versus grammar and the use of mass media in the public schools by authorities on those subjects.

Weiss said he expects English majors in liberal arts and education, and journalism and elementary education majors to join the council. The national council has four levels: elementary, secondary and college teachers and those interested in communications. Weiss said he hopes to establish these levels in the junior council. The council may also establish a curriculum library in Burrowes Building. The library would include books that teachers could use for professional and instructional purposes and supplementary novels to read in classrooms. Many publishers have agreed to send free material for the library, Weiss said.

Council members may also assist in public school teachers' conferences on campus. They will receive discounts on professional material and get professional magazines, Weiss said. The council will be organized by Harris, Weiss and the Education Student Council, assisted by Louis Phillips, president of the Liberal Arts Student Council and Arlene D'Onofrio, a member of the same council. The education council will pay the expenses. Dues will be $3 a year. This will cover both national and local dues.

Students taking the loans will be required to repay the money in 10 equal installments beginning one year after they cease to be full-time students. Three per cent interest starts with the first payment and for those who enter the teaching profession, half the principal and the interest on that principal will be "forgiven" at the rate of 10 per cent a year.

Hoak's Run Called 'Turning Point'

(Continued from page six) a first down on the 17—and then came the play termed "the turning point" by both Engle and his Pitt counterpart, Johnny Michelosen. Hoak ran to his right and seemed trapped for a large loss behind the scrimmage line, but he reversed his field and swept around left end to the eight-yard line behind the blocking of Andy Stynchula and Chuck Ruslavage. Don Jonas darted around left end for the winning score on the next play and added the PAT on a boot.

Pitt battled desperately to overcome the Lions but a fumble and interception stymied them. From all this, one would think that Pitt handed the Lions the game on their fumbles. But it wasn't so. Hard tackling and vicious blocking in the second half helped bring the victory as did the running of Hoak and Kasperian, the passing of Jacks, the punting of Lucas and the pass receiving of Neff and Kerr.

In the end, the Panthers were probably glad to get off the field with only a four-point loss. And the Lions—well, they just seemed to be getting started. Maybe the season began too soon. Oh, well, wait 'til next year.

while the Lions only hit on 30 per cent.

Kubista was the leading scorer for the Lions with 15 while DuMars had 14 and Edwards finished with 12. George Stepanovich and John Richter led North Carolina State with 15 points apiece and Pucillo was right behind with 13.

The Lions next game is Dec. 6 when they travel to Morgantown, West Virginia, where they will take on the highly ranked Mountaineers of West Virginia.
