

All-American Paces Experienced W.Va.

Three of last year's starters will be missing from the starting lineup when West Virginia plays host to the Lioncagers Saturday night but Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaus isn't too worried.

Depth, experienced returnees, good shooters and an All-American named Jerry West have helped Schaus forget the losses of Lloyd Sharrar, Don Vincent and Joedy Gardner.

In most cases the loss of three top-notch ball-players such as these would hurt any team—especially one that finished so high in the nation's ratings last year—but it hasn't seemed to harm the Mounties. They have already won two games this year beating Furman, 76-67, and VMI, 82-71.

West has been the main gun for West Virginia as he tallied 29 points against Furman and 19 against VMI. West's basketball talents aren't limited to scoring. The 6-3 West is a power off the backboards and last year he gathered in 311 rebounds—second only to the 6-10 Sharrar.

This year West is slated to see action in the backcourt as well as up front. If he starts at guard, co-captain Bob Smith will be out front with him.

Smith is one of the most underrated performers in the country, according to one of the coaches in the Southern Conference. Smith is a 2-year letterman who has been overshadowed by the play of Hot Rod Hundley and West the past two years. But last year he proved his value to Mountie fans by averaging 12.4 points per game and leading the team in assists with 10.4.

Willie Akers, a reserve last year, and Jim Ritchie, a sophomore, will probably start at the forward slots but nothing is definite. The 6-5 Akers was one of Schaus' top subs a year ago and this year Schaus expects big things from him.

The center position will be filled by 6-6 Bob Clousson who was seventh man last year. Clousson played only about ten minutes per game last year but he averaged five points a game and had a sensational shooting average of 60.5.

Schaus has a strong reserve corps to back up his starters, including co-captain Ronnie Retton,
