

DU Paces IM Boxing Race As Maher, Riley Reach Finals

By BILL BARBER

Delta Upsilon, leading the pack in fraternity intramural boxing with 45 points, added still more stars to its crown when Jack Maher, DU's classy pugilist in the 128-pound division, stopped Jim MacKay of Tau Kappa Epsilon in their opener of last night's semi-final matches.

Joe Riley also advanced to the finals for DU with a forfeit in the 155-pound class.

Besides Delta Upsilon, last year's team boxing champion, other leading contenders for the crown are Phi Kappa Psi, 35 points; Alpha Chi Rho, 30 points; Sigma Pi, 30 points; and Alpha Sigma Phi, 20 points.

Maier was stymied the first round by MacKay's long reach advantage but managed to land a few effective left jabs. Then in the second round Maier opened up with his typical head down maneuvers and began moving in, forcing MacKay to backpeddle.

Maier put the match on ice in the third round with his aggressive attack and potent straight left jab.

In a wild swinging slugfest, Ted Steinman of Zeta Beta Tau outlasted Ron Kolb of Delta Sigma Phi to clinch a first round decision in the 175-pound weight class.

Kolb charged out at the bell with a fast swinging attack. But Steinman caught Kolb with a solid shot to the head, stunning Kolb, and then pressed his attack heavily, finally forcing Kolb to the canvas.

Kolb came off the mats swinging but Steinman maneuvered him into the ropes and from there the match turned into a 20-second relay with both boys standing toe to toe and slugging it out.

With Kolb clearly getting the worst of the fray as Steinman relentlessly gunned his blows in, referee Ed Sulkowski decided Kolb had had enough and stopped the fight in the closing seconds of the first round.

Gene Flick of Tau Kappa Epsilon, taking the aggressive role from the start, forced out a unanimous decision over Wilbert Hobbs of Sigma Nu in a hard fought 175-pound match.

Flick pressed a hard charging attack right from the start and had Hobbs backpeddling around the ring for the first two rounds.

Then in the third round Flick moved out fast and had Hobbs groggy on a solid punch to the mouth which knocked Hobbs' mouthpiece out. The referee stopped the fight when it became apparent that Hobbs was taking a terrific beating under Flick's attack.

Bill White kept Alpha Sigma Phi's hopes alive in IM boxing by grabbing a split decision from Dave Dunn of Delta Tau Delta in the 145-pound division.

White didn't open up until the third round and then commenced a telling attack on Dunn, scoring heavily and forcing Dunn into the ropes.

Bill George of Alpha Phi Delta gained the nod of the officials in a hard fought bout with John Ward of Sigma Pi in the 145-pound weight class.

George came out in a low crouch and began a tremendous attack on Ward which at the close of the first round resulted in a slugfest with Ward forced into the ropes.

George slowed down the tempo for the remaining two rounds but continued to rack up points on blows to Ward's face.
