Zepp to Ask Investigation Of Infirmary

By AMY ROSENTHAL

Donald Zepp, president of the Chemistry-Physics Student Council, has been bound by the council to ask All-University Cabinet to investigate the University Health Service.

The motion for the investigation was brought up by Joseph Synkonis. Irving Kline also made a motion that the council send a letter to health service officials asking them to publish a set of instructions on what to do in case of illness. Kline's motion was passed unanimously.

The council felt that "something should be done about the 'lax' ambulance service and about securing a staff to be on hand at noon and at night to treat emergencies."

Irving Kline, Walton Davis and Joseph Synkonis quoted instances when it seemed to them that ambulance service was "lax." They agreed that service should be quicker.

Zepp recommended that a person should be on hand to take care of emergencies at noon and after 6 p.m. He added that now there was a doctor on call at home to take care of night patients.

Steve Brown suggested that there be one doctor at the infirmary to handle night emergencies and more than one in the afternoon.

Ronald Glau stated that students should at least be notified where to go in case of emergency. Joseph Synkonis said a "general shakeup" of the hospital staff was needed.

President Zepp asked the council members to investigate stories of the people who have complaints against the health service. "My only contact with the health service was during the time when there was no flu epidemic," he said. "I wouldn't know if the claims against the hospital are true or not," he said.

free to everyone, may be obtained at the Hetzel Union desk. They will be limited to one person and distribution will continue until the supply is gone.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be the first speaker in the new University Lecture Series which was set up to bring "name speakers" to the campus. She will speak on "Russia—The Country and the People as I Saw Them," basing her remarks on her trip through Russia last year.

She will be introduced by Jay Feldstein, All-University president. In her talk she will cover a comparison of (1) home life in America and Russia; (2) the general development of education in the two countries; and (3) health services in both countries.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be met on her arrival by Feldstein, Mary Jane Wyland, professor emeritus of education, and Sherry Parkin, junior in education and a member of the Lecture Series committee which arranged the program.

She will stay at the Nittany Lion Inn. A reception and a press conference for members of The Daily Collegian, The Centre Daily Times, WDFM and WMAJ, will probably accompany her lecture.

The funds for the Lecture Series, which will also bring Clement Attlee, former Prime Minister of England, to the campus on Feb. 23, will come from a special contingency fund administered by President Eric A. Walker. According to Lecture Series committee members, student fees will not be increased in order to cover the costs of future lectures.

Speakers being considered for future invitations to the campus as part of the new series are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, former President Herbert C. Hoover, Sr., former President Harry S. Truman, Sen. John S. Kennedy and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

Mao Will Quit Post As Red China Chief

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Mao Tze-tung, Communist China's political, economic and governmental boss, is quitting as chief of state next month.

Peiping confirmed it yesterday but emphasized that Mao will remain at the helm of Red China as boss of the Chinese Communist party, said diplomatic advices reaching Warsaw. Foreign Minister Chen Yi notified foreign diplomats in Peiping that the 65-year-old

Ed Prof Plays 'Santa Claus' For Advisees

David W. Russell, professor of education, played Santa Claus to his 25 freshman women advisees last night.

Russell, who said he is quite proud of his advisee group and the hard work they had been doing all semester, decided to end his series of weekly advisee meetings with a special event.

He called his friends Oral R. Swigart and J. Campbell Lester, both associate professors in mechanical engineering, and arranged to have 25 freshman engineering students go to the University skating rink. Then he told his advisees they, too, could go to the rink. Result: Christmas ice skating party!

Russell said the party was the first he had arranged for any of his advisee group. "We decided if it worked out well, we might try it again in the Spring before the rink closes," he said.

Some Relief Seen From Cold Wave

The cold wave that has held temperatures below 25 degrees for 11 consecutive days will break somewhat today with the afternoon temperature rising close to the 30 degree mark.

Today's forecast is cloudy with a chance of occasional light snow. The high will be 30 degrees, getting clearer and colder towards night with a low of 16 degrees.

Cold weather should continue for several more days but the temperatures will not be as low as they have been for the past 11 days.

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy with an expected high of 34 degrees.

The forecast of the weather for the forthcoming holiday weekend will appear in tomorrow's Daily Collegian.

father of the Red Chinese revolution—though keeping his big job as party chairman—will retire from the presidency upon the expiration of his term in January "to conserve himself to still more important tasks."

Though the retirement was pictured by the Chinese as strictly voluntary, Western envoys in this Polish Communist capital expressed belief that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might have had a hand in it.

They said that if Khrushchev did not precipitate Mao's stepdown, they were certain he was pleased with it. They believed the retirement was discussed at Monday's meeting of the Soviet Communist party Central Committee in Moscow.

The Soviet Union, they said, had been worried about two things in relation with its biggest Communist neighbor:

•The possibility of adverse effects from Mao's drastic commune policy, which masses workers and their families into labor battalions for Red China's campaign in agriculture and industry

•Fear of an adventurist foreign policy in the Far East at a time when Soviet attention centers on Berlin and the Middle East.

Chen emphasized the voluntary aspect of the retirement at a briefing of ambassadors, ministers and charges d'affaires.

After four sessions of Sunday afternoon open houses, all the fraternities will be open to freshmen tonight. Another general open house will be held Jan. 11 by the Interfraternity Council.

Irvin Coed Abducted Near Tavern

A fifth semester coed from Irvin Hall has recovered from a state of shock which followed her abduction by an unidentified man in the vicinity of The Tavern on College Avenue Sunday night.

James Coogan, director of public information, said the girl told police she had gone to a social in the basement of Grace Evangelical Church on College Avenue and left about 9:15 p.m. for Irvin Hall.

As she was walking past the Tavern, however, she said she realized some one was walking behind her. He told her to keep quiet and not scream. She said he took her left glove off, took her hand and led her into the car which she later said she thought was a dark Ford.

She said she could not remember anything after that. "I blacked out, I think," she told police. She regained consciousness once, she said, and found they were driving around. He told her to keep quiet.

The next time she was conscious, she said she was sitting on the Library steps and she heard Old Main ring 9:45 p.m. She walked to Irvin Hall and told her roommate the story. Her roommate, who saw she was very upset, went to the hostess at about 2 a.m. and reported the happening.

The hostess had the girl taken to the infirmary where she remained until yesterday. She was too upset to talk to any one until yesterday, including police. Dr. Helz of the infirmary said she was not harmed in any way. She
