

Towns Will Affiliate

The University's chapter of the Institute of Local Government will participate in a friendship program with an overseas community.

The direct contact between the community and the organization is part of an international town affiliations program. Citizens of foreign countries are contacted by American citizens rather than by official government agencies.

The program is part of the People to People Program, which grew out of a conference of leading American citizens called by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956.

Periodicals published by the institute will concentrate on the town affiliations' approach to international understanding between Pennsylvania and foreign communities.

These periodicals include The Authority, The Borough Bulletin, Assessor's Newsletter, Horizons, Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Bulletin, Local Governmental Secretaries Newsletter and The Township Commissioner.

The American Municipal Association is in charge of the town affiliations program. The association is working with the Civic Committee of the People to People Program.

Charles F. LeeDecker, president of the State College Borough Council, and Glenn A. Marburger, editor for the institute, recently attended a meeting of the committee in Washington, D.C.

Mattil Teaches Art In Youth TV Show

A University-sponsored television program shows children how they can work creatively with their hands in activities such as drawing, modeling, print-making, puppetry and paper mache work.

The program, "Key to the Cupboard," is broadcast at 8:30 a.m. Saturday mornings over WFBG, Channel 10, Altoona. This Saturday's program will concern paper sculpture, with emphasis on making Valentines.

Edward L. Mattil, associate professor of art education, is the teacher of the programs. Calvin Folk, supervisor of art in the Altoona school system, told Mattil he would bring the programs to the attention of Altoona elementary school children.

Less than four years after graduation...

He runs a team of 69 people servicing 20,000 telephone customers

H. D. "Doug" Jones graduated from Texas A. & M. with a B.B.A. degree in 1955. Today, Doug supervises six plant foremen and 63 craftsmen for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at Galveston, Texas. He is responsible for installation and maintenance activities on some 31,000 telephones serving 20,000 customers. It is a big job and Doug finds it challenging and rewarding. Here he is during one day's activities...

"8 A.M. Today, before the men start out on their job, I talk to the foremen and their crews about the importance of taking every opportunity to sell telephone services and build good customer relations."

"9:10 A.M. One of the best ways for me to judge the results of our training programs is to ride along with the men on service calls. Here, I chat with a customer while a color telephone is installed in her home."

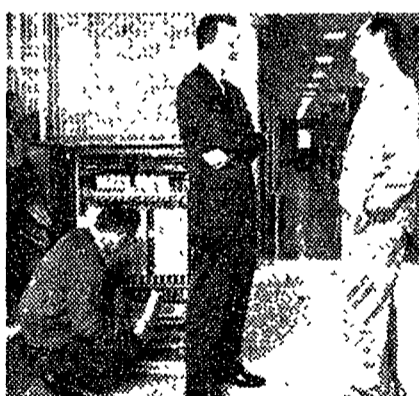

"10:30 A.M. Returning to the office, I check customer trouble reports with my Chief Test Deskman. Continuous study of these reports helps us to prevent serious problems from developing and keep our customers satisfied."

"1:15 P.M. After lunch, I meet with the district department managers to go over floor plans for a central office now under construction. The office is being planned to serve a particularly fast-growing area."

"3 P.M. At my desk I prepare production reports on our installation and repair activities. A foreman reports a complex switchboard installation being completed today. I decide to go over and talk to the customer."

"4:10 P.M. At the Port of Galveston offices, I discuss advantages of the new P.B.X. with one of the officers of the Port. The Port requires complex telephone services, which must be maintained around the clock."

"Well, that is how the job went today... tomorrow will be very different. There is just no set routine on this assignment. I have to be ready for anything that develops. That is one of the reasons I really look forward to my work every day."

Doug Jones and many college men like him have found real opportunity to use their abilities in Bell Telephone Companies. There may be a bright and fulfilling career waiting for you, too. Talk to the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus. He'll give you the whole story. And read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.
