Lions Clobber Terps For Fourth Victory

If there were any disappointed wrestling fans among the 5500 that witnessed Penn State's surprisingly easy 23-10 win over Maryland Saturday night at Rec Hall, they must have been rooting for the Terrapins.

For the Lion matmen, in winning their fourth meet of the year, did just about everything the fans had wanted to see. The Nittany backers wanted an impressive victory—and they got it. They wanted to see a couple of Penn State pins—and they got that, too.

They were even rewarded beyond their fondest hopes when the Lions' highly-publicized sophomore heavyweight Johnston Oberly gained a fast and somewhat spectacular first period fall.

The victory was doubly important for Coach Charlie Speidel. Not only did it assure him of another "non-losing" season (his 25th in 28 years of coaching) but it was a perfect birthday gift for the wily gent, who was celebrating his 60th birthday that night.

There were only two losers for the Lions—and both were via falls. Gordie Danks was flattened by Dick VanAuken at 130 pounds and Joe Haines was decked by unbeaten Dick Dean at 177.
