Thursday in Schwab Auditorium.

Prime minister during the postwar years, Attlee was elevated to the peerage upon his resignation from the House of Commons in December 1955. He has sat in the House of Lords as an earl since 1956.

It was under Attlee that the British government nationalized the basic industries. His government introduced the National Health Service which socialized medicine.

Under Attlee the British government allowed India, Burma and Ceylon to determine their own future.

Attlee was first elected to parliament in 1922, and two years later, in the first Labor government, he took office as under-secretary of state for war. At the age of 41 he held a position just below Cabinet level.

In 1927 he went to India as a member of the Simon Commission, which was studying the various aspects involved in increasing her self-government.

Attlee also served as postmaster-general in 1931 during the second Labor government.

During World War II he was invited by Churchill to join the coalition cabinet. He later became deputy prime minister.

Attlee led his party in the general election of 1945 and was head of the government in two Parliaments from 1945-1951. When the Labor party lost the elections of October, 1951, he again became leader of the opposition. He held the post until his resignation in 1955.

Distribution Of Bjoerling Tickets Set

Tickets will be available at 1 p.m., Tuesday at the Hetzel Union desk for the concert by Jussi Bjoerling scheduled for 8 p.m. March 1, in Recreation Building.

Student ticket distribution will continue until 5 p.m., Tuesday and from 9 a.m., Wednesday until they run out.

Bjoerling, the Swedish born tenor, is now on an extensive tour of the United States. He will appear in the 12th Artists' Series Concert of the year.

Bjoerling was born into the opera. His father was a noted opera and concert singer. Bjoerling, left parentless at 16, did work in a houseware store and washing taxi-cabs.

Accepted by the Royal Academy of Music, Bjoerling's training was taken over by John Forsell, once a famous Don Giovanni at the Metropolitan Opera.

At the age of 19, Bjoerling made his debut at the Stockholm Opera.

In 1935, he was heard by the English speaking world for the first time as he appeared at Covent Garden, London.

In 1937 he came to the United States for a concert and radio tour. At the age of 27, in 1938, he was signed by the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Players to Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for a new play, "Iphigenia At Aulis," will be held in the Little Theatre, Old Main, tomorrow and Monday at 7:15 p.m.

The play, to be produced on Center Stage April 10 through May 16, is a re-telling of the old Greek legend of the beginning of the Trojan War.

Outing Clubbers to Scrub Beaver Dam's Bottom

Outing Club members will be found in their old dungarees and dirty shirts tomorrow afternoon clearing out debris from the bottom of Beaver Dam.

About 20 or 30 members are needed.

Beaver Dam is being restocked with game fish to provide a better breeding area for them. At present the area is filled with undesirable fish. It will be cleaned out tomorrow so that better breeding areas will be available. Then it will be restocked with game fish such as trout. This fishing area will be made available to students during the fishing season.

Army Engineers did the preliminary work of blasting the area and bringing in the necessary equipment early this morning. The Army Engineers will assist Outing Club members in cleaning the bottom of the dam tomorrow. They will also supply the equipment.

The debris that is collected from the dam bottom will be burned. Students will also be needed to help with the fire. Because of the equipment, the "fun party," as Outing Club members call it, will not require much heavy work. As an incentive, the Outing Club will have food for all who come out to work. Workers have been advised to wear old clothes.

Outing Club members only may help clear out Beaver Dam. All interested members should meet at 2 p.m. Sunday behind Osmond Laboratory. Transportation will be supplied. If further information is desired, Outing Club members may contact Jack Huddart at AD 8-0027.

3 Nittany Teams Play Syracuse

Lion Gymnasts Begin Activities

BULLETIN

HAMILTON, N.Y.—The Nittany Lion basketball team won its first game of a two-day trip in New York state as it beat Colgate, 71-51, at Hamilton last night. Details on page six.

By MATT MATHEWS
Associate Sports Editor

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Three Lion sport squads invade Syracuse today and the possibility of a clean sweep is listed as good.

The undefeated gymnasts (5-0) will open the season's first triple-header at 1 p.m. against a winless Orange squad. Immediately following the gym meet the wrestlers (4-2) will take the floor against the host matmen, who have a mediocre 2-4-1 record.

After a dinner break, Coach John Egli's cagers will face the Pietymen (9-9) at 8 p.m. in the Onondaga War Memorial. The hosts are given their best chance of winning an event in basketball.

All three Lion teams will revamp their lineups for today's contests.

The most changes will be made in Coach Gene Wettstone's gym lineup, due to injuries to triple-threats Lee Cunningham, Lou Savadove and Jay Werner.

But Wettstone obviously does not expect too much of the Syracuse G-men, as he left behind two of his crack rope climbers because they "can use a rest."

The two are Vince Neuhauser who has hit the pan in 3.5 seconds and Jack Hiding who has also scaled the 20-foot rope in less than four seconds. In their place went Bill Fosnocht (a 4.5 performer) and untried George Mumau.

Don Littlewood, who has competed in all five meets to date, winning four, will anchor the makeshift trio.

The Syracuse squad appears to

No Major Ones Till '61

Jazz Concerts Limited

By DENNY MALICK

The Jazz Club has been told by the administration that the club will not be able to sponsor any more major jazz concerts until about 1961.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs, said yesterday that presenting the major concerts was "too much a financial risk for a club with no adequate means of income."

However, Ronald Palmer and Peter Duncan, present and past Jazz Club presidents, were vigorously opposed to Bernreuter's action.

"We made $1700 on the Kenton concert and $1600 on the Four Freshmen concert," Palmer said, "and that doesn't sound too much like financial difficulties to me."

Palmer said there is about $1600 in the club treasury now.

Bernreuter said the club had been having financial trouble and the administration had "helped them arrange things" for the Kenton and Four Freshmen concerts. "Now for the first time in some while, the club is solvent," he added.

But Duncan said that the administration helped only insofar as services were offered by the Associated Student Activities office. They helped take care of tickets and a number of details, he said.

"I don't think this was purely necessary," he added, "but it was nice to have them on our side."

Palmer said that the club is now in good shape and is expected to add to its treasury with a concert by Dakota Staton March 20. He was in the office of William B. Crafts Thursday making final arrangements for this concert when he learned of Bernreuter's action.

Palmer and Stuart Medwin, Jazz Club vice president, met with Bernreuter that afternoon to try to continue the club's program.

However, they were unsuccessful since Bernreuter apparently had made up his mind and was not willing to change it, Palmer said.

Palmer received a letter yesterday from George L. Donovan, ASA director, which was post-marked only a few minutes after the Thursday meeting with Bernreuter.

The letter stated:
