Jazz Club

"Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president for student affairs, has advised me (Donovan) that the Penn State Jazz Club no longer has permission to promote large jazz concerts.

"It will be greatly appreciated if you will see to it that Recreation Building and Schwab Auditorium are no longer available to this organization."

Copies were sent to Palmer, Glenn N. Thiel, professor of physical education, and Dr. Walter H. Walters, head of the Department of Theatre Arts.

Palmer said he was shocked by the news, since it was a complete reversal of a letter sent out by Bernreuter after the Kenton concert.

The original letter stated that the club was free to plan further concerts, Palmer said.

"It said concerts, plural," Palmer added, "so we went ahead with the Freshman concert and also for Dakota Staton."

Police Investigate Attempted Entries

Police are investigating entries or attempted entries of several business establishments along E. College Avenue and S. Pugh Street.

It was reported yesterday that Reed's Cleaners at 109 S. Pugh St. was entered Thursday night, but whether anything was taken has not been determined.

Entry to the shop was accomplished by the removal of pins from the back door hinges and the door had been completely removed. It was found that the back door of Christy's restaurant had been forced and there were indications of other tampering with doors in the area, police said.

Police are still investigating the entries of two service stations and the A&P market about a week ago.

to and with the fraternities and how this relationship can be improved. Walker may also disclose the Board of Trustees' action on the IFC request that fraternities be permitted to borrow money for expansion and new construction through the University.

Edward Hintz, IFC president, announced yesterday the appointment of Mrs. A. Norman Fedon, 384 N. Allen St., State College, as the permanent Fraternity Affairs Office secretary. Mrs. Fedon will maintain hours from 1:15 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in the FAO in 203 Hetzel Union.

At the last IFC meeting, the group voted to hire a secretary to replace the executive vice president position held by David Morrow. Morrow resigned after the IFC Executive Committee recommended that the efficiency of the office could be raised through the hiring of a permanent secretary to replace the 15 student members of the FAO.

The FAO was reorganized by IFC secretary-treasurer Richard Christian last week and all the files and records were brought up to date. The permanent secretary will provide the fraternities with a service as well as providing a more efficient means for maintaining an organization, Christian said.
