

Khrushchev Attacks Western Policies

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev caustically attacked Western foreign policies on Germany yesterday in a Kremlin speech. British sources said visiting Prime Minister Harold MacMillan reacted with some shock when he heard of Khrushchev's remarks.

The Khrushchev speech was described by British sources as unusual since it came right in the middle of private conversations between the two leaders. It was delivered during a break in the talks while MacMillan was on a one-day trip to Dubna, the Soviet atom center 90 miles north-east of Moscow.

Khrushchev apparently rejected the West's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany. It would have been justified at the windup of World War II, he said, but "now the idea is plainly obsolete."

The Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France cannot discuss German unification, he contended, because "this is a question for the two German states themselves."

Khrushchev repeated as "more expedient" the Soviet proposal, already turned down by the West for a meeting of the government chiefs of all nations that waged war against Hitler to work out a German peace treaty.

After a party at the British Embassy, MacMillan motored to the country house where the two leaders are due to resume private conversations today.

There MacMillan met with top advisers to work out the best attitude toward Khrushchev's tough speech on Germany, the Middle East and Western policies.

British officials with MacMillan expressed surprise at the timing of Khrushchev's speech at a local political rally. The Moscow diplomatic colony was buzzing with reports that the talks have struck a snag.

Hammar skjold to Plan 4 Day Visit to Moscow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. said yesterday Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold plans a four-day official visit to Moscow next month.

A spokesman said Hammarskjold and Soviet leaders would discuss such matters as the Berlin crisis, disarmament and international cooperation in outer space. Hammarskjold intends to leave New York next Saturday.

71st Birthday Observed By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will observe his 71st birthday today fighting cancer.

The hospital again reported yesterday that Dulles was doing about as well as can be expected.

In his second battle with cancer, Dulles has undergone four treatments of massive doses of X-rays of a minute or more duration. Doctors say this will go on for three or four weeks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

A medical bulletin reported his appetite has improved and he is in good spirits.

So far, Dulles has shown no adverse reaction to the X-ray treatment. Some people get fatigued and nauseated. Dulles' X-ray dosages have been relatively light, and doctors do not rule out such reactions as they get closer to the five-minute maximum duration.

Dulles telephoned his special assistant, Joseph N. Greene Jr., to talk about State Department business yesterday. The 10-minute call was reported to have touched on British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's current Moscow visit and a speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department had no word on Dulles' birthday plans beyond his usual daily trip to the X-ray room in a wheelchair. There was a possibility that President Eisenhower might visit him. Eisenhower has called on Dulles four times since he entered the hospital Feb. 10.

The State Department is shaking down into its new method of operation. Virtually a one-man show since Dulles took office Jan. 21, 1953, the department is now trying a pattern which could continue indefinitely.

Senate Probes Into Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Chicago tavern operator virtually blew off the head of a thug lying in wait to kill him during an underworld drive to shake down pin-ball machine operators, Senate investigators said yesterday.

The Senate Labor-Management Committee was told the tavern operator, Willard Bates, himself was blasted to death a few days after slaying Frank Mastari. Investigator James P. McShane testified the shootings occurred during the summer of 1957. He said they came amid a wave of acid-hurling and axewielding by hoodlums trying to push reluctant gambling machine operators into line. McShane said an organization known as Chicago Independent Amusement Assn. Inc. hired three musclemen—Mastari, James Rini and Alex Ross—to pressure amusement machine operators to join the association and pay dues of $1 for each machine. Handcuffed together, Rini and Ross were brought before the committee. They refused on Fifth Amendment grounds to say if they were involved in the Bates incident or other violence.

States to Tax Out-of-State Corporations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court yesterday gave the financially harassed states broad power to put the tax bite on out-of-state corporations which do business within their borders.

In a 6-3 decision involving cases from Minnesota and Georgia, the court ruled net income from operations within a state by an out-of-state corporation may be subjected to state taxation provided:

•The levy is not discriminatory.

•It is properly apportioned to local activities within the taxing states.

While the ruling specifically applied only to Minnesota and Georgia tax laws, it was far reaching enough to cover similar laws by other states. Hundreds of corporations could be affected.

Justice Clark, speaking for the majority, said: "While it is true a state may not erect a wall around its borders preventing commerce and entry, it is axiomatic that the founders did not intend to immunize such commerce from carrying its fair share of the costs of the state governments in return for the benefits it derives from within the states."

as unusual since it came right in the middle of private conversations between the two leaders. It was delivered during a break in the talks while MacMillan was on a one-day trip to Dubna, the Soviet atom center 90 miles north-east of Moscow.

THE PEN IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SMOOCH

Back in my courting days (the raccoon coat was all the rage, everybody was singing Good Morning, Mister Zip Zip Zip, and young Bonaparte had just left Corsica), back, I say, in my courting days, the standard way to melt a girl's heart was to write poetry to her.

I don't understand why young men today have abandoned this gambit. There is nothing like poetry for moving a difficult girl. What's more, poems are ridiculously easy to write. The range of subjects is endless. You can write a poem about a girl's hair, her eyes, her lips, her walk, her talk, her clothes—anything at all. Indeed, one of my most effective love lyrics was called To Maud's Pencil Box. It went like this:

"To Maud's Pencil Box" It went like this:

*In your dear little leatherette pencil box
Are pencils of yellow and red,
And if you don't tell me you love me soon,
I'll hit you on top of the head.*

Honesty compels me to admit that this poem fell short of success. Nothing daunted, I wrote another one. This time I pulled a switch; I threatened myself instead of Maud.

*Oh, Maud, pray stop this drivell
And tell me you'll be mine,
For my sweetbreads they do shrivel
And wind around my spine.

My heart doth cease its beating,
My spleen uncoils and warps,
My liver stops secreting
Soon I needs be a corpse.*

When this heart-rending ballad failed to win Maud, I could only conclude that she was cruel and heartless and I was better off without her. Accordingly I took back my Hi-Y pin, bade her adieu, and have not clapped eyes on her since. Last I heard, she was working in Galveston as a Plimsoll line.

But I did not mourn Maud long, for after Maud came Doris—Doris of the laughing eyes, Doris of the shimmering hair, Doris of the golden tibiae! Within moments of meeting her, I whipped up a torrent of trochaic tetrameter:

*Oh, my sweet and dulcet Doris!
I love you like a Philip Morris
With its mild and rich tobacco
In its white and scarlet pack-o.
I'd swim from Louisville to Natchez
For Philip Morris and you and matches.*

Well, of course, the dear girl couldn't resist a poem like that—what girl could?—and she instantly became my slave. For the rest of the semester she carried my books, washed my car, and cored my apples. There is no telling where it all would have ended if she hadn't been drafted.

So, men, you can see the power of poetry. Try it yourself. All you need is a rhyming dictionary, a quill pen, and a second-hand muse.

Let's drop rhyme and turn to reason. The reason Marlboro has gone to the head of the filter cigarette class is simpler better "makin's"—a flavor that pleases, a filter that works. Marlboro—from the makers of Philip Morris.
