

CDFR Prof Gemmill Wins Title To Address At Debate Congress Fellowship

Dr. Joseph Britton, associate professor of child development and family relations, will speak at the Presbyterian University Fellowship at 6:20 p.m. tomorrow.

There will be a discussion on "Love and Family Relationships" focusing on the relations of college students with their parents.

The United Student Fellowship will hear Dr. Andrew Case, professor of art, speak on "Roman Catholicism" at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

This will be the third in a series of five discussions on the general theme, "The Religions of Mankind."

The University Christian Association Protestant service of worship at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel will hear a sermon by the Rev. John Whitney of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

Members of the Baptist Student Movement will meet at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at the University Baptist Church for supper.

Following the dinner, Robert LaBar, president of the Agriculture Student Council, will speak to the group on "Campus Politics."

The Episcopal Student Group will meet at 5 p.m. tomorrow at the Episcopal Church for an evening prayer, followed by a supper at the parish house. Dr. Robert E. Dengler, professor emeritus of Greek, will discuss "Lent in Perspective" at a 6 p.m. meeting after the dinner.

The Wesley Foundation will meet for a Fireside Forum at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the foundation, 256 E. College Ave. "Islam" will be the topic for discussion.

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation will sponsor a brunch at noon tomorrow for the United Jewish Appeal.

Masses for Roman Catholic Students will be said at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. at the Our Lady of Victory Church and at 9 a.m. in Schwab Auditorium.

Visiting Bishop Will Deliver Chapel Sermon

Bishop Fred Pierce Corson will speak on "Jesus Found It In the Church" at the University Chapel service of worship at 10:55 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

Bishop Corson is the resident bishop of the Methodist church in the Philadelphia area.

The University Chapel Choir, directed by Willa Taylor, will sing as the choral introtit, "Deck Thyself, My Soul, with Gladness" by Johann Cruger and as the anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord" by Arthur Bliss.

George E. Ceiga, University organist, assisted by Ella Linninger, senior in home economics from Connellsville, will play as the prelude, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" by J. S. Bach; as the offertory, "Hear Our Solemn Litany" by Healey Willan; and as the postlude, "Fugue in E Minor" by J. S. Bach.

Bishop Corson was graduated from Dickinson College and Drew Theological Seminary. He holds many honorary degrees from such Pennsylvania colleges as Temple, Dickinson, Allegheny, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg and the University of Pennsylvania.

Bishop Corson served as president of the Council of Bishops from 1952-1953. He is currently the vice president of the Methodist World Conference and was a delegate to the World Council of Churches' Evanston meeting in 1954.

University Delegates Attend ICG Regional Convention

Delegates from the University General Assembly for its consideration. University delegates carried at least 10 bills to the convention with them. The bills cover such diverse areas as state finances, labor and industry, local government and the judiciary.

Delegations from other colleges and junior colleges attending the convention of the Central Region, one of the state's five regions, are from Bucknell University, Franklin and Marshall, Hershey, Elizabethtown, Lebanon Valley, Dickinson and Millersville colleges.

The convention is being held in the form of a model state legislature. Corter said bills passed by the ICG legislature will be sent to the Pennsylvania General Assembly for its consideration.

Twenty-three students from the University are participating in the conference according to Lee E. Corter, assistant professor of political science, the group's faculty advisor.

Miss Gemmill, senior in secondary education from New Cumberland, was awarded the title and a silver gavel pendant for her views on the question, "Resolved: That the Further Emergence of Women from the Home Should Be Prohibited by Universal Agreement."

She was selected by the "congressmen" at a dinner banquet in the Hetzel Union dining room last night and "crowned" by Marshall Jacobson, manager of men's debate team.

"Being a woman," Miss Gemmill said, "I can draw a completely illogical conclusion and say that since men are opposed to women in business, we must keep the women in the home."

Women, she said, have been outstanding throughout the ages, and men have developed an inferiority complex.

She offered a solution to this with the theory that if women were restricted to the home the population would increase and there would not be enough food for everyone. Therefore, she theorized, men would have to find a scientific way of producing the food. This would reduce their inferiority complexes.

She pointed out that "foreign policy" would also be solved by keeping women in the home.

"Just think," Miss Gemmill said, "no need for a summit conference to determine hemlines; no need for a foreign minister's conference to determine the color of the year."

She also pointed to the end of the two weapons capable of annihilating the human race—the pointed toe and the steel heel.

Miss Donovan, who argued against women remaining in the home, referred to women as "our trapped natural resource."

Miss Walborn, in defending the resolution, warned of an all-out war between the sexes if women were to continue going into the business world.

University Delegates Attend ICG Regional Convention

Delegates from the University General Assembly for its consideration. University delegates carried at least 10 bills to the convention with them. The bills cover such diverse areas as state finances, labor and industry, local government and the judiciary.

Delegations from other colleges and junior colleges attending the convention of the Central Region, one of the state's five regions, are from Bucknell University, Franklin and Marshall, Hershey, Elizabethtown, Lebanon Valley, Dickinson and Millersville colleges.

The convention is being held in the form of a model state legislature. Corter said bills passed by the ICG legislature will be sent to the Pennsylvania General Assembly for its consideration.

Twenty-three students from the University are participating in the conference according to Lee E. Corter, assistant professor of political science, the group's faculty advisor.

Miss Gemmill, senior in secondary education from New Cumberland, was awarded the title and a silver gavel pendant for her views on the question, "Resolved: That the Further Emergence of Women from the Home Should Be Prohibited by Universal Agreement."

She was selected by the "congressmen" at a dinner banquet in the Hetzel Union dining room last night and "crowned" by Marshall Jacobson, manager of men's debate team.

"Being a woman," Miss Gemmill said, "I can draw a completely illogical conclusion and say that since men are opposed to women in business, we must keep the women in the home."

Women, she said, have been outstanding throughout the ages, and men have developed an inferiority complex.

She offered a solution to this with the theory that if women were restricted to the home the population would increase and there would not be enough food for everyone. Therefore, she theorized, men would have to find a scientific way of producing the food. This would reduce their inferiority complexes.

She pointed out that "foreign policy" would also be solved by keeping women in the home.

"Just think," Miss Gemmill said, "no need for a summit conference to determine hemlines; no need for a foreign minister's conference to determine the color of the year."

She also pointed to the end of the two weapons capable of annihilating the human race—the pointed toe and the steel heel.

Miss Donovan, who argued against women remaining in the home, referred to women as "our trapped natural resource."

Miss Walborn, in defending the resolution, warned of an all-out war between the sexes if women were to continue going into the business world.

Delegates from the University General Assembly for its consideration. University delegates carried at least 10 bills to the convention with them. The bills cover such diverse areas as state finances, labor and industry, local government and the judiciary.

Delegations from other colleges and junior colleges attending the convention of the Central Region, one of the state's five regions, are from Bucknell University, Franklin and Marshall, Hershey, Elizabethtown, Lebanon Valley, Dickinson and Millersville colleges.

The convention is being held in the form of a model state legislature. Corter said bills passed by the ICG legislature will be sent to the Pennsylvania General Assembly for its consideration.

Twenty-three students from the University are participating in the conference according to Lee E. Corter, assistant professor of political science, the group's faculty advisor.

Miss Gemmill, senior in secondary education from New Cumberland, was awarded the title and a silver gavel pendant for her views on the question, "Resolved: That the Further Emergence of Women from the Home Should Be Prohibited by Universal Agreement."

She was selected by the "congressmen" at a dinner banquet in the Hetzel Union dining room last night and "crowned" by Marshall Jacobson, manager of men's debate team.

"Being a woman," Miss Gemmill said, "I can draw a completely illogical conclusion and say that since men are opposed to women in business, we must keep the women in the home."

Women, she said, have been outstanding throughout the ages, and men have developed an inferiority complex.

She offered a solution to this with the theory that if women were restricted to the home the population would increase and there would not be enough food for everyone. Therefore, she theorized, men would have to find a scientific way of producing the food. This would reduce their inferiority complexes.

She pointed out that "foreign policy" would also be solved by keeping women in the home.

"Just think," Miss Gemmill said, "no need for a summit conference to determine hemlines; no need for a foreign minister's conference to determine the color of the year."

She also pointed to the end of the two weapons capable of annihilating the human race—the pointed toe and the steel heel.

Miss Donovan, who argued against women remaining in the home, referred to women as "our trapped natural resource."

Miss Walborn, in defending the resolution, warned of an all-out war between the sexes if women were to continue going into the business world.

Delegates from the University General Assembly for its consideration. University delegates carried at least 10 bills to the convention with them. The bills cover such diverse areas as state finances, labor and industry, local government and the judiciary.

Delegations from other colleges and junior colleges attending the convention of the Central Region, one of the state's five regions, are from Bucknell University, Franklin and Marshall, Hershey, Elizabethtown, Lebanon Valley, Dickinson and Millersville colleges.

The convention is being held in the form of a model state legislature. Corter said bills passed by the ICG legislature will be sent to the Pennsylvania General Assembly for its consideration.

Twenty-three students from the University are participating in the conference according to Lee E. Corter, assistant professor of political science, the group's faculty advisor.

Miss Gemmill, senior in secondary education from New Cumberland, was awarded the title and a silver gavel pendant for her views on the question, "Resolved: That the Further Emergence of Women from the Home Should Be Prohibited by Universal Agreement."

She was selected by the "congressmen" at a dinner banquet in the Hetzel Union dining room last night and "crowned" by Marshall Jacobson, manager of men's debate team.

"Being a woman," Miss Gemmill said, "I can draw a completely illogical conclusion and say that since men are opposed to women in business, we must keep the women in the home."

Women, she said, have been outstanding throughout the ages, and men have developed an inferiority complex.

She offered a solution to this with the theory that if women were restricted to the home the population would increase and there would not be enough food for everyone. Therefore, she theorized, men would have to find a scientific way of producing the food. This would reduce their inferiority complexes.

She pointed out that "foreign policy" would also be solved by keeping women in the home.

*A Book of Verses underneath the Bough
A bottle of root beer, a Morrell's boogie and Thou Beside me singing in the wilderness*

—Omar Khayyam

Visit Morrell's
The eating place of the poets

for carry-out service call AD 8-8381 open till 12 p.m.

MORRELL'S
112 S. FRAZIER

THINKKLISH

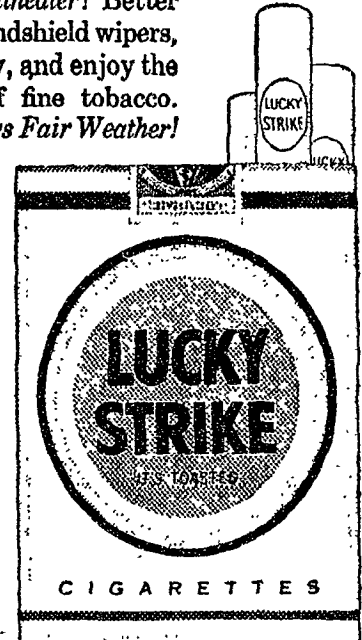

English: DRIVE-IN MOVIE ON A RAINY NIGHT

Thinkklish translation: This drive-in's main feature: pictures matched to the weather. In January, it's Snow White; in July, Hot Spell. When it pours, of course, the program is all wet: Singing in the Rain, Hatful of Rain and Rain-tree County. On such nights, the only (Thinkklish) word for this place is dampthheater! Better turn on your windshield wipers, light up a Lucky, and enjoy the honest taste of fine tobacco. -Then It's Always Fair Weather!

MAKE $25

Start talking our language—we've got hundreds of checks just itching to go! We're paying $25 each for the Thinkklish words judged best! Thinkklish is easy: it's new words from two words—like those on this page. Send yours to Lucky Strike, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Enclose your name, address, college and class.

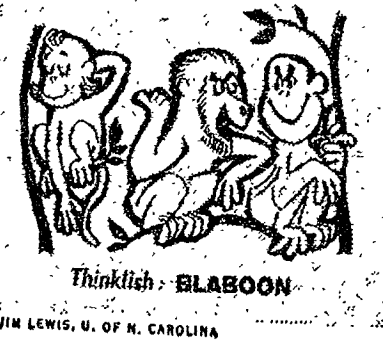

Get the genuine article Get the honest taste of a LUCKY STRIKE

English: SEASICK MAYFLOWER PASSENGER

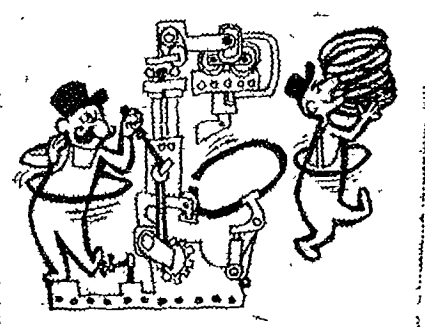

Thinkklish: ILLGRIM
B. TOHNEY, LOYOLA COLLEGE

English: LOUD-MOUTHED APE

Thinkklish: BLABOON
JIM LEWIS, U. OF N. CAROLINA

English: HOOP FACTORY

Thinkklish: SPINSTITUTION
CHARLES HUSTED, U. OF COLORADO

English: SODA-FOUNTAIN BOSS

Thinkklish: SCOOPERVISOR
BOB HURLEY, NORTHEASTERN

English: DOZING WRAITH

Thinkklish: NAPPARITION
E. BRUCE MERCHANT, U. OF CHICAGO

Product of The American Tobacco Company - "Tobacco is our middle name."