Dairy Contest Preliminaries To Be Held

Students interested in entering the 34th annual Dairy Exposition may obtain a dairy cow at a drawing at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 117 Dairy.

Glenn Shirk, senior in dairy science from Quarryville, production manager of the exposition, said any University student may enter the exposition.

Several events, under the direction of assistant production manager James Hickman, senior in dairy science from Bethel Park, will take place during the week preceding the actual exposition in the stock pavilion.

A dairy judging contest will be featured May 2. This contest is based on contestants' ability to judge prize dairy cattle only.

For persons who wish to design dairy plants, a dairy plant plans contest will be held May 7. The day of the exposition there will be an ice cream mold contest and a dairy product judging contest.

Students will receive help from the University creamery.

The dairy products judging contest will involve the judging, by students, of cream, butter, milk and other dairy products.

Each contest will have two divisions—one for professionals and one for amateurs.

'Bolshoi Ballet' To Be Shown In State College

"The Bolshoi Ballet," a full-length feature presentation of the world-famous Bolshoi Ballet group of Moscow, will be shown at the State Theater today and tomorrow.

The film was produced last fall when the entire ballet made its first visit to Covent Garden in London and danced before Queen Elizabeth II.

Prima ballerina Galina Ulanova dances the classic "Giselle" in the film which also has six other ballet divertissements typical of the Russian repertory. There are excerpts from the Bolshoi Ballet's production of "The Fountain of Bakchisarai," "Swan Lake," "Ivan Susanin" and "Faust," as well as the divertissements "Spring Water," with music by Rachmaninoff and "The Dying Swan," created by Fokine for Anna Pavlova and performed in this film by Mme. Ulanova.

The orchestra of the Royal Opera House in London and the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Uri Faier and G. Rozhdestvensky, are heard in the film.

The presentation of the film is part of an agreement between this country and the Soviet Union to exchange cultural products.

Flashcard Section May Be Established

By JANET DURSTINE

Students may be able to add flashcard slogans to their cheers and songs at next fall's football games.

Lanny Dey, chairman of the All-University Cabinet Flashcard committee, said the committee would like to set up a flashcard section for next fall, but they are mainly concerned with a section for the new stadium.

The committee plans to take a student opinion poll to see if students want a flashcard section, Dey said. However, he said he did not know how the poll would be conducted.

They have also written to about 10 schools having flashcard sections to determine how other schools operate their sections, and have received an answer from one, UCLA.

The members of the organization would sit in the flashcard section and would have to attend practices. Any student could join the organization, he said.

Dey said he would like to put one flashcard section behind the Blue Band and the other one beside it. About 480 persons could participate in the sections at the present Beaver Field, he said. However, he said he would like to enlarge the sections when the new stadium is built. The membership of UCLA's section sometimes reaches 3600.

The flashcard section would probably work with the Blue Band, he said. Blue and white cards would be used.

A flashcard section was tried two years ago, and it was located in one of the end zones. Since only persons across the section can see the flash cards, this section could only be seen by students in the other end zone, Dey said.

Six students besides Dey are working on the committee.

Leadership Group Hears Kenworthy

By NICKI WOLFORD

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the president, explained the University's organization to 60 students as a much revamped Leadership Training Program got under way last night.

The new program will feature speakers drawn mainly from the faculty and will stress the psychology of leadership, committee organization and parliamentary procedure.

This is the first year the training program, sponsored by All-University Cabinet, has been held in the spring semester.

In past years the program has been held for six weeks during the fall semester. Its purpose was to acquaint news students with the facets of campus extracurricular activities.

According to James Ettleson, program chairman, the new purpose is to present information and suggestions necessary for good leadership.

Ettleson said campus activities were adequately explained in the student handbook.

The program's length has been increased to eight weeks and attendance at weekly meetings has been made mandatory. At the end of the 8-week period, participating students will be given an examination.

In explaining some of the reasons for these changes, Ettleson said that an attempt would be made to correlate the weekly lectures and an absence at one meeting would result in the absentee's being somewhat behind the rest of the students participating.

He added that since the program was essentially an experiment, the examination would be given only to determine what benefit the students received from the course.

If this first program is successful, there is a possibility of adding an advanced training program, he said.

Last night about 60 of the 120 students registered for the course heard Kenworthy speak on the University's organization and also heard the new Women's Student Government Association President Jessie Janjigan speak on student government reorganization.

Ettleson said that only a tentative schedule of future speakers has been drawn up.

Student Driver Charged With Leaving Accident

Donald R. Fralic, sophomore in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Pittsburgh, was charged with failure to stop at the scene of an accident Sunday when the car he was driving allegedly collided with the rear of a car owned by Darwin Braund of Klinger Heights, causing an estimated $350 damages, police said.

No one was injured in the accident in the 100 block of W. Hamilton Ave. where the Braund car was parked with a flat tire.

have given out. Forty-nine non-student tickets were sold in the first day.

Distribution of tickets will continue from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk. Non-student tickets cost $1.35.

The 8-person company, featuring Emily Frankel, will perform five numbers. Rocco Variations, done in classical ballet style, will follow closely the framework of the Tchaikovsky music.

Miss Frankel will dance the second number, "Child's Play." She did the choreography for the music by Benjamin Britten.

A jazz medley, "Diamond Backs," is the story of an East New York City teenage gang. It is divided into four scenes. The first scene depicts "Joy Ride"; the second, "Robbery"; the third, "Blues"; and the fourth "Blow-off at the Juke Box."

Members of the gang will be identified by the color on their backs. Ronnie Lee, co-featured with Miss Frankel, will be the leader of the gang.

"Haunted Moments" shows the reactions of people to sounds. Reactions will be shown to a train, telephone, clock, laughter, cash register and a crowd.

Final number on the program will be "Still Point." The music is Debussy's Quartet Opus 10. The dance will feature Miss Frankel and Terence Miller.

Besides Miss Frankel, choreography for the group has been done by Todd Bolender, currently choreographing for the New York City Ballet; Sophie Maslow, who has been choreographic director for the New York City Opera; and Zachary Solow, choreographer for the Metropolitan Opera.
