than the present Rec Hall gymnasium"

The third step in the building plans, McCoy said, is to knock out the rear wall of the present Rec Hall site and move the wall "back about 90 feet." This would increase the seating capacity by some 3500-4000 without even including the additional bleachers and chairs that could be set-up on the main floor. In addition, McCoy added, the lighting and acoustics would be improved greatly

There are also immediate plans calling for the addition of tennis courts and softball playing areas.

McCoy said that long range plans call for the construction of a much-needed field house, but admitted that "it will probably be 10 years before we have one."

"The field house is necessary from both the spectator's and athlete's point of view," McCoy said, "but the GSA can not build one for us. Money for a field house will have to come from funds other than the state."

McCoy hinted that the field house addition may be combined with a "multi-purpose building" and will not be the familiar type of field house.

"It would be used not only for athletes but also for speeches, meetings, graduation exercises, dances, concerts and the like," McCoy said. "And it would not have a dirt floor but would be surfaced."

"But that's a long way off," he said "Right now, we're hoping for the funds to start building the new wings."

McCoy to Head EIWA

Ernest B. McCoy, athletic director at The Pennsylvania State University, has been elected to succeed Col. Earl Blaik as president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association.

Judicial--

tions on individual board of control membership.

The debate arose on the question of why membership and functions of Women's Student Government Association Judicial were not stipulated in the committee report.

Instead, the report stated policy of the new WSGA constitution of February would be followed.

Siders said WSGA was considering reorganization at the same time as his committee and essentially the same ideas were incorporated in both programs.

Discussion followed as to whether specific rules should be set down for Judicial and also as to whether the Interfraternity Council Board of Control and Panhellenic Board of Control should have the same stipulations.

Frymoyer made a motion to strike out the membership stipulations for the On Campus Tribunals, WSGA Judicial, IFC Board of Control and the Panhel board

After further discussion on this motion, Cabinet voted 17-5 in a straw vote in favor of dropping these stipulations and then sent it back to committee.

The general proposed setup of the new judicial system will be explained in tomorrow's Collegian.

NCAA Gym Schedule And Scoring Methods

Two preliminary sessions in the NCAA Gymnastic Championships will be held today beginning at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. (West Coast time).

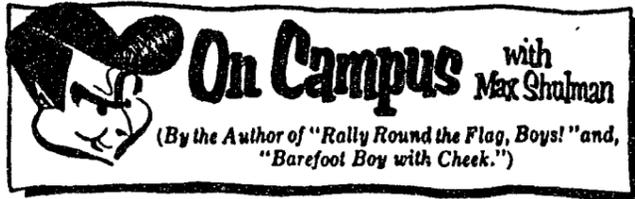

The ten top scorers will qualify for Saturday evening's final session.

This afternoon's preliminary events are free exercise*, high bars*, still rings*, side horse*, and rope climb. This evening's prelim events are parallel bars*, long horse vault*, trampoline, flying rings and tumbling.

*Denotes all-around events. Team points are awarded in all 11 events on an 11-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Due to the three-hour time lapse (the evening session ends at 3 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) Collegian will be unable to obtain the results of the evening's preliminaries for its Saturday edition.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 2

Today, with earnestness and sobriety, we make the second of our forays into social science. We take up the most basic of all social sciences—sociology itself.

Sociology teaches us that man is a social animal. It is not instinct or heredity that determines his conduct; it is environment. This fact is vividly borne out when you consider the case of Julio Sigafos.

Julio, abandoned as an infant in a dark wood near Cleveland, was adopted by a pack of wild dogs and reared as one of their own. When Julio was found by a hunter at the age of twelve, the poor child was more canine than human. He ran on all fours, barked and growled, ate raw meat, lapped water with his tongue, and could neither speak nor understand one single word. In short, he was a complete product of his environment.

Julio, incidentally, was more fortunate than most wild children. They never become truly humanized, but Julio was exceptional. Bit by bit, he began to talk and walk and eat and drink as people do. His long-dormant mental processes, when awakened at last, turned out to be fantastically acute. He was so bright that he learned to read and write in a month, got through grammar school in three years, and high school in two. And last June as thousands of spectators, knowing the odds Julio had overcome, stood and raised cheer after cheer, he was graduated valedictorian from Cal Tech with a degree in astrophysics!

Who can say to what towering heights this incredible boy would have risen had he not been killed the day after commencement while chasing a car?

But I digress. To return to sociology, people tend to gather in groups—a tendency that began, as we all know, with the introduction of Marlboro Cigarettes. What an aid to sociability they are! How benignly one looks upon one's fellows after puffing on Marlboro's filter that really filters, on Marlboro's flavor that's really flavorful. How eager it makes one to extend the hand of friendship! How grateful we all are to Marlboro for making possible this togetherness! How good not to live in the bleak pre-Marlboro world with every man a stranger!

The groups that people live in today (thanks to Marlboro) vary widely in their customs. What is perfectly acceptable in one society may be quite outlandish in another. Take, for instance, the case of Ug Van Wyck.

Ug, a Polynesian lad, grew up in an idyllic South Sea isle where the leading event of the year was the feast of Max, the sun god. A quaint all-day ceremony was held, with tribal dancing, war chants, fat-lady races, pie-eating contests, and, for the grand finale, the sacrifice of two dozen maidens.

According to Ug's folkways, sacrificing maidens was entirely acceptable, but when, in his eighteenth year, he was sent as an exchange student to the University of Wisconsin, he soon learned that Americans take a dim view of this practice—in Wisconsin, at any rate. The first fifteen or twenty maidens Ug sacrificed, he was let off with a warning. When, however, he persisted, drastic measures were taken: he was depledged by his fraternity. A broken man, Ug quit school and moved to Milwaukee where today he earns a meager living as a stein.

For real sociability, provide Marlboro's for filter smokers and Philip Morris for non-filter smokers. Both are made by the Philip Morris company; both sponsor this column; both are tops!
