

Ike, Macmillan Confer On Summit Conference

GETTYSBURG (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported last night to have disagreed with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's proposal that the West make a firm offer of a summertime summit conference with Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Authoritative informants said Eisenhower stuck to his view that such a high level parley must hinge on whether a prior foreign ministers meeting succeeds in easing East-West tension.

The two leaders reaffirmed their determination to stand firm against Soviet threats to West Berlin.

Eisenhower and Macmillan sat down to outline their personal views after having a 57-minute talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles about the Berlin crisis.

The meeting with Dulles took place in Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, where Dulles has been under treatment for cancer. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who accompanied Macmillan to Camp David, took part in this session.

The ailing Dulles was understood to have stressed the need to avoid any proposals which would bolster the Allied foothold in Berlin at the cost of freezing the present East-West division of Germany.

Macmillan is reported by some informants to favor negotiating a deal with the U.S.S.R. which would preserve Allied rights in Berlin by giving the Western sector an international status.

This is understood to be one of the differences to be threshed out. Top U.S. officials are highly skeptical of such an approach unless it is part of a broad understanding with the Soviets which will advance Germany unity.

Disarmament and European security promised to figure as the main talking point in today's sessions. Eisenhower asked three of his top experts in this field to join him in the morning—Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles, Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone, and Eisenhower's special scientific adviser, James R. Killian.

Bill Would Force Peaceful Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. General William P. Rogers yesterday revealed an administration plan to enforce peaceful integration by legal means.

Rogers, under fire from Southern senators yesterday, said the main point of the administration program would make it a federal crime to use force or threats of force to obstruct federal court orders in school integration cases.

The statement of attitude was made before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee. The Southern attack on Rogers was directed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D.-N.C.).

When white citizens of Little Rock, Ark., violently resisted efforts to admit nine Negroes to the city's Central High School in 1957, President Eisenhower sent federal troops there.

Rogers told the senators that use of troops is the only weapon the federal government now has to prevent mob violence in such a situation, and it would prefer the new law he proposed.

This would make it punishable, by up to two years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine, to interfere with a valid integration order from a federal court.

Sen. Ervin complained that the administration was proposing to single out violence in school cases for prosecution, without paying any attention to violence in labor troubles, etc.

"For the life of me, I can't see why the federal government should be more concerned about violence in one field than another," Ervin protested.

Anything for a Record

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Twenty-five youths from the Durban YMCA today claimed they had packed themselves into a telephone booth to set a record in the new international craze.

When they were all packed in, the phone rang. None of the human sardines could answer it.

18 Iroquois Attempt To Capture Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—A small band of Iroquois and western Indians, already rebuffed at the White House, tried yesterday to place Indian Affairs Commissioner Glenn L. Emmons under "citizens arrest."

Trooping into his outer office at the Interior Department, they charged Emmons with malfeasance and nonfeasance in office for permitting alleged crimes against North American Indians.

Emmons, forewarned of the visit, was reported in conference and refused to come out. The Indians denounced his action as "fear and cowardice."

Spokesmen for the 18 Indians addressed their complaints to Emmons' secretary and then departed to try to get help at embassies of Great Britain and others.

The Indians, from the Six Nations Confederacy of New York State and Canada, and from some western tribes, claim they have been unable to get redress for their grievances through any other legal and official channels. They are complaining that their lands have been taken away illegally and treaties have been violated.

They are part of a group of 100 who came to Washington Wednesday and tried first to see President Eisenhower. Brig. Gen. Herbert C. Holdridge of Sherman Oaks, Calif., a retired Army officer and one of their spokesmen, said Emmons was breaking the Constitution by not acting in the Indians' behalf and they had the right to arrest him as they would a man committing a felony in the streets.

He said they had "massive evidence" to back their claims and the group of 18 was said to include witnesses to seven specific charges.

Emmons' secretary, who announced she is an Oklahoma Indian herself, is pretty, 32-year-old Mrs. Evelyn W. Massey. She stood the brunt of the visitors' verbal attacks on her boss but steadfastly refused to let them into Emmons' inner office.

Clark Spends $2,570 From Personal Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D.-Pa.) reported yesterday he spent $2750 of his own money last year on matters "directly connected with my job as senator."

Clark said that in addition he made political contributions and incurred political expenses of more than $7000 during that same period.

Nevertheless, Clark said, in a letter to constituents: "I believe this money was well spent and in the public interest."

Economist Advocates Pump-Priming

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harvard economist Sumner Slichter said yesterday the government should plan a $3 billion deficit next fiscal year to create jobs, while cutting all tariffs to check inflation.

His unorthodox testimony jolted the Senate-House Economic Committee at the start of its investigation into the problem of achieving economic growth without inflation.

Republican members protested Slichter's plan for pump-priming. They recoiled from his view that some inflation is inescapable if the country is to have full employment. In incredulous tones, they questioned his statement that creeping inflation is "by no means as disastrous" as many believe.

Democratic members, many of whom blame rising prices chiefly on big business, winced at Slichter's testimony that the wage demands of powerful unions are the foremost cause of higher living costs.

The chairman, Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), wound up by thanking Slichter for his ideas, but adding ruefully: "I don't think there is a single sacred cow you haven't kicked."

Slichter recommended that all tariffs and import quotas be abolished over a 10-year period.

The drastic tariff-cutting move, he said, would expose American industry to more competition, stiffen its resistance to excessive wage demands, and spur all businessmen to a search for greater efficiency and inventiveness.

However, Slichter gave joblessness priority over prices as a national problem. With unemployment still at recession levels, he said, immediate need is to create a greater demand for goods.

"The government would be wise in my judgment to plan a deficit of several billion dollars in the cash budget for the fiscal year 1960," he asserted.

President Eisenhower has asked a balanced budget of $77 billion for that year, which starts next July 1.

Douglas Criticizes Car Extravagance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) suggested yesterday that President Eisenhower and other top executive officials cut back the number of government limousines from 99 to 35.

"Our top officials in the administration could begin to practice what they preach about inflation and economy," the Illinois Democrat said in a prepared Senate speech.

Douglas was critical also of the rental arrangement under which 39 of the cars were provided at $500 a year each by the Big Three automobile manufacturers—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

He said that is less than depreciation on the $3000 and $10,000 machines.

Army Lowers Draft Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army yesterday issued a draft call for 6000 men in May. This is the lowest monthly quota since the same number was called up in January 1956.

The May quota is 1000 less than the previously announced draft for April and 2000 less than it was for March.
