By CATHY FLECK

The student body will not go to the polls this month uninformed on student government reorganization—an extensive campaign covering all media of communication will be conducted to explain the plan.

Banquet Skit To Lampoon Higher-Ups

By BOB THOMPSON

Administration officials and Campus leaders are basting themselves.

Basting themselves for a roasting that will be given them at the 22nd annual Gridiron Banquet that gets under way tonight at 6:30 in the State College Hotel.

The banquet features a skit satirizing University officials, townspeople, and student leaders. It was written by David Fineman, senior in journalism from Pittsburgh, and Richard Drayne, senior in arts and letters from Pittsburgh.

The lampooning skit features a Congressional Investigating Committee's inspection trip to State College to approve the University for a guided missile site.

The administration will have its chance to get back at the lampooners though. They will be represented by a high administration official who at present prefers to remain anonymous.

Guests at the banquet include President Eric A. Walker, Robert G. Bernreuter, special assistant to the president and dean of admissions and registrar, Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs; Frank J. Simes, dean of men, and various other University officials. Campus leaders, in the person of All-University president Jay Feldstein and others, as well as downtown merchants and civic leaders will attend.

Toastmaster for the stag banquet will be Milton Bergstein, manager of radio station WMAJ. The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain.

outlined his committee's tentative plans to educate the students on all phases of the plan.

The campaign is being planned in view of the referendum to be conducted along with the All-University elections, April 21, 22, and 23. Students voting in these elections will also vote for or against reorganization.

Seven methods are being planned for the campaign program. Pictorial diagrams of the new system will be displayed in the Hetzel Union Building and Waring Hall. The diagrams will be simple with space allowed to insert pictures of the candidates running for executive and legislative offices.

The committee is also planning a rally tentatively scheduled for April 20. The rally may include a band, a short explanation of the plan and speeches by the candidates if both political parties are willing to cooperate.

Thalimer also said he has contacted several persons connected with closed circuit TV classes for permission to give simple explanations of the new system during class breaks.

He also plans to contact the political science department to see if professors would be willing to devote some class time to an educational discussion on the system. This would probably be done in the political science 3 and 4 classes if cooperation is given. Thalimer said.

Letters will be sent to the presidents of fraternities, sororities and the various living units to be read and posted.

Reorganization will be broadcast over radio station WDFM's Forum of the Air this coming Tuesday. Wilbur Lewellen, station manager, will serve as moderator and All-University President Jay Feldstein, Thalimer, and a member of the committee will discuss the plan.

Three open committee meetings tentatively scheduled for April 8, 13 and 14 will be held to explain the plan and answer any questions that students ask regarding the new system.

Society Will Aid Foreign Students

By BARBARA YUNK

Mortar Board, senior women's hat society, will institute a program of counseling in the fall semester for the women students of foreign countries enrolled in the graduate school.

The need for such a program was determined through interviews with Mrs. Rebecca Doerner, administration assistant in the office of International Student Affairs, and with some of the foreign students presently attending the University.

These students were asked to suggest areas in which the counseling is particularly needed. This information was coordinated with parts of the usual freshman orientation schedule to form the counseling program.

The counseling will be conducted on a friendship basis, with one member of Mortar Board assigned to help each woman student from a foreign country.

The program will include tours to acquaint the women with the campus and informal discussions dealing with two of the biggest areas of difficulty, money and food. These talks will be designed to give some idea of where various items can be purchased and an estimate of how much they should cost. Members of Mortar Board will take the students to dinner in restaurants to familiarize them with different types of American food and American table manners.

According to Mrs. Doerner the University is not planning to enroll more than five or six foreign women students, so these students will serve as a test group to determine the benefits of the program.

Cabinet Approves Constitution Bylaws

All-University Cabinet adopted the bylaws of the Student Government Association constitution Thursday night, thus leaving only the final approval of the judicial system before the entire plan goes before students in a referendum vote.

The reorganized judicial system will be introduced for the third and final approval at the next Cabinet meeting April 16.

Only minor changes concerning election campaigning were made during Thursday's second and final reading of the bylaws.

Cabinet deleted one section which forbade "campaigning of any nature" in a classroom building. Members felt this would outlaw any sort of personal contact as might occur in conversation in these buildings.

Permanent posters inside store windows and painted window displays will be allowed in campaigns but no posters of any type will be permitted on the exterior of buildings.

Campaigning disapproved by the Elections Commission may lead to disqualification of the candidate from the elections. If the commission rules on a disqualification, the defendant may appeal to the Student Government Association assembly.

The approved bylaws include establishing a Rules Committee. This committee would make all appointments to legislative committees, prepare assembly agendas, make special rules of procedure in the assembly and decide the validity of alternates.

Concerning elections for Assembly seats, the bylaws specify that 30 per cent of the sophomore membership will be elected in the spring, 60 per cent of the junior members and 80 per cent of the seniors.

All freshman assemblymen will be elected in the fall, together with 70 per cent of the sophomores, 40 per cent of the juniors and 20 per cent of the seniors.

Health Discussion Will Be Televised

University students will attempt to answer the question, "Is anybody healthy?" at 2 p.m. tomorrow when the University discussion program, "Bull Session," is televised on WFBG, Channel 10, Altoona.

Seven students will explore the need for greater emphasis on mental health with Dr. Leon Galloway, associate professor of psychology, in the role of discussion leader.

Participating will be Donna Tubbs, Homer Greene, Grady White, John Behler, Mary Masters, and Alan Elms.

"Now reah-ly dah-ling, don't fret. Your Afghan will turn up in COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS."

Veterans Said to Be Better Students

Young men are better prepared to take advantage of higher education after military service than they are before. Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, dean of admissions and special assistant for student affairs, told a Congressional subcommittee.

"It is now clear that veterans have shown themselves to be better students than non-veterans through their more serious applications to studies, through their earning of higher grades, through a smaller drop-out rate, and through better discipline and citizenship," Bernreuter said.

In testifying before the Senate Subcommittee on Veterans Affairs March 25 in Washington, Bernreuter said he would give preference to those students seeking admission to the University who have served on active duty in the Armed Forces. "This policy of giving preference to a veteran is not based upon sentimentality," he said.

But this policy is based upon the results of studies contrasting the accomplishments of veterans with non-veterans. A University study just completed shows that veterans make better scholastic records than do non-veterans, he said.

"Another indication of the extent to which veterans make better use of their opportunities is shown in the percentage of students who quit before graduating. Among last year's freshmen more than one-third of the non-veterans quit while less than one-fourth of the veterans did not return," he said.

Still another reason for preferring veterans has been found through a study of disciplinary actions the University has had to take involving undergraduate students. Bernreuter said. Out of 1587 veterans enrolled at the University, only four were involved in disciplinary actions, he said.

Veterans consistently receive higher ratings in desirable attributes than do students who have not had military experience, Bernreuter said. From this we conclude that military service contributes, rather than detracts from, the ability of young men to derive the maximum benefit from higher education, he said.

Bernreuter testified on Senate Bill 1138 which would continue "GI Bill" benefits to veterans during peace as well as war time. The University was one of four schools represented at the hearing.
