

Today's Forecast:
Showers,
Mild

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Sound Reasons
Needed
See Page 4

VOL. 59, No. 116

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1959

FIVE CENTS

Nobel Scientist To Give Speech

By JANET BEAHAN

Teacher, humanitarian and Nobel prize-winning scientist Dr. Linus Pauling, will speak at 8 p.m., April 22, in Schwab Auditorium on "Research for Peace."

Pauling has made outstanding donations to the fields of chemistry, physics, geology, biology and medicine. In 1954, he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Chemistry for his research into the nature of the chemical bond. For many years, he has donated his spare time to world peace and especially the preventing of nuclear war.

He has worked with such distinguished scientists as Albert Einstein and Harold Urey in an effort to abolish the testing of nuclear weapons.

Early in 1958 he placed in the hands of the secretary-general of the United Nations a petition signed by nearly 11,000 scientists from 44 countries urging that an international agreement to stop the testing of nuclear bombs be made.

He has joined other scientists in many petitions, conferences and appeals toward this end. The Pugwash Conference was one of a number of these. This conference, held in Nova Scotia in 1957, dealt with the necessity and requirements to end war, the hazards of war and the positive need for disarmament.

In Pauling's recent book, "No More War!" he gives the hideous results a nuclear war would present. He explains the force behind a nuclear blast and the effects of the radioactive fallout which follows.

He points out how radiation causes untold numbers of cases of leukemia, bone cancer and deformed and mentally retarded children. In the final chapter of his book, he proposes the establishment of a world government.

(Continued on page four)

Warm Night Starts Short Disturbance

A sizeable number of West Halls students took advantage of last night's warm, sultry weather to stroll about their quadrangle in the late evening—to the accompaniment of fireworks, flashbulbs, a public address system and a police force of harried counselors.

The student demonstration started around 10 p.m. and gradually broke up about 20 minutes later. At its height it was sparked by small congregations of students in the quadrangle trying to organize, spurred on by the cries of many others who were crowded by the windows on all sides of the square urging the demonstrators toward the women's dorms.

The group never moved from the quadrangle, and despite a great deal of noise the demonstration seemed to break up easily in the face of the counselors, who spilled out quickly and ordered groups of students back to their rooms.

The demonstration, according to bystanders, arranged earlier in the evening by phone calls to the various hall units. The first "call to arms" was scheduled for 7:45, but fizzled quickly.

But the later meeting was noisier, and by 10 there were large numbers of students milling in the quadrangle.

The yelling from the windows increased sharply when a few firecrackers went off, and the crowds of students who appeared at the doors of the dorm units seemed about to touch off a genuine "panty raid." But most of the students didn't go beyond the doors, and the appearance of counselors dispersed the crowd in a short time.

'A' Store to Take Cap, Gown Orders

Graduating seniors may order their caps and gowns from the Athletic Store anytime before May 23, three weeks before graduation.

Seniors ordering their gowns after this date will be charged an additional $1 and the Athletic Store will not guarantee delivery for June 6.

The gowns, which may be picked up June 3 to 6, must be returned immediately after the graduation ceremonies are completed.

Spring Awards Night To Feature Jazz

By JEFF POLLACK

Jazz Singer Chris Connor and the Kai Winding Septet will appear at the annual Spring Week Award's Night April 29.

Awards for the winners of Spring Week events and the coronation of Miss Penn State will also be on the program.

Miss Connor, who got her start in 1948 with the Bobby Brookmeyer band, will be making a return appearance to the campus. She was sponsored by the Jazz Club in 1956.

Winding will also be returning for the second time. He appeared with his former partner J. J. Johnson in a 1956 Schwab concert.

The 28-year-old trombonist got his start with the Woody Herman band. He teamed with Johnson in 1955 and 1956. After their division, he formed his own group.

Miss Connor, born in Kansas City, worked with the Stan Kenton Orchestra in 1953 and has appeared at the Newport Jazz Festival for the past two years.

Winding has also been at the festival for the past two years.

"All About Ronnie" was Miss Connor's first hit. She has been recording and doing nightclub work and concerts.

The first event of the night will be the coronation of Miss Penn State, followed by the entertainment which is expected to last from one to two hours. Then awards will be made to Spring Week winners. Tickets for the award's night program are $1.

This year's Spring Week theme is "Stories of the Ages." The

(Continued on page four)

WHO WANTS TO GO FIRST?—Crowds congregate in West Halls quadrangle during last night's demonstration. There were cries of "panty raid," but counselors quickly urged the students back into their rooms.

(See Story Left)

AM Rejected as Not Needed for Education

By BOB FRANKLIN

Collegian Editor

Editorial on Page 4

The 1958 Senior Class Gift was modified primarily because the University does not need an AM radio station to strengthen its educational program, according to Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs.

Dennis said Monday he believes the University would not establish an AM station, even in the event of complete student financing, unless it is convinced the station is necessary to furthering the instructional program.

But he said "this does not rule out an AM station for the University for all time, by any means."

The 1958 Senior Class voted its gift of approximately $10,000 to provide AM radio facilities for student FM radio station WDFM.

The Board of Trustees in January voted to accept the gift, with the provision that if AM facilities could be gained through suitable "contractual arrangements" with existing commercial radio, the money would go to the College of the Liberal Arts "to further the training of students in the mass communication media."

(Continued on page two)

Reorganization To Be Clarified

A campaign to inform the student body of the reorganization plan will begin tonight with an open reorganization committee meeting.

The committee, headed by Dan Thalmer, will meet at 7 p.m. in 111 Boucke Building.

The members will discuss the basis for the present student government system headed by All-University Cabinet and will then go into the background and principles of the reorganization plan. An open question and answer period will be held throughout the meeting so that the committee can answer any questions that students pose regarding the plan.

A limited number of reorganization constitutions will be available to students at the Hetzel Union desk.

Clouds and Rain Forecast for Today

Mostly cloudy skies will prevail today with showers this morning. Temperatures will not be as warm as yesterday with afternoon readings in the lower 60's.

Skies will clear somewhat tonight as northwest winds transport colder air into the state. The low will be 38 degrees.

Tomorrow will see an increase in cloudiness as a return flow of moisture from the Gulf of Mexico sets the stage for rain Thursday night and Friday.

Spring Week Chairmen To Hear Rules Tonight

Chairmen of groups participating in Spring Week will meet at 8:30 tonight in 10 Sparks to hear rules and instructions explained.

Juri Niiler, co-chairman of the week, said it is important all chairmen attend to hear changes in the program and the explanations.

Adenauer Resigns As Chancellor To Take Over As President

BONN, Germany (P)—Konrad Adenauer's decision Tuesday to surrender his West German chancellorship for the less important presidency stunned German politicians and world diplomats alike.

Ludwig Erhard, 62-year-old economics minister and architect of Germany's postwar business recovery, was expected to take over next September the leadership laid down by the 83-year-old Adenauer.

The choice of a chancellor will be up to Adenauer's ruling Christian Democratic party if Adenauer is elected president, and there was little doubt of Adenauer's election.

The chancellor is the main executive in Germany. Under the Bonn constitution he determines the policy and bears the responsibility for it. The presidency is largely ceremonial, having powers about equivalent to those of Queen Elizabeth II in Britain.

The decision of Adenauer, crusty and uncompromising leader of West Germany through its entire 10-year history, means he will be giving up active politics.

But Adenauer will still be at the helm when crucial East-West meetings take place this spring and summer.

In Washington, it was believed that Adenauer's less active role might have profound effects on policies of the Western powers, facing critical decisions in their relations with the Soviet Union.

British officials greeted the prospective change with satisfaction though with no public comment. In recent weeks there has been a rift in the personal relationship between Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who believes the West must take a more flexible attitude in negotiations with Moscow.

Candidates for SGA To Begin Campaigns

By JANET DURSTINE

The campus will be swarming with eager office-seekers beginning at 8 a.m. Monday.

Candidates for Student Government offices, Junior and senior class presidents and sophomore, junior and senior assembly seats will begin defending platforms and making promises next week. The candidates will speak in residence halls and fraternity houses, but neither party has determined the exact places yet.

All-University Elections Committee will review party platforms with the party chairmen and campaign managers at 7:30 tonight in 9 Carnegie, not in the HUB as previously announced.

Both parties' posters, with pictures and qualifications of the candidates, are expected to be placed Monday.

Elections will be held April 14, 15 and 16. Voting will be decentralized again this semester—polling places will be set up in Boucke Building, the Hetzel Union Building, Sparks Building, Sackett Building, Home Economics Building and somewhere on Ag Hill.

Candidates for Student Government Association president are Leonard Julius, Campus party, and Arthur Miltenberger, University party. Larry Byers, Campus party, will oppose Carl Smith, University party, for SGA vice president. Sherry Parkin, Campus party, and Nancy Clark, University party, will run for SGA secretary-treasurer.

Candidates for junior class (Continued on page two)