

WMAJ Offers Time, Facilities

By BOB FRANKLIN
Collegian Editor

State College commercial radio station has proposed to supply facilities, funds and time to train students, according to Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs.

The proposals were made in connection with the Board of Trustees decision to modify the 1958 Senior Class Gift, funds for campus AM radio facilities.

ICCB Elects Epstein As Chairman

David Epstein, junior in arts and letters from Scranton, was unanimously elected chairman of the Inter-College Council Board, Monday night.

Epstein, president of the Liberal Arts Student Council, ran for the chairmanship unopposed.

Irving Klein, president of the Chemistry-Physics Student Council, was elected vice chairman of ICCB and Dorothy Newman, president of the Education Student Council, was elected secretary-treasurer.

ICCB's new constitution was also ratified by new members at the meeting which both this year's and next year's members attended.

Outgoing president of the Agriculture Student Council Robert LaBar said, "We don't want to impose a constitution on the new members, they should vote on it."

The new constitution gave the president of the Division of Counseling Student Council a vote at ICCB meetings and created the vice-chairmanship to handle council elections.

LaBar advised the new ICCB members to amend the section of their constitution concerning aims and goals to include more definite goals than coordination of college activities.

"We're going to have to prove a reason for our existence . . . the new assembly could set up a committee to coordinate college affairs," he said.

However, outgoing chairman Donald Zepp predicted, "ICCB is going to come up almost equal to the new assembly."

WSGA To Explain Big Sister Plan

Members of the Women's Student Government Association Big-Little Sister Committee will hold meetings tonight in women's residence halls to explain the Big Sister program planned for next fall.

The program was started this year to help freshman women feel more at home when they arrived on campus for the first time. Little sisters are assigned to upper-classwomen in the same curriculum and, when possible, from the same home location.

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors may pick up applications at the meetings tonight. Big sister requirements are a 2. all-university average and a character reference from the coed's hostess.

According to Dorothea Harms, committee chairman, a big sister has two responsibilities. She must write during the summer telling her little sister about campus activities, courses, dress and customs and then visit her in September to personally welcome her to the campus.

Miss Harms said that freshmen who had big sisters this year were glad to have someone to turn to when they had personal problems and questions.

Applications should be returned to dormitory hostesses by April 12. Big sisters will be sent their little sister's address around the first week in August.

Town women may get applications at their meeting or at the Hetzel Union desk.

Warsaw Prof Will Lecture

Two lectures will be presented today by Thadeusz Kotarbinski, president of the Polish Academy of Sciences and professor of philosophy at the University of Warsaw.

A public lecture is scheduled for 8 p.m. in 121 Sparks, when he will discuss "The Fundamental Principles of Ethics." He will speak at 4 p.m. in 217 Willard to the philosophy staff on "The Principles of Concretism."

Kotarbinski, who is being brought here as the ninth in the Distinguished Lecturer in Philosophy series, is on a month's visit of American universities at the invitation of the Ford Foundation.

Pre-registration Open For Summer Classes

By DENNY MALICK

Students planning to attend any of the summer sessions this year may pre-register for courses anytime before April 30.

Dr. Palmer C. Weaver, dean of Summer Sessions, yesterday urged students to take advantage of the pre-registration period in order to eliminate the bother of doing so during the summer.

In order to pre-register, a student must consult with his adviser and obtain approval for all courses. He must fill out registration forms for each session he plans to attend.

A complete announcement for summer classes has been published and may be obtained in the Office of Summer Sessions, 4 Willard. The announcement contains timetables for each session and information on fees, registration, course descriptions, housing and food service, graduate study and other general information.

Summer sessions will begin June 8.

Under a new program adopted for this year two 6-week sessions will be offered especially for undergraduate students. The previous 3-week-6-week-3-week program has been retained but this will be geared mainly for high school teachers and other graduate students.

Dates for the sessions are: Inter-session, June 8-26; mid session, June 29 to Aug. 7; post session, Aug. 10-28; first 6-week session, June 8 to July 17; second 6-weeks session, July 20 to Aug. 28.

Weaver said the extra 6-week sessions offer undergraduates a continuous program which will make possible graduation in three or three and one-half years.

Student Placed On Probation

A sixth semester student has been placed on disciplinary probation until June by Tribunal with the approval of the dean of men's office.

The student was charged with having a disorderly party in a downtown apartment. The owner of the apartment claimed that those who attended the party caused damages to the elevator and the corridor outside the apartment.

The student was also charged with signing for one half keg and two quarter kegs of beer even though he is not 21 years of age.

The student was responsible for allowing women students in the apartment which is a violation of a University rule.

The recommendation of Tribunal was referred to and approved by the Senate subcommittee on discipline.

WSGA Judicial Issues Penalties To 134 Coeds

Freshman Regulations Board and the Women's Student Government Association Judicial Board issued 97 blackmarks, 32 1 a.m. removals, one lenient and two strict weekend campuses and two strict week campuses yesterday.

Sixty-one blackmarks were given for signing in or out incorrectly for vacation, 19 for one to four minute lateness, 9 for disorderly rooms when leaving for vacation, 6 for excessive noise and 2 for failure to have a guest sign in or out properly.

One o'clock removals were given to 32 women students who signed out incorrectly for Easter vacation. One woman student received a lenient weekend campus for the same offense.

Two strict weekend campuses were given for dating on a traveling one and for a drinking offense. Although the woman student was over 21, the board penalized her because it thought her conduct was unbecoming to a Penn State woman.

Two strict week campuses were issued for first drinking offenses. Letters will be sent to the two offenders' homes.

The Daily Collegian reporter was barred from hearing one of the cases. The only explanation given was that the board felt it would be best that the reporter not be present.

The trustees accepted the gift, with the stipulation that if instructional needs could be met through contract with a private station, then the funds would be allocated to the College of the Liberal Arts "to further the training of students in the mass communications media."

Dennis said Monday if the University's negotiations with WMAJ are concluded satisfactorily, the money probably will be used for such projects as scholarships and internships for communications students.

None of the gift money would go to WMAJ, he said.

Specifically, Dennis named as included in the WMAJ proposals:

- Turning over to the University a room in WMAJ's Glennland Building studios.

- Aid in training communication students.

- Use of tape recorders.

- Running a direct wire from WMAJ into Carnegie Building.

Concerning progress on the talks with WMAJ, Dennis said,

"all we've done with them is to sit down and start negotiating." He said on March 18 that he expected some sort of agreement, possibly a long term contract, to be reached within a month.

"We would certainly like to begin this program by September," he said.

Two Profs Write Engineering Text

"Thermal Engineering," a college-level text co-authored by Charles Dillio and Edwin P. Nye, associate professors of mechanical engineering, has just been published.

This text embodies a new approach in the teaching of engineering thermodynamics. The chapters on application were written before the introduction which gives clarity and brevity, the authors claim.

Dillio, a graduate of the University, also taught at Rensselaer, and has written a text on refrigeration.

Apathy Shown Toward Reorganization

By CATHY FLECK

The reorganization committee last night faced an empty room at an open meeting called to touch off a campaign to inform the student body of the new SGA plan.

Not one student attended the first of three scheduled meetings designed to explain the new reorganization plan passed on final form by All-University Cabinet last week.

The meetings were to be one part of a campaign planned for the next two weeks prior to the All-University elections at which time the plan will go before the student body in a referendum.

Daniel Thalmer, reorganization chairman, expressed his disappointment at the lack of interest shown by students in the principles of reorganization which were to be discussed at the meeting.

He said he hoped that the next meeting would be a great improvement over this one.

All-University president Jay Feldstein also expressed his disappointment over the lack of interest on the part of the student body "to acquaint themselves with the facts of the plan for their own future benefit."

Feldstein said he believed that the lack of attendance was due to the fact that the realization of the importance of this step forward in student government has not been made fully apparent to the student body.

He said further that "after a full year of difficult work by the reorganization committee directed toward helping students get a more efficient and worthwhile student government, it is rather disheartening to find such apparent disinterest."
