Gov. Lawrence plans to sign the measure into law at 10 a.m. signaling to Pennsylvanians that they must start paying the increased rate immediately.

In addition to increasing the rate, the legislation extends the sales tax for the first time to

New Talent Listing To Be Made

Groups interesting in having new and different entertainment programs will be able to find talent readily with the new "Talent Directory" which is being established by the Social and Recreational Advisory Committee of the University.

Forms will be distributed at the Hetzel Union desk which talented individuals or groups may complete. These forms will be kept available for any organization to use as a source for obtaining entertainment for planned programs.

The forms will contain information such as type of talent, number in the act, length of performance, cost, times available and other related facts.

Students with special talents have been urged to register at the HUB desk so these forms may be available as soon as possible.

The Social and Recreational Advisory Committee, a subcommittee of the Committee on Student Affairs, decided to establish the new talent directory as a result of student requests for entertainment sources. These requests came to the attention of the dean of men's and the dean of women's offices.

Altered Cards Get Induction Priority

Men who alter their date of birth on draft registration cards may be drafted ahead of other registrants under the provisions of any new draft regulations.

President Eisenhower signed the bill last week. The change was made because numerous minors have been changing their dates of birth on their registration cards to indicate they are adults and eligible to buy liquor or to be admitted to taverns.

Duplicate draft registration cards may be secured at the registrant's draft board if the registrant loses the original. These cards are marked "duplicate" in red letters across the top. Males must register for the draft within 30 days of their 18th birthday.

Debate on Platforms Reset for Sunday

The Campus-University party platform debate scheduled for tonight has been postponed until Sunday.

It will be broadcast from 9 to 9:55 p.m. Sunday over WMAJ only, according to Wilbur Lewellen, WDFM station manager who will serve as moderator of the debate.

The reason for the postponement, Lewellen said, was that neither the parties nor WDFM could get together on any one time tonight.

Representing University party in the debate will be Arthur Miltenberger, candidate for SGA president; Carl Smith, SGA vice president; Nancy Clark, SGA secretary-treasurer; Samuel Minor, senior class president; and Arthur Schneider, junior class president.

Speaking for Campus party will be Leonard Julius, candidate for SGA president; Larry Byers, SGA vice president; Sherry Parkin, SGA secretary-treasurer; Theodore Haller, senior class president, and Jack Crosby, junior class president.

Frank Pearson, University party chairman, said it had been agreed in advance that the discussion would be limited to party planks only.

Pearson, in an interview yesterday, took issue with Charles Steele, Campus party chairman, who yesterday said that town students could complain about their housing through Town Independent Men Council. (Continued on page five)

Exposition's Fate Said Up to Students

Student response will determine the future of the All-University Career Exposition opening today in the Hetzel Union Building, according to Donald Cook, assistant director of the Placement Service.

The exposition will be open from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. The large company displays are concentrated on the ground floor and card room, and the smaller displays of the associations are set up on the main floor.

This is the first time in the University's history that a career exposition has been held which is intended for students of all colleges and all levels.

If this first one is a success, a similar exposition will probably be held every year, according to Cook.

Cook said he intends to talk to representatives here for the exposition and learn what their opinion of it is.

Most of the 95 representatives who will be talking to students today and tomorrow at the All-University Career Exposition are in the college relations field of their respective companies.

Cook said the representatives would therefore be well-versed on all career opportunities within their companies. "They can really talk about careers; but aren't going to snow the student with all the 'glorious' accomplishments of their own companies," he said.

Jack Kendall, exposition chairman, said students would have to take the initiative by introducing themselves to representatives and explaining their backgrounds and ambitions. "These men aren't campaigning or recruiting," he said.

Students do not realize the broad career opportunities which exist in most companies, Kendall said. Representatives will explain to students what type of person and what specific curriculum he must be in to qualify for various positions within the company.

The "undecided" freshmen and sophomores could probably derive a great deal from talking to these representatives, according to Cook. When the student does make up his mind about his future career, he will have a better understanding of how to prepare for it, he said.

A banquet will be held tonight in the Nittany Lion Inn for all representatives and members of the faculty and student body who have worked on the exposition. Dr. William M. Smith Jr., professor of family relations, will speak at the dinner.
