Although hampered by lack of leadership in the midfield, the Penn State lacrosse team won a decisive 11-3 victory over Hobart Saturday.

"Our midfield play looked rather ragged out there Saturday," stated Coach Earnie Baer. "Only the heavy scoring of John Behne kept us as far ahead as we were." Baer went on.

"However, our defense was backing up better and Dave Wilkinson, our goalie, looked a lot better because his ankle is healing," said Coach Baer.

The Lions were lacking two of their top midfielders — Bob Swanson and Chip Henderson. Swanson, the chief playmaker of the team has been out since the Navy game but probably will see action at Cornell tomorrow. Henderson was injured in the Penn game but should also travel to Cornell.

The way the stickmen started off, it looked like they were heading for disaster. In the first 20 seconds of play Larry Atkinson charged from the faceoff and raced downfield unopposed to tally the first goal for Hobart.

For two full minutes the Nittany stickmen looked like the team that went down before Navy by the crushing score of 29-3. Their play was sloppy as Hobart kept control of the ball most of the time.

But finally Behne was able to post himself in front of the Hobart nets, and, snagging a short pass from Jim Kane, he completely outfaked the Hobart goalie and whipped it through for the first Lion tally.

A minute later, with Ray

Tuleya in the penalty box, Hobart pushed into the lead for its second and last time on another goal by Atkinson.

The Lions finally tied it up three minutes later when Kane caught a pass from Dick Hammond and fired it through for the goal.

Five minutes later the Baermen surged ahead on one of the best scoring plays of the game. Dick Janda started the play deep in Lion territory by taking a pass from the Lion defense. Janda ran it out to midfield, passed off to Hammond who in turn charged upfield. Hammond passed off to Dick Bullock in front of the goal and he pivoted around for the score.

Behne had one of his best goals of the game when he took a pass from Tuleya, and charged through the Hobart defense for a goal-bound whipping shot at the goal.

At the very beginning of the second quarter, Behne came through once again when he took a pass from Hammond, who had won a faceoff. Although he was opposed by two Hobart defensemen, Behne charged through and unleashed a shot that caught the goaltender completely off guard.

From then on the Lions were unbeatable as they piled up goal after goal. Behne scored two more to bring his total to five, while Bullock scored twice in the fourth period for his three tallies. Kane followed with two markers and Bill McDonough managed to grab a tally in the final minute of the game.

Dave Wilkinson played one of his best games this year as he chalked up 13 saves and held the Hobart attack to three goals.

Fareira cleared six feet in the high jump to salvage a tie for second place for the Nittanians. Pole vaulters Ron Beard and Dale Peters tied for third with 13-foot vaults.

Junior wrestler Sam Minor was honored twice last night at the annual wrestling banquet sponsored by the Penn State Wrestling Club.

The 147-pound Lion ace was elected captain of the 1960 mat team by his teammates and was awarded the William Neidig Trophy by the club as the outstanding wrestler of the past campaign.

Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Penn State Alumni Association, presented the Neidig Trophy to Minor. He also presented awards to two other Nittany grapplers, Hank Barone and George Gray.

Barone received the Kay Vinson Trophy as the most improved wrestler of the season. And Gray, who won the Vinson honor last year, was given the Penn State Wrestling Club Trophy, awarded to the senior with the best three-year record as a Lion matman.

Junior Dan Johnston also received an award last night—the William E. (Doc) Lewis Trophy given for spirit, courage, and loyalty. Dr. Bill Hoffman, former faculty member regarded as the "veteran" of Lion wrestling followers, made the presentation.

The new head wrestling manager was also named at the banquet. He is Norm Lutkefедder, a junior from Eddington, who replaces Tom Burns, a senior from Steubenville, Ohio. Sophomores Andrew Case, of Point Pleasant, Phil Cox, of Malvern, and Peter Laros, of Cornwells Heights, were elected to first manager posts.
